PASTOR RICHESON

To Answer Murder Charge on Date Set For His Wedding

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Rev. Clarence Vigil T. Richeson, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church in Cambridge, awoke today somewhat refreshed to begin his first full day in the Suffolk county jail on Charles street, where he is to remain until Tuesday, Oct. 24, the date which had been set for his marriage to Miss Violet Edmonds, daughter of Moses Grant Edmonds, a wealthy resident of the Chestnut Hill section of Brookline. Instead of being married on that day, the minister will appear in court on the charge of murdering his former sweetheart, Miss Avis Linnell, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Linnell of Hyannis, a student at the New England Conservatory of Music and a Sunday school teacher at Tremont Temple.

Seldom were more dramatic scenes enacted in the history of criminal cases than those of yesterday at the mansion of Moses Grant Edmonds of Brookline when Mr. Richeson was placed under arrest after the police had surrounded the house and sought admission for hours. Today the house is closed to all visitors. In the rooms where the decorations were soon to work their transformations with palms and flowers for the approaching wedding, invitations for which were recalled yesterday, all is stillness and sorrow.

Seek More Evidence
Today, the police officials, under the direction of Chief Inspector Dugan of the bureau of criminal investigation and Deputy Supt. of Police Watts, continued their work to complete evidence in the case and to supply the missing link in the chain already secured in connection with the murder. The active delivery of the poison to Miss Linnell is occupying a great deal of attention from the police. An effort is being made to ascertain who it was dined with the girl last Saturday afternoon only a few hours before her body was discovered.

Chief Dugan has learned that Mr. Richeson dined last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Frank Riley of Somerville, who has been a member of the Immanuel Baptist church many years. After throwing himself on a couch and exclaiming he had lost a dear friend, Richeson said she died of convulsions, according to the police account of Mrs. Riley's story. How he should know she died of convulsions is what the police seek to know.

Richeson Is Cool
In his cell Richeson remains cool and unshakable. He has made no statement, says Chief Inspector Dugan. A member of the Immanuel Baptist church today states that at the services at the church tomorrow a statement from Richeson would be read by the clergyman who would tell the pulpit in the absence of the pastor.

According to word received here, Miss L. V. Richeson, sister of the minister, will reach Boston tonight to be near her brother in his trouble.

No case in Massachusetts aroused more public feeling to a more marked degree than this case centering about the Cambridge pastor, the Hyannis singer and the Brookline heiress, and few have been so steeped with dramatic incidents. Efforts of the police have been tireless since the body of the girl was found Saturday night. The statements of William Hahn, the druggist, was the evidence that led the police to arrest Mr. Richeson. Hahn stated that he sold Richeson a quanty of cyanide of potassium Tuesday, Oct. 10.

EFFIGY OF PASTOR
HANGS FROM LIMB OF TREE AT
HYANNIS

HYANNIS, Oct. 21.—An effigy of the Rev. Clarence Richeson hangs today from the limb of a tree in the yard of the Baptist church of which the minister accused of the murder of Avis Linnell of this town was formerly pastor. The effigy was discovered at dawn today. It had been hung some time during the night after the regular Friday evening prayer meeting at the Baptist church had ended.

The effigy was fully dressed and pinned to the coat was a large placard bearing the inscription, "The Rev. Richeson." On a board nailed to the foot of the tree was painted these words:

"Guiltily—read Luke 17-2."
This scriptural reference is: "It were better for him that a millstone were tied about his neck, and he cast into the sea than that he should offend one of these little ones."

Another card bearing the signature "Vig Committee" requested that the effigy be allowed to hang until 10 o'clock tonight, when it would be burned on the Hyannis baseball grounds.

The effigy bore a painted face and was dressed in black with white collar and cuffs. It was about the same size as the former pastor and those who saw it pronounced it a striking likeness of the man who is now in a prison cell for the murder of one of his former parishioners.

The presence of the effigy was reported to the deacons of the Baptist church early in the day. The deacons held a conference and finally decided to allow the effigy to remain in the tree. It was the sentiment of the deacons that if the effigy represented the feelings of the people of Hyannis it might be a good idea to allow it to remain hanging in the churchyard as a warning to the youths of the town and leave its removal to the authorities.

The effigy could be seen for about one thousand feet on either side of the church, and most of the townspeople journeyed to the church to make a close inspection of it.

The effigy was finally cut down by J. S. Nickerson, a traveling salesman representing a Boston firm, whose home is directly opposite the Baptist church. Mr. Nickerson is not a Baptist and has no friendship for Mr. Richeson, but he did object to such a gruesome object hanging opposite his residence. He obtained a ladder and climbed high enough to cut the rope that bound the figure to the limb. Then he disposed of the effigy.

Feeling in Hyannis runs high against Mr. Richeson. It would appear that even the most loyal of his former parishioners have now turned against him. The Linnell girl had an unblemished reputation, so far as her fellow-townsmen know, and the clergyman is held responsible by them for her unfortunate condition and terrible death.

All up to A. B. S. tonight.

Mr. M. A. Lee Tells Why Working Men Should Support It

Asked by a Sun reporter why he favors the new charter, Mr. Michael A. Lee, the business manager of the building trades, submits the following very logical statement of his views. We ask other labor men to read and ponder what Mr. Lee says in the following:

Owing to the fact that I have been asked, by a large number of labor men and others as well, why I am in favor of the new charter, I would be thankful for space in your paper to answer them in such a way, that there will be no doubt as to what I think on the subject.

There are several reasons why we should have a new charter. My first reason is, that I believe the trade unionists of this city will have a better chance to get a fair representation under the workings of the new charter. If they do not, it will be their own fault. Under the workings of the old charter the labor party could get no recognition, but with party designation cut out they can unite their full voting strength on the man or men they wish to elect. That being the case I cannot understand why any trade unionist can consistently oppose the new charter. In Lawrence I find that nearly all trade unionists are for the new charter. Why should it be different here? Why should any man who labors be opposed to local self government? The trade unionists, if they

NO. BILLERICA JAIL

Condemned by the State Board of Health

The old wooden cell in Union hall, North Billerica, which is supposed to be the village lockup, but which has not been used for such purposes for the past 15 years, has been condemned by the state board of health. Recently representatives of the board made a tour of inspection of the various police stations throughout the state, and as a result 15 were condemned, one of them being that at North Billerica. The Billerica authorities have been notified that unless the rules of the board are lived up to further condemnations will follow.

The Billerica officials, however, intend to obey the law to the letter. The lockup, or rather cell, was unofficially abandoned 15 years ago and at the present time is used as a storeroom. When persons are arrested in Billerica they are brought to this cell and lodged at the police station here.

Acting under authority of chapter 295 of the acts of 1910, the state board has established regulations for the sanitary conduct of police stations, as follows:

1. The provision of the common drinking cup is unlawful in accordance with the provisions of chapter 128 of the acts of 1910. A drinking cup after use by one person should be washed clean before being used by another.
2. All dishes and vessels used for food should be thoroughly cleaned and washed in boiling water after use.
3. Every woman prisoner should be furnished with a mattress. The mattress should have a smooth surface and be covered with rubber or other waterproof material. This should be enclosed in a slip of washable material or covered with a sheet. These sheets should be changed for each occupant and washed. Both mattresses and coverings should be removed from the cells during the day and thoroughly aired.

4. All cells should be adequately ventilated. Cells ventilated by means of openings into ventilating flues must have some means, mechanical or other, for creating a circulation of air.

In addition to these general regulations, the board has also made a special regulation in the case of each of the 15 station houses which it has condemned, and intends to compel an improvement of conditions or abandonment of the station in each case.

The law under which the board is acting reads as follows:

"The state board of health shall make rules for police station houses, lockups and houses of detention, regarding the care and use of drinking cups and of dishes used for food; the care and use of bedding and the ventilation of the building. Such rules may be general, or may be applicable to a single station house, house of detention or lockup; and a copy thereof shall be sent by said board to the mayor of every town in which the rules apply. It shall be the duty of the mayors of cities and the selectmen of towns to which the rules so apply, to see that the rules are enforced."

CHILD ARRESTED

BUT CAPTAIN REFUSED TO DETAIN LITTLE ONE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Capt. Joseph Richards was sitting at the desk in the Seventh street police station, Jersey City, when Policeman Brennan walked in with Charles, Eugene and Thomas Parker, brothers, 10, 8 and 3 years old, respectively. Their mother was with them, Capt. Richards said the children had been arrested on a warrant charging assault and battery. "I don't know that baby hooked here," said Capt. Richards. "Madam, take your baby home." Charles and Eugene were paroled in the custody of their mother for appearance in the juvenile court today. Blumenthal explained that he obtained the names of the Parker boys from a neighbor and did not know they were so young.

WHEN MR. FOSS says that European shoe manufacturers get the machines of the United Shoe Machinery Company on better terms than American Manufacturers can get them, he says what is not true. The average royalty per pair of shoes of the same quality has never been lower in Europe than in the United States. There is no appreciable difference between the leases which European and American manufacturers sign; yet the United Shoe Machinery Company, pursuing abroad the same business methods as at home, has done a greatly increasing business in open competition with the so-called free machinery which its critics here profess to favor. European manufacturers are constantly replacing their free machinery with machinery obtained from the United Shoe Machinery Company under lease conditions, because, like American manufacturers they know they can thus get better machines, better service and better terms than in any other way.

THE OTTOMAN NAVY

Interesting Story of Plan Introduced by Turkish Officer

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The discussion incident to the present unpleasantness between Italy and Turkey of the unpreparedness of the Turkish fleet has revealed an unusual difficulty experienced by the founders of the original Ottoman navy.

They were hampered by the fact that there were no words in the Turkish dictionary for the various ropes and sails of the warships of that day. An ingenious officer solved the problem by trying different vegetables to the various ropes and spurs of the rigging, and the sailors received orders to "Haist the tomato!" "Let go the potato!" until a more formal vocabulary could be supplied.

Novel as this procedure was, it was not an innovation, as it was exactly the method adopted by Almeida, the Portuguese admiral and discoverer, when he was outfitting a fleet for just such a descent on the Turkish colony of Mozambique as the Italians made on Tripoli.

It was at the beginning of the 16th century, and Portugal still lacked a navy, and the Portuguese tongue was devoid of naval terms. This fact did not daunt the doughty Admiral Almeida, and, hanging up strings of garlic and onions on the port and starboard sides respectively of his ships, he instructed his helmsmen to "garlie" or "onion" the helm, as necessity commanded.

The report of the British prison commission just made public dictates that crime is on the decrease in the kingdom, as there is a fall of 14,000 in the number of prisoners. The commissioners denounce short sentences and plead for longer terms with a view to successful reformatory effects. The report bears testimony to the good moral effect of lectures and concerts in the prisons.

When Andrew Gibson, for 37 years the driver of an omnibus in London, throws down his reins some night near the end of the present month, the last horse-drawn "beast" will have finished its final trip through the streets of the world's metropolises.

Gibson shakes his gray head sadly over the prospect and declares that the London of the motorbus and taxicab is not as happy of the London of the days when people were content to move slower. He said: "When I started driving folks seemed to have more time and they were more contented. Passengers of today never think of passing the time of day with the driver or asking questions like they used to." At the heyday of Gibson's career the two omnibus companies of London owned 31,000 horses.

After an uninterrupted existence as a hostelry for over a century and a half, Long hotel on New Bond street has closed its doors. In name at least it was one of the oldest hotels in London. It was at Long's that Byron and Sir Walter Scott met for the last time in 1815. "He dined or lunched with me," wrote Scott, "at Long's hotel in Bond street. I never saw him so full of gaiety and good humor, to which the presence of Mr. Matthews, the comedian, added not a little. Poor Terry was also present." The hotel is frequently mentioned in the literary memoirs of the day.

Joseph Verrey, friend and courier of Mark Twain during nine of the European tours made by the American humorist, has been rescued from want by a society of professional humorists. Verrey felt the pinch of poverty from the loss of his savings, which had been unwisely invested, and he was in actual want when discovered in obscure London lodgings by a local paper's representative. When his plight was made public a number of admirers of Mark Twain interested themselves in his behalf and secured him a position as lecturer to a local society for the encouragement of humor.

Just prior to his late misfortune, the former courier was engaged as phantasmal raiser by King Alfonso of Spain. On one of the visits of the royal family to the bathery, Verrey entertained them with stories of his travels with the celebrated American humorist. He has an endless store of recollections of his famous employer. He gave the following interesting account of Mark Twain's travel habits:

"Mr. Clemens hardly ever talked to anyone. Once I traveled from Cologne to Dresden with him and he only spoke about two words to me. What I was instructed to do, was to engage the other people in the compartment in conversation and ask them about everything. Mr. Clemens used to sit and listen.

"He must have had a wonderful memory. He used to go to museums for hours. He would not say a word, but he would listen while I asked questions and engaged people in conversation.

"I never heard him make a joke, not even with his own family. He never made one with me. The nearest approach he got to one was in a letter to me about the uncertainty of his plans. He wrote 'Ifs and prophets.'

"He was a great listener. He would take it all in and never say a word himself.

"The American writer and Verrey understood each other perfectly. Clemens discovered Verrey in Paris through the hall porter at the author's hotel, who gave such a glowing account of the courier that Twain determined to have him at once.

"George, I must have this Verrey at once," he said. George demurred, as he could not leave his post, but the humorist agreed to put on his apron and look after the door while the porter summoned Verrey. The courier was engaged at once and served Clemens in that capacity as long as he was needed.

THE PRICE OF MEAT

Has Greatly Advanced Throughout the German Empire

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The prices of all kinds of meat have risen to such an extent throughout the empire that the household has become an article of common consumption. In the first six months of this year 35,277,495 pounds of horseflesh were sold as against 45,458,688 pounds of mutton.

In view of the great agitation for a decrease in import duties on foodstuffs and the abolition of the export bounty system, which raises the price of food, the Prussian minister of agriculture has issued a decree in which he points out the great difference between wholesale and retail prices, especially in regard to pork, which is the favorite meat of the Germans, forming more than half of the total of meat consumed. The minister enjoins the cities to endeavor to bring about an understanding with the retailers, and if they are unable to do so, to take effective action by selling meat, vegetables, fruit and more especially fish, themselves, and to this end he promises to arrange that reduced railroad freight tariffs shall be accorded to municipalities which provide retail food stores for the benefit of their citizens.

Wilmsdorf and other suburbs of Berlin have already started municipal fish stores which are a great success, and Berlin has just decided to open 70 public markets. Many provincial cities are following suit.

The emperor's sojourn this year on his favorite shooting estate at Roninthen, where he usually stays during the latter part of September and the first half of October, is proving enjoyable and invigorating to his majesty. He is accompanied by several intimate personal friends, including Prince zu Dohna-Schlobitten and count Benedek von Donnersmarck. These are occasionally joined by several other guests, those invited this year comprising Herr von Schorlemer, the minister for agriculture, Admiral von Tirpitz and Freiherr Speck von Sternburg, while the officers of the neighboring garrisons are often asked to join in the shoot.

On these occasions the emperor is in a most genial mood. After the day's shoot the guests sit down with him and the chief foresters to a hearty dinner, followed by a "sing-song" is indulged in, at which the guests join in the choruses of hunting melodies. The emperor sometimes takes his turn and sings a song in a fairly good baritone voice.

Following the example of the United States state department, the German government has established a regular school for candidates for appointment in the consular service. Funds for the school were largely provided by exporting firms, whose co-operation in the instruction of the future consuls has also been sought, the aim of the department being to give them practical business training and experience in the consular service.

Empress William has presented to Crown Prince Lidi Jousen of Abyssinia, the 15-year-old grandson of Negus Menelik, a beautiful hunting rifle, one of the splendid gifts to royal children which play such a large role in modern international relations. While not an elaborate as the miniature railroad outfit given to the young Chinese emperor by Emperor Nicholas of Russia, or the doll city given the Italian royal children by President Fallieres of France, the rifle, a repeater of the Mauser type, is likely to appeal more to the future emperor of Abyssinia, where hunting is still the sport of kings.

It is not only a weapon of the highest quality, but is highly ornamented in silver, the signature and crown of Emperor William being inscribed in this metal.

THE CHURCH PROPERTY

To be Placed in Control of the Parish Corporation

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The sacred council of Rome has made regulations concerning the method of holding Catholic church property in the United States. Through the council the pope answers requests from bishops of this country for instructions, proposing the parish corporation system of New York as a model and placing the control of the corporation sole such as is in operation in New England and most of the other states. Fee simple holdings are prohibited.

The regulations follow the excommunication by Bishop Walsh of Portland of certain Catholics who opposed a corporation sole. The controversy in the Portland diocese, it is said, however, was not the cause of the sacred council's action. The question goes back many years. Difficulties in middle and western states, and even in Springfield, under Bishop Beaven, are thought to have started consideration of the situation.

Mrs. Andrew said today: "It is the intention of Herbert and myself to complete our course here and take the Washington bar examinations. If we are successful we will go back to Missouri and put out a joint 'shingle.'

"I have been after mother for years to get her to study law. Herbert said, 'because I believe by nature of training she is especially suited for a legal career. I am delighted that she has started and look forward with pleasure to the day when the sign of 'Andrew & Andrew' will appear at our old home in Missouri.'

Mrs. Andrew senior has not been heard from.

Has built up a successful dental practice in this city in little more than 1 year.

WHY?

THREE STRONG REASONS

1st—Absolutely Painless Dentistry—

I honestly believe that this is the strongest reason for my success. People come to me in fear and trembling and go away happy—wondering why they doubted.

2nd—The Lowest Prices—consistent with good work, a set of teeth as low as $5. Gold crowns and bridges $3 to $5. Teeth without plate $3 to $5. Gold fillings $1; other fillings 50c.

3rd—Perfect Work Guaranteed—My painless perfect dental work causes patients to send their friends to me—the friends doing likewise. In this way I have built up a big practice. People can rely absolutely upon my work.

SEEKS A DIVORCE

Man Says Solitaire Was His Wife's Hobby

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—"Solitaire so engrossed my wife's attention that for a year she would not get any meals for me and I had to do all the cooking," declared Reuben O. Colburn of the South End in the divorce session yesterday in the trial of his libel for divorce from Abbie B. Colburn.

"From the time she got up in the morning there was nothing but solitaire. If the bell rang, she might jump up to answer it, only to fly back again to the solitaire game. She was so engrossed with the cards to think of my needs."

"Four years ago she suddenly left me for no cause that I know of. Since then I have kept house, cooked all my meals and kept the place cleaned up."

When another witness testified that he had not seen Mrs. Colburn at her husband's house for four years, Judge Hardy asked, "Did he ever ask you to assist him in the game?" "No, sir," answered the witness. Divorce was asked for desertion.

Judge Hardy had the libel dismissed. "I am going to open a laundry in Sweden. I had rather do that than return to strange America." So wrote Anna L. Tornburg, late of Lynn, now of Sweden, to her husband, Knute Tornburg, according to his testimony in the divorce session yesterday.

They married on Aug. 12, 1901, at Lynn, and lived on Waltham street here and in Medford. Five years ago Knute's spouse went back to Stockholm, and when he sent her a letter asking her to come back to live with him he received her negative answer. Judge Hardy granted the divorce.

Wendell Wolner, 89 years old, sought divorce yesterday from Mina Wolner, aged 65, on a charge of desertion, and got it. Wolner married her in 1907. It was his second marriage.

"You both knew what you were about, then?" asked Judge Hardy on inquiring the age of libellant and of libellee. "Yes, oh yes," replied Wolner.

The couple after their marriage, when he was 66 years old and she 62, went to live in Roslindale, so she deserted to Hyde Park, and has remained in the latter place, living with her aged mother ever since that time, and has resisted all efforts of Wendell to induce her to return to Roslindale.

CHICAGO JUDGE RECONCILED 1250 COUPLES IN SIX MONTHS

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—In the first six months of Chicago's first court of domestic relations, Judge Charles Goodnow has been able to match up 1250 couples without a trial. During this time the judge listened to 2184 cases of domestic trouble and married 64 couples. All except two of these marriages have been happy, as far as the court can ascertain.

"Home has just been heaven, Judge," said one grateful wife. "I don't think anyone could do so much for us."

It has been the judge's policy to cause reconciliations whenever possible and not take cases to trial. The court so far has collected more than $25,000 for the benefit of deserted wives and children.

"I never use the word 'oh yes' in performing a ceremony, as I do not believe it belongs there," said Judge Goodnow.

TYPHOID FEVER CASES

Said to Have Been Caused by House Flies

WARE, Oct. 21.—Dr. L. E. Dionne, chairman of the Ware board of health, says that three cases of typhoid fever in Ware were in his opinion caused by house flies, which carried the germ of typhoid.

"After a complete examination of the three cases of typhoid fever in Ware at the present time," said Dr. Dionne, "I find that no specific cause can be found for the disease except the ordinary cause—the common house fly, which is scientifically called the typhoid fly by experts versed in the causes of disease."

Early in the spring I announced that the board of health was about to open an anti-fly campaign and invited all of the people of the town to assist the board in exterminating the pests. The board removed considerable garbage and refuse matter which was likely to breed flies, but the general public did not respond to the crusade, and today the effort is seen when three of our citizens are stricken with typhoid fever.

"Some have tried to blame the milk supplies for the present cases of the disease in Ware, but there is no connection between the milk supply and the cases of typhoid fever. Our excellent water supply cannot be found at fault, and the only thing left is the ordinary house fly. I ascribe the cases of typhoid in Ware to the house fly and recommend that the people speedily set about exterminating the flies, which are still with us in great numbers."

THE HEIRS AGREE
Fight Off in Case Involving $300,000

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 21.—Under the terms of an agreement entered into between the heirs of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos M. Morse, late of Plymouth, N. H., the heirs of the former have dropped the litigation brought against the estate of Mrs. Morse and the estate of each are to be settled out of court. The amount to be divided by the two estates is in the vicinity of $300,000, and it is understood that the division between the heirs of each estate will be very nearly equal.

Mrs. Morse was for many years manager of the historic Penningsworth house for the Boston & Maine railroad. He died Oct. 7, 1909, and Mrs. Morse died Oct. 30. Mrs. Morse left all his property to Mrs. Morse during her natural life, with the right to both income and principal, if necessary for health and comfort. Under the terms of the will, $1000 was bequeathed to each of the heirs of Mr. Morse at the death of Mrs. Morse, $2000 to the Emily Bulch hospital at Plymouth, the rest and residue to Mr. Morse's heirs in equal shares.

After the death of Mrs. Morse it was found that securities valued from $175,000 to $200,000 had been placed in her name. In 1903, shortly after most of these securities are said to have been placed in her name, she made a will bequeathing all her property to her husband and his heirs. On the day of his funeral she made a new will, giving most of her estate to her relatives. On the probating of the wills the fight for possession of the estate started.

The beneficiaries who will share under the settlement as agreed to are the following heirs of Mr. Morse: Henry Scott of Chicago; Mrs. Blackmore of Hamilton, Ill.; Eloise Corbitt of Indianapolis, Ia.; Carl H. Morse of Bayonne, N. J.; Harry H. Morse of Nurely, N. J.; Mary Nettleton and Eloise T. Jones of Medford, Mass.; Annie Scott of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Gertrude Scott of Des Moines, Ia.; and Dr. Edward Morse of the United States navy. Mrs. Morse's heir was an aged sister living at Wells River, Vt.

LITTLE CHILD LED CARDINAL GIBBONS TO THE CEMETERY

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 21.—Hand-in-hand with an 8-year-old boy, Cardinal Gibbons walked the mile from Sacred Heart cathedral yesterday to Mt. Calvary cemetery, where Bishop Van Devver was buried. The elderly cardinal had stepped aside after conducting the high requiem mass in the cathedral and in a side room had removed his vestments and donned a frock coat and silk hat.

Fr. Bowler, the vicar-general of the diocese, and Fr. Magel, the chancellor, saw him going quietly out of a postern door and found him just as he and the lad had agreed to go to the cemetery on foot. They entreated him to take the carriage at alighting him and said the thousands of people within and without the church would be distressed to see their venerable cardinal absent. The cardinal smiled.

"My heart is heavy," he said, "and I need the air. This child will lead me." And they walked away, hand in hand, leaving the priests and bystanders in perplexity.

FAVORS CHILD'S BUREAU

Roosevelt Wants Department to Get Information for Young's Welfare

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The judiciary of the United States must be brought within the control of and is answerable to the well thought out judgment of the people in the opinion of ex-President Roosevelt, who spoke tonight on "The Conservation of Womanhood and Childhood" before the Civic Forum.

This control, in Mr. Roosevelt's judgment, should be "exercised more continuously and in different fashion than the control by the people over the legislator and the executive, but the control must be there."

Control of judges, Mr. Roosevelt said, was half, although by far the more important part, of a program which should be carried out for the proper conservation of manhood, womanhood, and childhood. The first half of the program, he said, consisted in placing upon the statute books of the nation and the states legislation to remedy existing defects. The ex-president spoke at length of what he termed "crying abuses connected with child labor."

He advocated the enactment by Congress of the bill for the creation of a children's bureau to gather, classify and distribute accurate information on all subjects relating to the welfare of children.

"I criticize the decision of judges," he said, "only by adopting as my own the language used about these same decisions by the highest judges in the land; by, for instance, the present chief justice of the United States, Mr. Justice White, by a Mr. Justice Holmes; by that great and upright servant of the people, the lamented justice Harlan, by the supreme court of the state of Iowa and the supreme court of the state of Washington. I have never taken position in advance of that taken by Abraham Lincoln.

"During the last 25 years the courts here in New York, helped, I am sorry to say, once or twice by the supreme court of the nation, have thrown what have at all times proved well-nigh or altogether insurmountable obstacles in the path of needed social reforms."

Mr. Roosevelt referred to the decisions in the David L. Williams case in 1907, and in the Kniskely vs. Pratt litigation by the supreme court. The first decision, he said, made the 9 P. M. closing hour of the statute books since 1858 non-enforceable and in effect forced women workers to toil unlimited hours. Decisions in the workmen's compensation law case and in the so-called lake ship case also were cited as similar instances.

"I, for one, hold that if a majority of the people after the deliberation come to champion such social and economic reforms as these we champion tonight," he continued, "they have the right to see them enacted into law and become a part of our settled governmental policy, and I shall never abandon the effort to see this view triumph."

"It is, I believe, an advantage to have fixed in the court the power to state that a legislative act is unconstitutional, but only provided that the power exercised with the greatest wisdom and self-restraint. If the courts continue to use it with the recklessness that too often has been shown in the past it is almost inevitable that efforts will be made to amend it. It is a rank absurdity to hold that the violation of the constitution is 'evident' in a case where the present chief justice of the United States and enough of his colleagues to come with in one of a majority held strongly the opposite view."

"One word in closing. What I have advocated is not revolution. It is not wild radicalism. It is the highest and wisest kind of conservatism."

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 21.—Although the Amherst eleven, which came to Cambridge today to oppose Harvard at football, is not regarded as a very strong combination, the game was looked upon as the first real test of the Harvard team. Previously the Crimson has tried out merely the wealth of individual players. Today, so far as was possible owing to injuries, the varsity eleven was put on the field to play until changes were made necessary. The team proper, WORCESTER, Oct. 21.—Considerable interest was manifested in today's football game between Holy Cross and the Massachusetts Aggies to be played here, as it afforded the first opportunity for the supporters of the local team to see Holy Cross in action since the opening game of the season four weeks ago. The outcome of today's game was also awaited with the Holy Cross and Worcester Polytechnic elevens, the Aggies having already met and defeated the "Tech" team. Although the day opened dark and with indications of rain, it was expected that a large and enthusiastic crowd would watch the teams give battle to each other.

BOSTON COLLEGE GAME

DURHAM, N. H., Oct. 21.—The coaches of both teams expressed confidence today in the ability of their respective squads of football warriors to win the victory in this afternoon's game between the New Hampshire State college and Boston college. New Hampshire has been given a week of hard practice in anticipation of today's contest and the visitors for the past few days have been practicing signals and endeavoring to prevent any of their men from being incapacitated by injury.

SEC'Y JOHN H. MURPHY Proves That Labor Men Got Timely Invitation to Charter Meetings

Secretary Murphy of the charter revision committee, after reading the report of the Trades and Labor meeting on Thursday evening, looked up his records and found that the labor men had made a mistake in their dates, if not in the facts upon which they based their action.

In the resolution adopted it was stated that "if the promoters of the new charter were desirous of having organized labor represented upon that committee (meaning the committee of 60) it was up to them to make such a request to the unions they desired to have represented and not wait until the charter was in print as they did before requesting the Trades and Labor council to send a representative." In reply to this statement, Secretary Murphy gave out the following letter, sent to the Trades and Labor council in December of last year, several months before the work of the new charter was completed and therefore before it was put in print:

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 22, 1910. Gentlemen: At a meeting of the charter revision committee it was voted to request your organization to appoint a representative to act as a member of the committee. The purpose of the committee is to prepare a charter that will be submitted to the people of our city for acceptance. The work of the committee, to date, has been in discussing the many forms and ideas of new charters, but no definite plan has been decided upon. It is expected that the drafting committee will submit a tentative plan at the next meeting, which will be discussed, accepted, amended or rejected.

It is the desire of the committee that your organization shall elect a representative, and I would appreciate being informed of your action.

Kindly forward name and address of delegate in order that he may be notified of the meetings.

Respectfully yours,

John H. Murphy, Secretary.

A copy of this same invitation was also sent to the Allied Printing Trades union, the Textile Workers, Gen. Butler Veteran Firemen, the Master Barbers, Y. M. C. A., the C. Y. M. C., the C. M. A. C., the Retail Grocers association, the Stationary Engineers, the Letter Carriers association, the Central council, A. O. H., local courts of Foresters and the four military companies.

This invitation would have been sent to other organizations were it not for the fact that their secrecy or their constitution forbade them taking part in any such movement.

Secretary Murphy states that the records of the charter committee show that the Trades and Labor council sent a representative following the receipt of the above letter. Hence, it appears that the statement issued by the press committee to the effect that "the union men on the committee of 60 which drew up the charter were no more entitled to represent the trades union movement than the worst enemy organized labor had," is wholly unwarranted and unjust.

MEETING ON CHARTER

Will be Held at the Board of Trade Rooms Monday

A meeting of the full committee of 60 on a new charter together with the ward committees on same and all who are in favor of the new charter will be held on Monday evening in the board of trade rooms when a campaign will be laid out and ways and means for an aggressive campaign of education devised. A large attendance is desired as the committee will start at once on its campaign and desires a full expression of opinion from those interested before starting.

The ward three charter committee has arranged for a rally to be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in Highland hall. Good speakers will address the meeting. The committee of 60 has ordered 10,000 copies of the booklet known as the Charter Catechism, which will be distributed to the voters of Lowell between now and election day.

MANSLAUGHTER IS CHARGED

MARLBORO, Oct. 21.—After a hearing in the local court today Paul Taylor, son of a wealthy resident of Worcester, was held for the grand jury on the charge of manslaughter by Judge McDonald, bail being fixed at $2000. Taylor is charged with the death of Frank Downes and Patrick Sullivan, both of Boston, who were killed here last month as a result of a collision between their automobile and one believed to have been driven by Taylor. At the time of the accident the identity of the second colliding car was not known but a few days later Taylor surrendered to the police, saying that he believed that it was the car driven by him which had figured in the accident. He said that he remembered striking another automobile here but did not realize that the accident was serious. Taylor furnished bonds.

THE TOILETINE COMPANY

13 Hope Street, Greenfield, Mass.

We had hoped to create a greater sensation on October 10 than we did on September 1st when we received three immense Walker & Pratt auto truck loads of Ranges. These trucks hold about a freight car and a half of Ranges. The following letter explains why we did not:

WALKER & PRATT MANUFACTURING CO., MANUFACTURERS OF RANGES, FURNACES, STEAM AND HOT WATER HEATERS, 31 AND 35 UNION STREET.

Boston, October 18, 1911.

Messrs. A. E. O'Hair & Company, Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen:—After waiting several days in the hope of being able to send your large order of Crawford Ranges by auto trucks direct to your store from our factory at Watertown, as we did the first of September, we are obliged to write you that owing to the tremendous demand for Crawford Ranges this month, we are unable to spare our trucks long enough to send the n over the road to Lowell.

As you know, we use these auto trucks in delivering our goods from our factory to the freight depots in Boston, for shipments to different points. As each of these trucks make from three to five round trips every day, you can easily see that we would lose at least two trips to the freight per truck, in the same time that it would take to send them to Lowell, have them unladen, and return to the factory. On the three trucks this would delay the shipment of at least thirty tons of goods to other dealers.

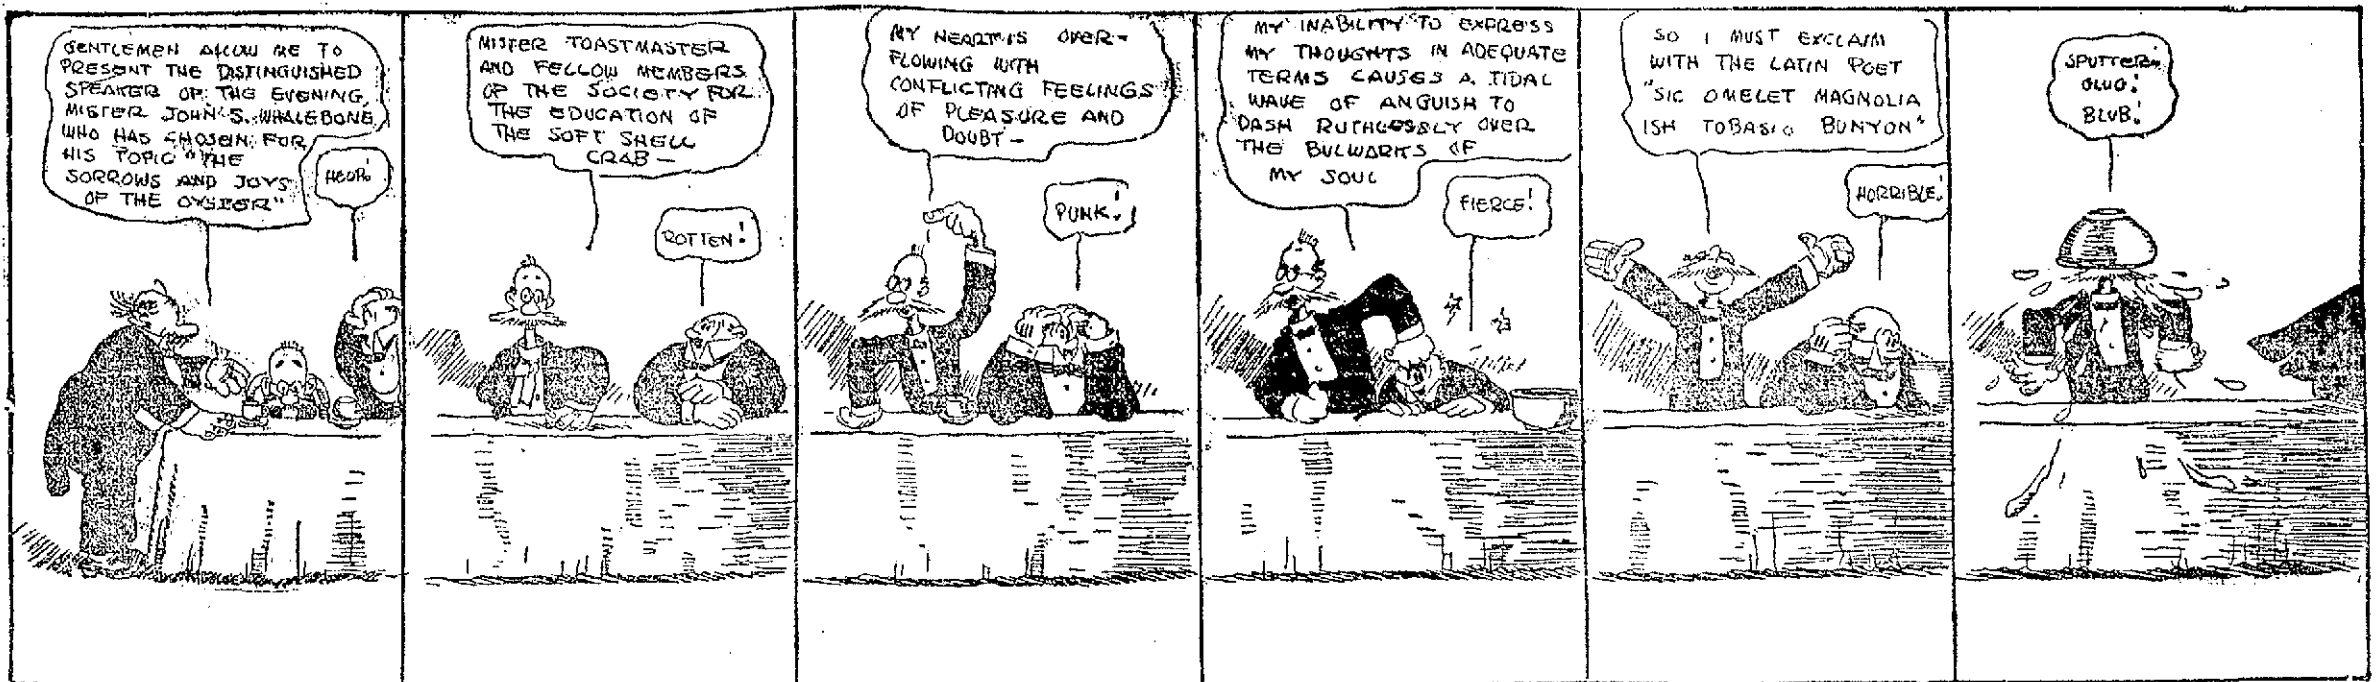

Therefore, we have abandoned the idea and are sending part of your order by freight today and will send the balance by freight as soon as possible. We hope to ship your entire order within the next few days.

Very respectfully, yours,

WALKER & PRATT MFG. CO.

Sales manager.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The fourth game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the New York Giants for the baseball championship, which was scheduled to be played here last Wednesday, was postponed today for the fourth time, and under the rules will be played on Monday or the first clear day.

Rain fell heavier today than at any time since the present wet weather set in last Tuesday night.

Umpires Klein, Connolly and Dineen, under instructions for the national commission, went to Shibe park at 7:30 o'clock this morning to make an early decision, so that an announcement could be made in New York and other eastern cities within easy reach of Philadelphia. The umpires agreed before they left their hotel that there could be no game.

ST. RAILWAY WORK

Gangs Making Repairs Ready for Winter

The construction gang of the local branch of the Bay State Street Railway company is busily engaged in putting the finishing touches on repair work on rails throughout the city. The recent rains caused the slight undermining of sleepers in different sections of the city and the men are at work propping up the rails and filling in where there have been wash-outs.

The repair shop at the power house in Middlesex street is also a scene of activity and as one looks through the open door he is reminded that winter is near at hand, for the employees are at work overhauling the snow plows.

A gang of men is also at work "tuning" up and making repairs to box cars and it is expected that within the course of a month or so the operations will be overhauled and repainted.

Good time at Assn., tonight.

CHIEF HOSMER

WAS A WILLING WORKER AT A LAWRENCE FIRE

Chief E. S. Hosmer and the other members of the local fire department who attended the annual convention of the Massachusetts State Firemen's association which came to a close in Lawrence yesterday are home and report that the three days' session was a success in every particular.

One of the principal events which occurred and one which was not on the program was the $35,000 fire which destroyed the Archibald wheel works in that city the night before last. The fire broke out just about the time the evening session was to open, but instead of going to the hall, almost everyone went to the fire.

Owing to the size of the fire many of the out-of-town firemen joined the Lawrence men and did good work and materially assisted in keeping the fire from spreading.

Chief Hosmer and Capt. Hurley of Engine 8 were willing workers, and his chief instead of giving orders as is his custom in this city devoted his time to dragging lines of hose through mud and water. After the fire Chief Carey of Lawrence was profuse in his thanks to the visitors who assisted his men.

MR. AND MRS. CHRISTOPHE LETENDRE

Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Christophe Letendre, aged 72 and 70 years, respectively, were tendered a fine reception last night at the home of their son, David Letendre, 91 Arch street, the occasion being the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The event was to take place on July 2, but an account of Mrs. Letendre's ill health at that time, the affair was postponed to a later date.

Last night's affair was one of the most pleasant in the family's history and was attended by over 100 guests, all relatives and close friends of the venerable couple. Despite their advanced age, the hosts of the evening pleasantly entertained the assembly especially Mr. Letendre, who possessed a rich tenor voice, and who sang in grand style a number of old Canadian songs. The two aged people were showered with numerous costly gifts the presentation speech being made by their son David, who in the name of the large gathering, extended his best wishes to his beloved parents.

A varied program of songs, musical selections and recitations was rendered, and at midnight a delightful luncheon was served. It was quite late when the party broke up, all present extending their best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Letendre.

Christophe Letendre was born at St. Guillaume, Acton county, Que. on April 25, 1839, and until the age of 22, he toiled daily on the old home farm with his father, Mrs. Letendre nee Philomene Blod is a native of St. Turque, Que., being born in 1841. On July 2, 1861, the couple were married at St. Turque, Que., and 22 years ago they came to Lowell, where they have lived ever since. Thirteen children were born of this marriage, six of whom are now living, namely: David, Nathalie, Louis, Christophe, Felix, Helen, (Mrs. Olivier Renaud).

Despite their advanced age the couple are both enjoying the best of health, and Mr. Letendre although nearly 73 years of age, toils daily in the Hamilton Mfg. Co., where he has been employed for many years.

The couple are well known in Lowell, and they are held in the highest esteem by their many friends. Their home is the scene of many pleasant gatherings, for their friends all know that a good time is always in store at the home of the senior Letendres. They have a score or more of grandchildren, who are always pleased to be in the company of "pepere and memere."

MEMORIAL SERVICE
FOR HON. JOHN H. ALLEN IN BOSTON SUNDAY

In Lorimer hall, Tremont Temple, Boston, tomorrow afternoon the Mystic Nodules of Granada, of New England, will assemble to pay honor to the memory of the late Hon. John H. Allen, supreme commander of the order, and one to whose untiring efforts much of the success which the organization is enjoying can be attributed. Members of Lowell caravan, No. 3, have received April 25, 1839, and until the age of 22, he toiled daily on the old home farm with his father, Mrs. Letendre nee Philomene Blod is a native of St. Turque, Que., being born in 1841. Edward Leblanc, 23 years, 229 Valley street, Lawrence, was found by his brother, Thomas in Pelham, N. H., late yesterday afternoon, after being missing from home since 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. Thomas Leblanc reported the disappearance to the police and made an immediate search of his own. By tracing down several clues, he found his brother in Pelham. The latter was injured but was unable to state how he met his injury or why he wandered from home.

SENATOR BENNETT

The labor organizations are justified in opposing the election of Senator Bennett of Saugus. He has been opposed to most of the progressive measures introduced in the legislature. He is putting up the best defense he can and says he voted for certain labor measures, but the labor men regard him as one of their worst enemies. We presume they must have some reason for their opposition.

JUDGE HADLEY

Judge Hadley is to be congratulated upon the arrival of his 50th birthday and upon the fact that he is still in fairly good health with a prospect of many more years which all his friends sincerely hope will bring him the greatest possible happiness. His career as judge of the Lowell police court has proved him to be a man of deeply humane sympathy, who has always endeavored to reform the offenders brought before him, rather than to penalize them for their weakness or their depravity. The work of a conscientious police court judge is very laborious, and it is often conducted in an atmosphere that is not calculated to improve the health. Under such conditions Judge Hadley has shown wonderful endurance, and now that he is about to retire he certainly deserves all the rewards that the law allows him with undisturbed leisure for the rest of his life.

FIRES AND FIREMEN

The assembled firemen at the convention in Lawrence on Thursday night did not prevail in saving a burning building from destruction. While flippant speakers were telling how best to fight the fire fiend that dangerous sprite stole around as if in scorn of all the pet theories expounded at the convention, and in a trice had devoured a wheelwright shop, wheels and all. The firemen thought it an audacious occurrence under the circumstances, but it illustrated the suddenness with which fires occur and the absolute need above all things else of a quick response and the getting a stream upon the flames in the shortest possible time. Despite all the rules, all the discipline and all the experience of fire departments there is often a great deal of delay and bungling in getting the first stream on a fire. But for this cause many of the greatest conflagrations that have visited this and other cities might have been prevented. This is still one of the greatest subjects of discussion for firemen's conventions, and one of the greatest fields for the display of the kind of skill and activity that counts for most in the saving of life and property.

FOSS OR FROTHINGHAM

The republican press has been firing such flimsy stuff at Governor Foss that they have quite forgotten how very vulnerable their own candidate is. Governor Foss has been a fearless official, writing messages to the legislature without any fear of going on record because he always stood with the people, advocating nothing against the best interests of the state. The republican leaders must be badly off for material when their chief line of argument is, that Foss has somehow been responsible for the high cost of living and for the defeat of reciprocity. We may next hear that he has been responsible for the Russo-Japanese war. If Governor Foss has been unable to overturn the party that upholds trust prices it is because he did not control congress; if reciprocity were beaten it was through the scheming of the standpat republicans and not through Mr. Foss.

It will become the republican senators of Massachusetts to charge Governor Foss with any part in the responsibility for the republican policies that sustained the Payne-Aldrich bill or defeated reciprocity. The governor scored on many important issues for the benefit of the state, for the laboring people and the general progress of the commonwealth. If the voters of Massachusetts decide between the two gubernatorial candidates on the question of merit, they will vote for Governor Foss. His record stands out preeminently superior to that of his opponent, Lieut. Governor Frothingham, who has in all cases proven himself an ultra-conservative and has seldom shown any sympathy for the people. Mr. Frothingham's legislative record is not calculated to help him in this campaign. He served in the legislature in 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904 and 1905. His record on various measures of importance was taken from the Journal of the house and was circulated in the following form by progressive republicans in campaign preceding the primaries:

He voted against free text books and other supplies for the pupils of public schools.

He voted against 90-cent gas for Boston.

He voted against one day off in each 27 for police officers. He also voted against police pensions.

He voted against an 8-hour day for public employees.

He voted against an inheritance tax.

He voted against a two-cent-a-mile railroad fare bill.

He voted against trial by jury in contempt of court cases.

He voted against the election of United States senators by the people.

He voted against resolutions for reciprocity with Canada.

He voted against civil service exemptions for Spanish war veterans.

He voted against the initiative and referendum.

He voted against investigating conditions in textile factories relative to overtime work by women and minors.

He voted against a reduction of telephone charges in the Boston suburban or Metropolitan district.

He voted against peaceful persuasion bills.

He voted against a bill to compel railroads to provide one brakeman for each ten cars instead of one for the last car only.

He voted against licensing barbers.

He voted against making 12 hours in 24 a day's work for firemen in cities of over 40,000 population when adopted by a majority vote.

He voted against reducing the hours of labor of nurses and attendants in public hospitals and asylums to 70 hours a week.

He voted against a new state sanitation for tubercular patients.

He voted against empowering and obliging assessors to find more taxable personal property.

He voted against a bill providing that police officers shall hold office during good behavior and be subject to removal only for cause and after a proper hearing.

He voted against a bill to prevent overtime work by women and minors to make up for time lost through the stoppage of machinery.

He voted against 12-ride tickets on the railroads in Boston and suburbs.

He voted against punishing members of combinations to raise the price of coal.

We commend this record to the consideration of the labor organizations for which Governor Foss went as far as the law permitted him. The official who, as member of the legislature, made this record, if elected governor would reverse the progressive policies set in motion by Governor Foss and would thereby put Massachusetts among the states which fail to keep abreast of the times.

SOME OF THIS WOULD RESTORE FAITH IN COURTS AND TRUST BUSTING

SEEN AND HEARD

Wandering street musicians, always of more or less interest, never fail to draw an audience. They, it would seem, have inherited from Orpheus, that mythological minstrel with the enchanted lyre, the peculiar faculty of catching the attention of the passer-by, and, though not gifted with the preternatural fascination exerted by their legendary father, they can exercise at least a portion of his powers by inducing those who cross their path to pause and give ear to their not unpleasing melodies.

This evening, as I noted while strolling along Tremont street in Boston, one Saturday evening, at that time when the crowds were hurrying toward the different theatres, I noticed a congregation which almost blocked the outlet of a cross street. Approaching and entering into the throng, I discovered the objects of my attention—two wandering street musicians.

One was a stout lad of about eighteen. His light brown curly tresses, soft felt hat of the same color, and black coat, soiled with grease spots, looked in keeping with his swarthy skin, curly black hair and his snapping black eyes. He was strumming a mandolin. His companion, a boy of about seventeen, was of a more slender build. A neat black suit and a soft, buttoned shirt with a long, black bow-tie, and some silken texture, tended to invest his features with a somewhat softer aspect. This was in a degree enhanced by a trace of pallor over-spreading his olive skin and by the pensive expression in his dark eyes. Only clasped against his tapering fingers was a violin.

The music which the lads drew from their instruments was mostly in the line of popular airs, that of "Billy," being a favorite with the crowd, some selections from well known operas and now and then a bit of real ragtime, such as "Alexander's Band." In the rendition of these different pieces, the lads exhibited not a little talent; the young violinist, in particular, impressing his audience by his power of producing the sweetest of tones. His partner, however, was of that class of players whose sense of gain is never dominated over by that of art; a fact one could readily perceive by noting the ingratiating smile and calculating expression that enveloped his features as he "sized up" the audience.

It was a strange scene. With the exception of the players' transient audience, the street, which during the daylight hours was alive and jammed with the jostling, hurrying crowds and bells and the ringing of trolley wheels, was silent. So quiet, indeed, was the scene that the sharper tones from the instruments would grate upon the ear with their unmelodious distinctness. The thoroughfare, lacking its usual bustle and animation, had taken on a more lonesome aspect than would be found in the most solitary woodland.

The crowd gathered about the minstrels was one typical of Saturday night life in Boston. All types had their representatives. There one could see the rapid-faced "exquisite," scrupulously garbed in the latest mode from his "rowboat" to his "pumps," gazing with a languid, condescending interest on the players; a husky longshoreman who had just had his face scraped and was coming along indulging in his Saturday night jamboree; the tall, fresh-checked young stenographer, who, looking charming in her "best" dress embellished for the occasion with its snow-white jabot, with her escort had paused on her way toward the theatre to listen to the strains of a melody that delighted her ear. Contrasting with this bloom of youth, was the kindly, wrinkled countenance of a little white-haired lady, who, possibly on her way to Tremont temple, had been attracted by the strains of "Silver Threads Among the Gold" as they floated through the air to her sympathetic ear. While she paused for a moment to hear the completion of that beautiful ballad it would not have been out of place for one who gazed upon her to conceive that she, with her grey hair and faltering step, might fittingly typify the beautiful character about which that song centers.

At the conclusion of this ballad I started on my stroll again and finally, with the musicians' the "exquisite," the longshoreman, the girl with the jabot, and the old lady still in my mind I arrived at the North station and left Boston with its interesting Saturday evening sights for those that may be seen during the same time in the more prosaic city of Lowell.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Dr. William Bode, the curator of the Kaiser Friedrich museum at Berlin, Germany, is coming to the United States in the interest of his museum work.

The engagement of Miss Lily Elsie, the British creator of the title part in "The Merry Widow," and Ian Dalrymple, a young Scottish millionaire, has created some excitement among the fashionable set of Great Britain. Mr. Dalrymple's first wife, who died eleven months ago, was Miss Maudie Darrell, another musical comedy star. At the present time Miss Elsie is playing the heroine in "The Duke of Luxembourg."

Canon Horsley, who has been in charge of the church at Walworth, one of the largest and poorest parishes in London, will give up his rectoryship of the parish next month to take charge of a little village in Kent. Canon Horsley is credited with a remarkable work during the past 37 years, as curate, vicar and rector, in behalf of social and civic improvement in the east end of London. The people appreciated his work so much they made him mayor of Walworth, and during his term of office he cleared away 23 acres of slums and spent $1,250,000 on better housing. He was responsible for the creation of a number of parks and open spaces, and he headed a movement which resulted in the establishment of school playgrounds all over London. But Canon Horsley was not only an able municipal administrator. He was a sympathetic friend to all his parishioners as well, says a London letter in the New York Press. His long experience in the slums has not made him a pessimist, and while he recognizes and deplores the decline of the church-going habit in England, he admits that there is still a great deal of good in the church-going habit. "Side by side with all this seeming carelessness about religion," he said the other day, there has been an equally great decline in immorality and in every class in the community I can introduce you to real saints who make no pretense of being religious." Canon Horsley has radical economic theories. He believes every working man should be compelled to belong to a trade union and forced to abide by its rules, and he believes the state should prevent strikes by compulsory arbitration and by enforcing on employers the payment of a fair wage. His theory of life was summed up recently in one of his public speeches: "Ever since my ordination in 1870," he said, "I have kept before me two resolutions—never to have ambitions and never to have any time to myself."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Boston Post: Mr. Wickersham is rather discreetly vague as to the scheme of reorganization proposed by the tobacco trust, contenting himself with saying that whatever plan is decided upon, "competition must be unfettered." Of course.

But James C. McReynolds, special counsel of the United States in the prosecution of the tobacco cases, is not so chary of opinions or words. "I regard the plan," he declares, "as a plain subterfuge which deserves an expedition commitment to the scrap-heap." Evidently much depends upon the views of the United States court that will pass upon this scheme. The country expects that no bluff will work its way past the judiciary.

WARNING HAS BEEN GIVEN
Wilmington, Del. News: In this concrete age the disaster at Austin, Pa., ought to be of some value to users of cement. There is so much work of that sort being done that the discovery of weakness now and then should prove of value to the future. From the pictures of the wrecked dam, the great masses of cement and concrete were torn into huge blocks. The warning has been given.—Wilmington, Del. News.

MEAT TRUST EXCUSES

Philadelphia Record: Small receipts of cattle, sheep and hogs at the centers of the provision trade have often been given as explanations of high meat prices. Therefore there is some encouragement in the fact that on Monday the cattle receipts at St. Paul, and Omaha exceeded all records, and last week the receipts of hogs at Chicago were larger than before at any time in the past six years. If meat prices do not come down some other excuse besides the scanty supplies of live stock will have to be invented.—Philadelphia Record.

OUR NEW ENGLAND WEATHER

Boston Globe: The Boston Post, the paper which apparently has received the most accurate weather forecasts since its columns are wider some days than others, signs for a "two-minute snuff of a real October." The only unfortunate thing about New England fall weather is that it must stand transportation.

WAINWRIGHT HERO

REAR ADMIRAL FIGURED IN STIRRING FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—When Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright retires from active service next December the navy will lose not only one of its best liked officers but one of its real fighters. It is now thirteen years and more since the Spanish war, and many remember that Wainwright was the hero of one of the most remarkable sea fights of that contest.

In its way Wainwright's fight was a more remarkable performance than the sinking of the Spanish fleet at Santiago.

When the Maine was blown up in Havana harbor Wainwright was the executive officer of the ill-fated vessel. He was given command of the Gloucester, which was converted into a warship from the Morgan yacht Corsair. It was not a very formidable craft. It carried more than 100 men, a couple of six-pounders and some lighter guns.

While Sampson was blockading the harbor of Santiago, Wainwright, with the Gloucester, was assigned the duty of running close in to the mouth of the harbor every night in order to make sure the enemy could not escape.

When Cervera's fleet finally came out Wainwright, with the Gloucester, though he was not supposed to do any fighting, closed with two torpedo boat destroyers, the Pluton and Furor.

The two destroyers dashed at Wainwright, who swooped down on them in return. Had the Spanish fleet been accurate the Gloucester would have been a speedy victim. As it was, under the personal direction of Wainwright, the gunners literally tore the steel armored destroyers to pieces. The Pluton staggered and ran ashore in a sinking condition. The Furor caught fire. One gun crew after another was shot down and in a little while the vessel ran up the white flag.

Wainwright was promoted and thanked for his work and the exploit will not soon be forgotten in naval annals.

MR. I. L. SHOWEM HAS A QUIET MOMENT TO HIMSELF

THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Conditions Are Encouraging in the Local Mills

The Textile papers are giving considerable attention to the fact that certain mills in other places are installing power plants and look upon them as the perfection of modern mill equipment; within a week or two the Massachusetts mills of this city will complete a power plant that for efficiency and completeness will not be excelled by any mill in the country and will complete a series of improvements at this plant which go to make it the model cotton mill of the country. By means of the power plant everything that moves in the entire plant may be moved by power.

The Bigelow Carpet company is also installing a big power plant in its yard and only this week took out a permit to build a monster chimney 200 feet high to surround the new plant and incidentally get away from any possibility of a smoke nuisance.

Cotton Mills Busy
A local mill agent discussing the situation in the cotton mills states that conditions are considerably better than they were six months ago and that at present there are no indications that they are not going to remain as good as they are at present. At the recent banquet of the Knights of Columbus Mr. Matthias Mahoney of Mobile, Ala., the owner of a large cotton plantation gave out the cheerful information that raw cotton will be cheaper this year than last year. Jokingly he said: "I am much interested in Lowell because I have the misfortune to own a cotton plant in Alabama and I am going to sell you cotton for eight cents this year instead of 15 cents, although I don't suppose I will be able to buy my clothes any cheaper." Advice from the south state that unless an early frost sets in, which is not expected, the cotton crop will be great and hence cheap.

Suburban Mills
The mills of Chelmsford and the Billerica are running steadily with indications bright for the coming winter.

Mill Securities Attractive
The current number of Fibre and Fabric has the following in regard to the bright outlook in mill securities: The investing public never had a more attractive offering of securities than is now available in the mill share list. A half hundred or more reliable stocks are quoted at prices that will yield six per cent and better, and there is hardly a shadow of doubt that, in addition to permanent dividends, there will be an appreciable market value increase in the securities, as well as in the entire list before another twelve months has passed.

It is not alone the Apawank and the Pacific mill shares that are attractive, but practically the entire list is good for 30 to 35 advance in market value, and when safety and safe management are taken into consideration, no list of securities is any better than that of the New England mill shares. An investor naturally looks for safety and then for dividend yield, and he has no further to look than at the list of offerings of mill shares, to find every requirement fulfilled. In manufacturing stocks there is always some degree of uncertainty, but the sure, but when compared with anything for sale in the general security lines, they rise and shine as the safest and best. And New England's most careful investors are among the shareholders in New England mills. President Hobbs of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers found 35,000 shares in 106 mills, and this is evidence of the desirability of mill share securities as permanent investments.

Fibre and Fabric this week has the following:

Shaw Stocking Co.

Really the only active mill security in Boston is the Shaw Stocking Co.'s shares. The reorganization as proposed has been effected and the capital stock scaled down and $270,000 new money secured. The new issue was underwritten and in the end the shareholders who have stayed in will profit by the arrangement. No better security can be made anywhere than that turned out by the Shaw Stocking Co., but lack of capital and pressing competition resulted in a condition that made some financial changes necessary. Now with new money at hand we look to a revival of active business, along more progressive lines perhaps, so as to meet the growing competition, and to all who have asked our advice in the matter, we have unquestionably recommended to hold their present stock and exchange it for the new shares. There is fully $158 a share value in the Shaw Stocking Co. as can be seen from the following figures:

Quick assets	$80,000
Merchandise	287,000
Plant	528,550
Total	$895,550
Less debts	450,000
440,550
New money	270,000
Net value	$710,550

Under the financing there will be 4500 shares of stock, so it figures out a cash value for the new stock at $158 a share. Shaw Stocking warrants are bringing $1 in the local market and are offered. There is also a growing tendency on the part of the old shareholders to accept the plan of finance adopted and hold on to their stock, taking their allotment of the new stock. This looks to be a wise move, as there is every reason why the company should make good and before long return to the shareholders ample payment for the sacrifice they are now called upon to make. It is hardly possible to find a more complete plant for hosiery production than that of the Shaw Stocking Co., and their trade name "Shaw-knit" is worth many thousands of dollars to the company as a going concern.

Lowell Hosiery
The Lowell hosiery reorganization has worked out well and with the new equipment secured after the reorganization the company is doing a profitable business, running nights at the present time to keep up with orders of some specialty goods that promise to rank with the best sellers in the market. The Shaw Stocking Co. will shortly be in a like commanding position with its standards, as it is now proposed to broaden the production so as to meet every possible requirement of the trade. Sample lines of Shaw-knit goods in mercerized grades show a remarkable variety of very high grade goods and there is every indication that they will sell to the capacity of the plant. We look upon the stock as a good buy rather than a sale. The new stock will cost $103 per share, $100 and three rights at $1 each.

Textile School Notes
Arthur P. Ferguson, instructor in textile design and cloth analysis at the Lowell Textile school, has resigned to take up work for the tariff board at Washington, and his place will be filled by Stewart MacKay, of the class of 1906, instructor in hand loom weaving.

John C. Standish of the Lowell Textile school, 1911, takes the place of Frank L. McCool, assistant instructor in dyeing.

Charles H. Jack, from the Ameskeag Manufacturing Co., has been appointed as a permanent instructor in the machine shop of the Lowell Textile school.

Lester H. Cushing, Harvard, 1911, becomes instructor in history and modern languages at the Lowell Textile school, succeeding John Clement, who has resigned.

Henry H. Crompton, formerly instructor in worsted yarns at the Lowell Textile school, enters the Pacific mills as overseer of spinning, and his place is to be taken by Eugene C. Woodcock, instructor in woolen yarns, who is a graduate of the school in the class of 1907. John C. Lowe, Lowell Textile school, 1911, an experienced spinner from the Worcester mills, enters the wool department.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Described as an April shower of songs and girls, "The Beauty Spot," with Frank Deshon in the leading role, will be the attraction at the Opera House Tuesday, Oct. 24, for an engagement of one night only.

It is claimed that "The Beauty Spot," by DeKoven and Herbert, is far above the ordinary musical attraction in star, authorship, management and equipment. That the range of its many musical numbers is remarkable and displays not only the natural versatility of the composer, but the ardor with which he has applied himself to the study of detail and musical effect. And there are many ingenious little adornments, as in "Creole Days" and "In a Hammock," and in the drilling of the chorus in which several chorists are introduced.

The second act shows the tropical gardens of a hotel, with flowers, lights and brilliantly costumed guests, and here some remarkably ingenious and beautiful effects are used when the guests are brought in on floral chairs and by a ballet of ensemble effects. This act, it is said, is opulent in charming and novel music.

Mr. Deshon is described as characteristically in the part of "General Sumner," his makeup itself being highly ludicrous and mirth-provoking, while his stage mannerisms and eccentricities are shown at their best. The cast has been recruited with care, and includes many well known artists, among whom are Stella Thomas, Robert Bernard, Carl Krasada, Frank Walsh, Jack Fischer, Goldie Joby, Louise Bertram and Hazel Voris.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

Mme. Sukino, the attractive little Japanese prima donna, who will appear at Keith's theatre next week, would be an attraction through her wonderful personality alone even if she were not the leading singer of the Imperial theatre at Tokio, for although still a very young woman she has not only mastered Italian, German and English, but has also mastered the music of the German and Italian schools, at first so strange to her ear, and sings equally well any of the German or Italian operas. Mme. Sukino became attracted to European music when at a high school student. She heard a Japanese orchestra playing Wagnerian opera. She placed herself in charge of Prof. Takatori of the Tokio Musical college, who was quick to discover her quick ear and her ambition to sing in opera. After becoming proficient in the music of Europe and the great difficulty to overcome, namely, to secure the consent of her parents to appear in public, for among the higher Japanese families to which she belongs it was considered a disgrace for a woman to appear before the public.

Mme. Sida Yaki, however, broke the rule and upon hearing of her success the parents of Mme. Sukino, through their permission, and the little prima donna has since become a bit of a stage. Mme. Sukino will sing two English and two Japanese songs, the former selections from "Madame Butterfly," one of the favorite operas. She will be accompanied by two guitarists each afternoon after the matinee in an improvised Japanese tea garden, provided by Manager Stevens. Mme. Sukino and her assistants appear in their native costume on and off the stage. The remainder of the bill is unusually attractive and includes: Dada and Boyce, Karl Hewitt & Co., Kelly and Rafferty, and the Percots. Good seats for all performances may be obtained. Box office 28. Two concerts tomorrow.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

The management of the Hathaway theatre announces that to attract ladies to the Monday matinees at this popular playhouse a box of candy will be given to each lady attending the Monday matinee in a reserved seat henceforth, beginning next Monday.

LIFE'S DISAPPOINTMENTS

when the Donald Meek stock company will present for the first time George Ade's great satire of American politics as played in the bright and breezy middle west, "The County Chairman." One of the most popular comedies on the stage today. The play combines practical politics, comedy, love and a shade of pathos most ingeniously and delightfully withal. The serious features lies in a plot underlain with the fun which shows the cause for the deep seated hatred of "Jim Hadden," the county chairman, for the leader of the opposition. To complicate matters "Hadden's" young protégé and candidate for office falls in love with the daughter of his arch-enemy, and between love and politics there is a most merry sequence of events. The character of "Jim Hadden," made famous by Macklyn Arbuckle, will be played by Jack Chagnon, who fits the part both in dramatic ability and physical proportions. Donald Meek will be seen in a delightfully funny part that of "Sassaparilla," the "unlucky gentleman" with a household of kiddos, whom he names after the prevailing candidates with the usual touch. "Sassaparilla" also demonstrated the danger of the campaign slogan. The play shows all the monitory of the company in congenial roles. Seats are now on sale for next week's performances and may be ordered in advance by telephone. Don't forget the candy matinee Monday afternoon.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

In the presentation of Sidney Grandin's favorite one-act play "A Member of Parliament" the Merrimack Square theatre next week, the patrons of this playhouse are assured of one of the very highest and best types of short-story sketches on the stage today. The piece deals with English characters in a most delightful manner and as produced by Kenneth Weston and a full cast of his associate players it is almost sure of receiving the approval of all. Miss Constance Jackson will have better opportunity to display her real talent in this play than she has had in the past two offerings. Miss Jackson has had a fine musical education and her ability as a vocalist will be shown to a marked advantage in the coming presentation. Mr. Stanley Wood and Miss Beatrice Saville are both pleasantly cast. The staging of the piece will be adequately looked after.

Another feature for the week will be given by Thomas Ryan & Co., in their Irish singing comedy sketch entitled "Erin Go Bragh." The sketch is said to be first-class and has won approval in every city where it has been given. There is much good music in it and an intermingling of rich comedy that makes the combination truly delightful.

The Hardimans are novelty dancers who introduce some new and entirely novel dances, including the weird Russian affairs that have always proved popular among their patrons. Earlard and Bartlett are comedy sketch artists who have won distinction by their cleverness. The photo-plays for the first three days include "Adventures of Billy," "How They Stopped the Run on the Bank," the Vitagraph Weekly, and others. Friday night, Grand Opera night, the Merrimack Square Theatre leader, will feature selections from "Il Trovatore." The entertainers who will appear at the sacred concerts Sunday afternoon and evening include The Boston Duo, excellent vocalists, Pinky and Marian, Lepford, Al Pucker, Hammond and Forester in an entirely new act, Benrick Saville, and photo-plays that are approved by the state.

CONCERT ORCHESTRA, PHIL M. LEDERMAN

THEATRE VOYONS

Tomorrow the Theatre Voyons offers the usual excellent program for its Sunday concert. The program is carefully selected and is made up of the very best and latest films together with appropriate musical numbers. On Monday the feature will be a most pleasing photo play, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" telling the story of James Whitcomb Riley's great poem with the greatest care and skillful potential feeling. There is probably no truer poem as to things in its sentiment as this poem and the rendering into motion pictures has been done in the very best taste and the result will please everyone. A special musical program has been arranged to accompany this picture poem.

REV. MR. RICHESON

Was Well Known in South Chelmsford

Rev. Clarence Virgil Thompson Richeson, who is under arrest charged with the murder of Avis Linnell, is well known in South Chelmsford where he has occupied the pulpit on several occasions. Two years ago, when Rev. Mr. Wells of the South Chelmsford Baptist church retired, Rev. Mr. Richeson, who was then stationed at Hyannis, was called upon to fill the pulpit for several Sundays. He did not appear as a candidate for the position, and was apparently satisfied with Hyannis. He generally came to Chelmsford on a Saturday night, remaining over until Monday, members of the church taking turns in having him at their guest. The people of South Chelmsford were deeply impressed as to his preaching and readily recall his splendid voice and fine vocabulary. The parish was shocked upon learning of his arrest in connection with the Linnell case.

NEARLY DROWNED

Volunteer Crew Rescued Scituate Fisherman

SCITUATE, Oct. 21.—Oscar Anderson, a local fisherman, was rescued from drowning yesterday afternoon just outside the mouth of the harbor through the bravery of a volunteer crew made up for the most part by gunners who are hunting game at the Sand Hills.

These latter included Capt. J. Frank Cushman, Capt. Thomas Turner, Thos. Patterson, Moses Jewells, Albert E. Reed, Arthur H. Dyer, Chester Spear, Erasmus F. Smith, Fred Cole and Archie C. Cooper.

Anderson, who is known for his daring, had gone outside in his power boat, notwithstanding the heavy sea, to look after his lobster pots. About 2:30, when he attempted to come through the breakers on his return to the shore, his boat was swamped. Three times he was swept out of his power boat by the waves, but managed to regain it.

His predicament was seen by the shore and Capt. Turner spread the alarm. With a pair of horses' the lifeboat of the Massachusetts Humane society at Sand Hills station was obtained.

Although another boat had put out from Second Cliff Cove, Capt. Cushman and his crew were first to reach Anderson. He was waist deep in water when the rescuers reached his craft. With extreme difficulty they pulled him into their boat and finally made the shore again.

Anderson had thrown over his anchor so his boat was left in the breakers and did not sink. Capt. Franzen of the North Scituate Life-Saving station and his crew drove over the road with their surf boat on a truck and in face of great odds put out to save Anderson's power boat. Before reaching it they shipped several big combers, but finally managed to make fast to it with a line and towed it ashore.

AN UNBIDDEN GUEST

Rat Caused Excitement in Highland Hall

Highland hall was the scene of a merry gathering last evening when the degree staff of the Chevalier-Middlesex lodge, No. 2, Knights of Pythias held a corn-husking and dance. After the husking Mr. Charles H. Jones gave an original Yankee sketch entitled "Uncle Hiram's Return." In the midst of the sketch a large rat darted across the floor, causing the ladies to take to the chairs. Whether the rat was there by accident or design was not divulged but he certainly made good on his part of the fun.

After the entertainment, pumpkin pies and other were served by the following ladies who assisted the entertainment committee: Carrie Fletcher, Mabel Sandron, Loe Vass, Ida Marble, and Lizzie Vaughn. The entertainment committee was composed of the following: E. D. Robinson, chairman; George E. Benner and W. C. Nichols. Then the floor was cleared for dancing. Hibbard's orchestra furnished the music. Besides the usual two-step and waltz, several old fashioned dances such as the quadrille, and lancers, the schottische, and the caprice were danced. The door marshals were William J. Jones and Thomas Donaldson.

Herr Paul Stahlmann, an experienced Astrologer, of Ober Neuendorf, Germany, says:

"The Horoscope which Professor Roxroy worked out for me is quite according to the truth. It is a very clever and conscientious piece of work. As an Astrologer myself I carefully examined his Planetary calculations and indications, and proved that his work in every detail is perfect, and that he is up-to-date in his science. Mr. Roxroy is a real philanthropist, and every one ought to avail himself of the professor's services, as there are many advantages to be gained by doing so."

Baroness Blaquet, one of the most talented ladies of Paris, says:

"I thank you for my Complete Life Reading, which is really of extraordinary accuracy. I had already consulted several Astrologers, but never before have I been answered with so much truth, or received such complete satisfaction. With sincere pleasure I will recommend you and make your marvellous science known to my friends and acquaintances."

TAUNTON'S MAYOR

Writes the Sun Commending the Commission Form of Charter

In reply to a letter from the editor of The Sun relative to the working of the commission charter, in Taunton, the mayor of that city writes as follows:

Taunton, Mass., Oct. 18, 1911.

Dear Sir: Yours of the 17th inst. received. In regard to the questions propounded in your communication, will say that conditions seem to be far better in our city under the present revised charter than formerly. The elimination of the double board system has worked advantageously for the city. The single board system under the present charter has resulted in a more efficient and more expeditious administration of municipal affairs and thus far the character and qualifications of the men who have been elected to the municipal council are far superior as a general rule to those chosen by those elected to office under our old charter. The publicity under our new charter has also inspired more confidence in the people generally. They know every man that is being made by their representatives and every cent of money that is spent is published in pamphlet form every month and copies of these pamphlets may be had in the office of the city clerk. All contracts are also given publicity and those involving the expenditure of a sum over $500 must be advertised in the local papers before any definite action can be taken by the municipal council. No particular class of citizens can have any particular advantages over any other class, and one thing I have noticed since my induction into office as the first mayor under our new

FIRST PHOTOGRAPH OF DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CHAIRMAN MACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, chairman of the democratic national committee, spring a surprise on his friends and political associates when he appeared smooth-shaven at a meeting of the democratic state committee, which unanimously elected him chairman. Mr. Mack had worn a moustache for many years. The latest honor conferred upon Mr. Mack gives him the unprecedented distinction of being the official head of the democratic party on both nation and state.

charter is the spirit of fairness to people generally and the economy in municipal finance due to the carelessness and scrupulousness manifested by the members of the municipal council. No one ward or wards under our present system receives any more favors or any more advantages than others and there is a tendency of equal distribution of work that is necessary in the various wards. The duties or responsibilities on the few shoulders is at the present, in my opinion, far better than formerly under the double board system and this has worked advantageously for the city.

Yours truly,
W. S. Woods.

JOHN F. ADAMS

LOWELL MAN GIVEN A SURPRISE BY HIS FRIENDS

John F. Adams, of this city, who is manager of the Colonial Theatre, in Lawrence, was given a pleasant surprise Thursday night. After the evening performance, he was invited to return to Lowell in an automobile which was awaiting him at the front entrance of the theatre. He found six friends comfortably seated in the machine. Upon arriving in Lowell he was escorted to the Washington club, where another surprise was in store for him.

John J. Sullivan, in behalf of those present, stepped forward and presented Manager Adams a solid silver watch safe. Mr. Sullivan extended to the amused manager the best wishes for a successful season. Manager Adams managed to say a few words in reply, thanking all for their thoughtfulness and their handsome gift. A supper and social hour followed.

Among those present were John J. Sullivan, William L. Cookin, Dr. Daniel O'Hearn, Stephen Kearney, James E. O'Donnell, George P. Green and John F. Adams.

Wednesday night in St. Joseph's college hall a lecture on the Eucharistic congress, held last September in Montreal, will be given by Rev. Fr. Violette, O. M. I. pastor of St. Joseph's parish. This lecture will be accompanied by fine stereopticon views of the procession and the principal features of the congress.

DRUG CLERK IS ACCUSED OF STEALING $1,700

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—On a charge of larceny of $1,700 between May 1 and Oct. 20, Harper D. Tapping, aged 26, living at 5 Hancock avenue, West End, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Lieut. It is alleged he stole the money from the Boston Dispensary, Bennett and Ash streets, where he was employed as a clerk, and it was customary for him to collect money from persons who bought medicine. It is claimed he took the money in amounts ranging from $20 to $25.

THE VARNEY RESIDENCE, 378 PARKER STREET, COR. OF PARKER AND RHODORA STREETS WITH 4995 SQUARE FEET OF LAND.

The house is situated on a lot next to the corner of Rhodora and Parker streets, containing 4995 square feet, and the corner lot contains 4077 square feet. The full description of the Varney residence has previously been published and priced at $6000, with three lots. Today the price with two lots is reduced to $5000, with one lot, $4000.

HOUSE LOTS AT THE

"Lowell Highlands"

Not a single restriction is placed on any of these lots, as the purchasers of these ultra gift-edged lots need no restrictions, as they restrict themselves. Look at the elegant houses already built and occupied by their owners.

I HAVE ONLY ONE LOT FOR SALE ON RHODORA ST. AT LESS THAN 20c PER SQUARE FOOT

And every foot of land on Rhodora Street is worth 20c per square foot, for remember that every lot has gas, city water, sewer, concrete sidewalk and edgestones, and Rhodora Street has the highest elevation of any street in the city, and is in the best unrestricted residential section of the city of Lowell, without a single exception, and I was going to add "for people of moderate means," but I need not add even that last phrase, for I believe the above is true without any qualifications.

DO YOU WANT to live in the best residential part of the city?
DO YOU WANT to have a key to the finest tennis court in the city free?

DO YOU WANT the best neighbors in the city?
DO YOU WANT to live in the healthiest section of the city?
DO YOU WANT the best lot now for sale on Rhodora Street?
DO YOU WANT to buy the best bargain today in real estate in Lowell?

IF YOU DO, then buy today this lot on Rhodora Street for 15c Per Square Foot, containing about 4000 square feet of land, amounting to about $600.

Go up there and look at all the lots. See for yourself what they are. There is a sign on every lot not already sold, giving the number of lot, also number of feet of land and price per foot.

If you want to make 5c per square foot, or $200 within the next year, you buy this lot on Rhodora Street for 15c per square foot, and I am sure you can make a profit for yourself of at least this amount in the next twelve months.

I have seen more than one man make over $200 on a house lot at THE LOWELL HIGHLANDS, and I paid one shrewd business man of this city just $1000 more than he paid for the same lots at THE LOWELL HIGHLANDS, and most of these lots were situated on beautiful Rhodora Street, which was named after the most beautiful wild flower that grows under God's great canopy of wonderful sky, and used to be found in the greatest abundance where Rhodora Street now is. But man has taken hold and driven out the beautiful flower, the rhodora, and in its place has built the most beautiful street in the city, where the homes of people of moderate means are situated.

DO YOU WANT TO OWN YOUR OWN HOME

Well, if you do, I know of no better way than to buy any one of the 20 out of 87 house lots at THE LOWELL HIGHLANDS that I have left that are not sold, and I have the best and choicest corner lots, as well as the inside lots left, for I always sell the poorest lots first, and make the prices the lowest on the first lots sold. When you have paid for the lot, I will build you any house you may select, provided the house is not too expensive, in my judgment, for your means.

START YOUR HOME TODAY

If you never make a beginning you will never own your own home. The best illustrations I can give you are the men and women who bought a house lot at the LOWELL HIGHLANDS five years ago, and today are not only living in their own homes, but some of them have their own homes all paid for, while each and everyone of them have made big and substantial reductions on what they owed when they first bought their residences.

Take the Highland car, get off at the corner of Parker and Stevens Streets. One minute's walk to the corner of Parker and Rhodora Streets. Then enter the LOWELL HIGHLANDS, walk down Rhodora street to Wedge street; then look at Ruth, Lura, Atlantic, Fairfield streets, Highland Avenue and Fairfax Street to Stevens Street, and look at the beautiful houses and house lots at the LOWELL HIGHLANDS, and see the low prices and number of feet, all marked in plain figures. Think the matter over, and if there is one that you are interested in ask RUSSELL about it, and remember you can own that lot or that house if you want to, if it is not previously sold. But if you want a lot on Rhodora Street, for 15c per square foot, you will have to ask RUSSELL quickly, for there are only a few more not already sold, and only one lot at less than 20c per square foot. I own only three lots on Rhodora Street, and I own only three choice corner lots on Wedge street at 15c per square foot, which is the street with the costliest house at the LOWELL HIGHLANDS, and is destined to be the best street there, with the finest view without an exception in the city of Lowell.

Remember, this is your last week to secure a lot on Rhodora street for 15c per square foot, for if this lot is not sold before 9 P. M., Saturday, October 21st, the lot will be withdrawn from sale at this price, and the price raised to 20c per square foot, which is the right price it ought to be today.

Jolly Revels for Halloween Gatherings

Changes Slight, But Important, In the New Winter fashions

BONBONNIERES FOR SUPPER TABLE.

THE popularity of Halloween parties has grown with each succeeding year. Like all festival days now having apparently only a secular interpretation, Halloween had a religious origin. In modern times this day has come to be regarded by old and young alike as the day par excellence on which to entertain. There are a great many ways to amuse guests, but a costume party is especially appropriate for a Halloween jollification. If the guests are not inclined to take much trouble, a witch party might be given, as the costume is easy to devise, yet affords opportunity for originality.

A rather short black skirt, the peaked cap, a red or yellow cape and the essential broom and cat with a black or orange witch mask will answer every purpose. As few of the girls will care to wear their own hair hanging, make the witch locks from raveled rope, which can be dyed any desired color. Wigs can be hired, but they are not especially sanitary.

For more troublesome costumes the guests could be told to come as autumn fruits or vegetables. A clever girl can make herself fetching at small cost with crumpled papers combined with natural foliage. Among the characters should be a head of lettuce, a bunch of grapes, an ear of corn, tomatoes, radishes, pumpkin vines, potatoes and quinces. Those who do not object to grotesqueness should build out their figures to resemble in shape as well as in coloring the vegetables they represent.

Basest of all, yet with all the fun of mystery attached, is a phantom dance where all the dancers are dressed in sheets and pillowcases and carefully masked.

One Sided Gowns Are Now the Fad

ONE OF THE NEWEST GOWNS.

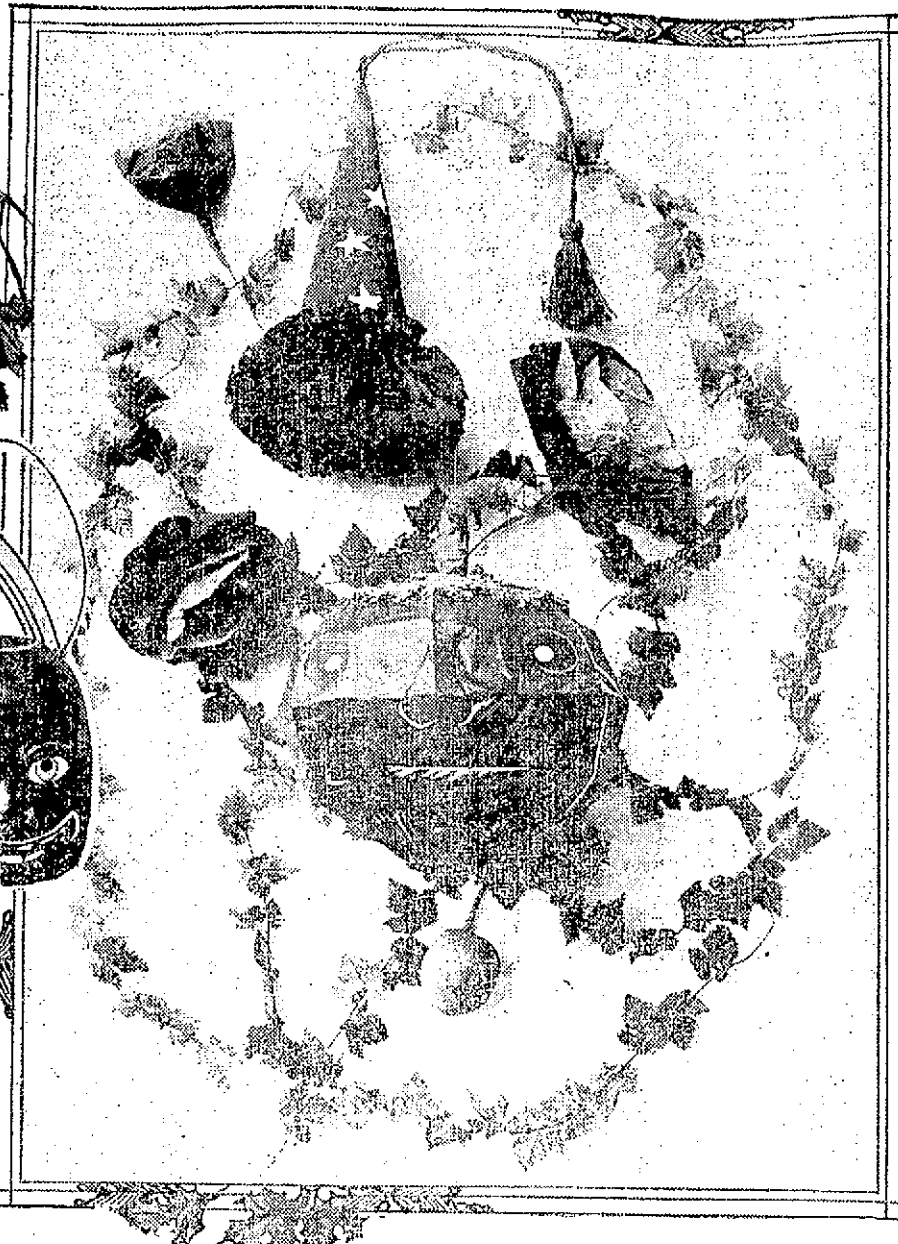

A round and round spiral effect is suggested by the arrangement of drapery on this new frock. The upper part of the bodice and the tunic are made of black and white striped tulle silk, the bodice being of venise lace over chiffon, and the venise edged tunic falling over a skirt of chiffon ruffled with fine lace.

WEIRD DECORATIONS FOR ROOMS

A Halloween tableau in which children are the performers is most attractive as a means of entertaining on this mystic occasion. "The Investiture of the Midnight Queen" is a charming little picture play which may be done in a series of three tableaux.

The first picture shows the flowers of the garden (represented by girls dressed in paper costumes of autumn flower colorings) trying to select their queen. The second tableau shows the man in the moon deciding that a golden chrysanthemum shall be crowned with a chaplet of golden stars. The principal roles are enacted by the man in the moon, the pumpkin head owner of the garden and the benevolent witch of night, who wears a peaked hat strewn with stars and frilled with crimped tissue. The large illustration shows how these costume accessories may be made.

Bonbonnières for the supper table are shown in the smaller cut. The bat on the head of both the clown and the Irishman may be lifted off and the bowl low receptacle filled with confectionery, while in the case of the corn-stalk cluster representing a scarecrow

the body is removable at the waist line. The pumpkin lantern and black cat are used for room decorations.

The Halloween Feast

WISDOM CAKES.

SELECT good sized dates and with icing mark the features of the owl on each, cutting the ears into the dates. Press these into fresh icing placed on oblong molasses cakes and put citron on to represent branches; then form feet with chocolate icing.

HOBGOBLIN CUPS.

Serve frozen cider sherbet in the hobgoblin cups which are made of papier mache and come expressly for this purpose. Each cup bears a different expression, and green paper pumpkin leaves also can be purchased on which to serve them. If the cider is sweet then enough lemon juice should be added to give zest to the ice. When the ice is frozen to a mush add one cupful of sweet cream to each quart of cider and finish freezing.

GHOST APPLES.

Large perfect apples are cored and baked until soft, but not long enough to burst the skins. These are cooled and served singly to each person, together with a marshmallow, three cubes of sugar and a liquor glass of brandy. The marshmallows are pushed down into the bottom of the cavities left by the removal of the cores and the remaining space filled with the cubes of sugar. Upon these the brandy is poured and then lighted. It burns with a ghostly blue flame until the alcohol is consumed and the sugar melted. The apples are then eaten with cream.

THEY'RE IN THE SHOPS.

Paper cooking bags, about which so much is being talked and written, are for sale in the shops in three sizes. Fifty bags 6½ by 9 inches are 25 cents, 25 bags 9 by 14 inches cost 25 cents, 20 bags 11 by 19 inches are 25 cents. The bags are grease and water proof.

It's Convenient for The Bridge Party

ONE of the new conceits for the bridge player is a convenient reticule made of ribbon. Very wide satin ribbon is formed into three bags, each longer than the one above it. These bags are designed to hold the score card, tally pencil, handkerchief and, if the game is for something more substantial than prizes, a handful of gold coin. The reticule swings from the arm on ribbon loops.

A Useful Millinery Hint

WHEN a separate loop of wire is inserted in a hat bow it often has an extremely annoying habit of asserting its presence by poking out. A stitch is not always advisable, as it may spoil the appearance of the bow.

Here is quite a good dodge when dealing with piece silk. The loops are made the required width from a strip cut on the straight. The selvage is on one side, and the other is hemmed. Into the hem a round millinery wire is pushed before making up the loop, and it gives the bow a smart, perky, up-standing appearance, keeping it exactly in the right place.

Bows wired in this way are most valuable when motor veils are worn, as they come up smiling after the crushing inevitably sustained. Though you might not think it, the bow looks smarter if the side that is hemmed (what one would naturally call the wrong side) is used for the front. It looks like a strapping slipped on, and the wire acts as a kind of piping.

FOOTWEAR EXTRAVAGANCE.

You cannot economize on your feet this season when they are so much in evidence, and, therefore, every woman will have to take up the two subjects together—the kind of suit she buys and the kind of shoes she will get to go with the suit.

Oh, the little more and how much it is, and the little less and what worlds away." Mr. Browning was doubtless not thinking of the mutability of fashions when he penned these lines, but nothing could have been more to the point if it had been made to cover the case.

Now the present styles are just a "little more" removed in their essential features from those of the spring and summer, but "what worlds away" are they from a strictly modish viewpoint.

Take, for instance, the new skirts. The silhouette is practically the same. Still, if one looks longer one will observe a marked difference in the "lines." The straight up and down slender effects are still to be seen, but the curved in line at the knee and in the back is not in the picture. True, skirts are still narrow; no one will deny that, but they are narrow in a different way. And worse news of all, the old skirts cannot be cut over into the new models. The woman who ordered extra material last spring when her tailor made was new will now be mighty grateful for the wisdom which prompted the purchase. The fabric will come in for making wide side panels, which will bring the skirt right up to date. The edges of the panels are stitched well beyond the edges of the outer skirt; this gives the appearance of one skirt dropped over another. The panels may be of a contrasting color, but the plain tone is better sartorial form. Don't, though, put in a plaid panel. Dame Fashion does not seem to object to more fullness from the ankle up, but for some unknown reason she still puts the ban on plaits. To come back to the simulated underskirt for a moment, all sorts of ribbed silks and heavy satins are used for these underskirts, no matter how rough is the original material.

Chenille, homespun and serge is dropped over satin without a qualm on the part of the dressmaker.

As for the suit materials, you will not be able to get away from ratine. What is ratine? you ask. Well just imagine a particularly silky and smooth cloth and you will be pretty close to the appearance of ratine.

There has been much agitation about the fashionable coat length, but the ultimatum has gone forth to the effect that suit coats will range from twenty-six to thirty inches in length. Coats for three piece dressy costumes are longer—in fact, almost wrap length. And as an ornamentation you will find it hard to get away from the immense revers. It is a glorification of the sailor collar of the spring and disports itself in a mad extravagance over the front of the coat and galls in size as it sweeps the shoulders.

Strange enough, this magnificent collar is not made of velvet or in the color of the coat. White and elephant gray are the winning shades to exploit it.

For the blouse to wear with tailored suits there is a new material which is new and difficult to get even in Paris at present. It is called braun. Mme. Paquin is using this stuff for her smartest effects. It is first cousin to Turkish toweling, but the weave is stiffer and the threads less coarse and the surface less uneven, but it is morbidly glorified crash, after all. It comes in white, tan and cream and lends itself admirably to any slight application of color needed to bring the skirt and waist of a suit into harmony. For morning blouses it is distinctly smart.

FOR THE PANTRY.

White shelf paper with a glossy surface that can be wiped off with a damp cloth sells for 32 cents a quire. The sheets measure 26 by 38 inches.

Blouse Newness

AN EXQUISITE WAIST IN SHADES OF BLUE.

THE blouse illustrated is a Paquin model for wear with coat and skirt suits. It has a kimono yoke of tucked white Chinese silk and on this is arranged the embroidered section which forms the front, a similar section forming the back. A piping of old blue silk, a silk necktie in the same shade and French dots embroidered with blue floss add brightness and color. The square motifs are made of silver braid and blue silk.

The Pampered Pet Dog of Society

bootmakers, whose duty it is to supply fitting footwear for the canine tribe.

New Ideas In Neglepees

FASHION'S latest decree is to use two thicknesses of mousseline or thin silk, white for the outside and a delicate color underneath. They are separately made and are only caught together at the hem.

They are elusive in their shadings and are trimmed with five ruffles of five inch footing. The neck is pointed in the front and the back. The sleeves are rather loose and ruffled from the elbow to the shoulder with the footing. From the point at the back of the neck there is a square bow of the silk edged with footing. Leaf green under white makes an exquisite combination.

THERE is a great vogue at the moment for pet dogs in Paris, and these spoiled little creatures are continually in evidence as the beloved and constant companions of the smartest and most exclusive of fair Parisiennes. The picture shows several of these pampered darlings tricked out in their up to date finery. When they go out for their daily drive the uniformed servant of the hotel carries them carefully across the pavement in luxuriously cushioned baskets to the waiting motorcar of their mistress. Tailors for dogs are not hard to find in Paris. They make gorgeous overcoats, furnished with pockets, in which tiny handkerchiefs are placed adorned with initials. For dogs that with advancing age suffer from rheumatism warm knitted woolen waistcoats are provided. Then there are special

MAKING BLANKETS

Faulkner's Mills Rushed

With Work

All the woolen mills in Lowell and vicinity are doing well at the present time and there is a particularly good turn of industry at the mills along the Concord river and Wamsutt mills.

Faulkner's mills are not only working full time but the carding and spinning departments work three nights per week until 9 o'clock. The company at present is manufacturing army blankets instead of cloth and finds orders plentiful. The Hanning company is also busy. The mills of the American Woolen company at Collinsville are working full time while the Navy

Yard mill is going along smoothly.

FOR THE NEW CHARTER

but know it have the power to shape public opinion, in the government of the city. It would be easy for them to secure a city government that would work for the true interests of all concerned by enlisting the sympathy of every voter who is in favor of clean and progressive government. Under the present charter, judging from past experience, seems impossible.

Take the spectacle at city hall at the present time where one body says "Yes" and the other says "No." Then and there commences the contention that makes the city's interests suffer and will so continue until such times as we get a new charter for responsibility.

Street and Sewer Work

Why is it that street and sewer building are started in the middle of the summer and continue until election time comes around and the poor fellows that have to do the work are so bundled up and numbed with the cold that they cannot do a fair day's work? Is this for the city's interest or is it for some other interests? This, in my opinion is one of the drawbacks that can be eliminated by the workings of the new charter. Give the street and sewer men a chance to work in early spring and summer when he can work, and if he is convinced to stop work let it be during the freezing winter weather. Some of the opponents of the charter say that the new charter is only a bad, and that it has not been tried long enough anywhere to prove its value.

Let us see what can be said about a few of the 100 odd cities that have adopted the new charter plan.

This movement began in California,

Texas, in 1906 and the term "commission" originated at that time, and the name for want of the better description has stuck to it ever since, although the word "commission" does not apply to this form of government in the true sense of the word. By this method of government business is dispatched in less time than it formerly took to go through either branch of the old form.

From 1906 up to the present time there are about 165 cities that have accepted this form of government, and the number of cities where the plan was put to a vote 95 per cent of the cities accepted it, and in the eleven years there has not been a city which has shown any desire to revert to the former system of government.

Charter in Other Cities

It is a hard matter to prove that one city is better governed than another, but comparisons made of the cities that have accepted the form go to prove that the city is better off under the new system.

The rapid strides of the cities of Galveston, Dallas and Des Moines may be taken as examples. In most cities there is considerable waste, much inefficiency and probably some corruption which can be credited to public expense by political favoritism. In Houston, Texas, where the plan has been in effect five years, a debt of $400,000 was wiped out, 70 miles of paved streets put in, and the cost decreased to a great extent. A great great public hall and its site have been paid for from the same source, something we cannot get in Lowell under the old charter. Schools were redeemed from politics, gambling has been stopped, and other reforms were put into operation.

In Dallas, Texas, the new plan has been in effect four years. The city has established a credit balance and wiped out a deficiency of $200,000. A peculiar feature of the Dallas, Texas, set of commissioners was the fact that a petition was signed by 3700 of the voters asking that the commissioners all be candidates for re-election.

The Des Moines, Iowa, commission plan has been in effect three years.

The city under the new system has always paid its bills and realized a 2 per cent discount for cash. It has realized a bonded indebtedness of $100,000. The amount of public interest on the first three years under

ACCUSED MAN SILENT

PASTOR RICHESON

To Answer Murder Charge on Date
Set For His Wedding

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Rev. Clarence Vigil T. Richeson, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church in Cambridge, awoke today somewhat refreshed to begin his first full day in the Suffolk county jail on Charles street, where he is to remain until Tuesday, Oct. 24, the date which had been set for his marriage to Miss Violet Edmunds, daughter of Moses Grant Edmunds, a wealthy resident of the Chestnut Hill section of Brookline. Instead of being married on that day, the minister will appear in court on the charge of murdering his former sweetheart, Miss Avis Linnell, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Linnell of Hyannis, a student at the New England Conservatory of Music and a Sunday school teacher at Mount Temple. Several more dramatic scenes enacted in the history of criminal cases than those of yesterday at the mansion of Moses Grant Edmunds of Brookline when Mr. Richeson was placed under arrest after the police had surrounded the house and sought admission for hours. Today the house is closed to all visitors. In the rooms where the decorations were soon to work their transformations with palms and flowers for the approaching wedding, invitations for which were recalled yesterday, all is stillness and sorrow.

Seek More Evidence
Today, the police officials, under the direction of Chief Inspector Dugan of the bureau of criminal investigation and Deputy Supt. of Police, Walter, confined the work to complete evidence in the case and to supply the missing link in the chain already secured in connection with the murder. The active delivery of the poison to Miss Linnell is occupying a great deal of attention from the police. An effort is being made to ascertain who it was dined with the girl last Saturday afternoon only a few hours before her body was discovered.

Chief Dugan has learned that Mr. Richeson dined last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Frank Riley of Somerville, who has been a member of the Immanuel Baptist church many years. After throwing himself on a couch and exclaiming he had lost a dear friend, Richeson said she died of convulsions, according to the police account of Mrs. Riley's story. How he should know she died of convulsions is what the police seek to know.

The police are also working on the statements made by John J. Danskin of Cambridge to the effect that his wife heard Richeson telephoning to Miss Linnell at the Young Women's Christian Association building to meet him Saturday. It is reported that girl friends of Avis Linnell saw her answer the phone and later she told them that she had an appointment for dinner with her friend.

Richeson is Cool
In his cell Richeson remains cool and untroubled. He has made no statement, says Chief Inspector Dugan. A member of the Immanuel Baptist church today states that at the services at the church tomorrow a statement from Richeson would be read by the clergyman who would fill the pulpit in the absence of the pastor.

According to word received here, Miss L. V. Richeson, sister of the minister, will reach Boston tonight to be near her brother in his trouble.
No one in Massachusetts aroused more public feeling to a more marked degree than this case centering about the Cambridge pastor, the Hyannis singer and the Brookline helpmeet, and few have been so steeped with dramatic incidents. Efforts of the police have been tireless since the body of the girl was found Saturday night. The statement of William Hahn, the druggist, was the evidence that led the police to arrest Mr. Richeson. Hahn stated that he sold Richeson a quantity of cyanide of potassium Tuesday, Oct. 10.

EFFIGY OF PASTOR
HANGS FROM LIMB OF TREE AT HYANNIS

HYANNIS, Oct. 21.—An effigy of the Rev. Clarence Richeson hangs today from the limb of a tree in the yard of the Baptist church of which the minister accused of the murder of Avis Linnell of this town was formerly pastor. The effigy was discovered at dawn today. It had been hung some time during the night after the regular Friday evening prayer meeting at the Baptist church had ended.

The effigy was fully dressed and pinned to the coat was a large placard bearing the inscription, "The Rev. Richeson." On a board nailed to the foot of the tree was painted, these words:
"Guilt—read Luke 17-3."
This scriptural reference is:
"It were better for him that a millstone were tied about his neck, and he cast into the sea than that he should offend one of these little ones."
Another card bearing the signature "Vigil Committee" requested that the effigy be allowed to hang until 10 o'clock tonight, when it would be burned on the Hyannis baseball grounds.

The effigy bore a painted face and was dressed in black with white collar and cuffs. It was about the same size as the former pastor and those who saw it pronounced it a striking likeness of the man who is now in a prison cell for the murder of one of his former parishioners.
The presence of the effigy was reported to the deacons of the Baptist church early in the day. The deacons held a conference and finally decided to allow the effigy to remain in the tree. It was the sentiment of the deacons that if the effigy represented the feelings of the people of Hyannis it might be a good idea to allow it to remain hanging in the churchyard as a warning to the youths of the town and leave its removal to the authorities.

The effigy could be seen for about one thousand feet on either side of the church, and most of the townspeople journeyed to the church to make a close inspection of it.

The effigy was finally cut down by J. S. Nickerson, a traveling salesman representing a Boston firm, whose home is directly opposite the Baptist church. Mr. Nickerson is not a Baptist and has no friendship for Mr.

Richeson, but he did object to such a gruesome object hanging opposite his residence. He obtained a ladder and climbed high enough to cut the rope that bound the figure to the limb. Then he disposed of the effigy.
Feeling in Hyannis runs high against Mr. Richeson. It would appear that even the most loyal of his former parishioners have now turned against him. The Linnell girl had an unblemished reputation, so far as her fellow-townsmen knew, and the clergyman is held responsible by them for her unfortunate condition and terrible death.

PASTOR'S ROOMS
WERE LOOKED OVER BEFORE DETECTIVE GOT THERE

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—According to Chief Inspector Dugan, someone had gone through the rooms of the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, who is accused of the murder of Miss Avis Linnell, before Captain John McGarr, of the chief's staff, visited them. Mr. Richeson's rooms were on Magazine street, Cambridge.

After he had been arraigned in the municipal court and formally held for a hearing on Oct. 21, Captain McGarr went to the house to look over his effects. It is stated that when he reached the place there was plain evidence that someone had been there before him.

Captain McGarr found nothing in the rooms that he thought worth carrying away as evidence in the case. Chief Dugan said that he had no idea who had visited the place.
"I have not the least idea who it was who went to the house," said Chief Dugan, "before Captain McGarr got there. But evidently someone did. When Captain McGarr got there he found confusion and he did not have to stay long to discover that he need not waste his time in searching. He found nothing that was of value in the nature of evidence."

Chief Dugan also said that his officers have been searching high and low to discover where Richeson and Miss Linnell were on Saturday last, the day which she is supposed to have received the poison that caused her death. On the preceding Thursday, it was learned by the police, she had made an appointment by telephone to meet someone Saturday. It was not known where. It is claimed that she had been seen in company of Rev. Mr. Richeson on Friday by George Baker, a brakeman on the New Haven road, who runs to Hyannis.

AT ST. MARGARET'S
Great Progress Made on New Church

Rev. Fr. Harkins, pastor of St. Margaret's church, will give a complimentary dancing party to those who took part in the recent bazaar, at Lincoln hall, next Wednesday evening.
Great progress is being made on the new St. Margaret's church and work is being done on the interior. It is expected that the church will be ready for occupancy by December 1.

NEW STOREHOUSE
WILL BE ERECTED BY JOHN F. SAUNDERS

John F. Saunders, the well known provision dealer, is about to build a two-story brick storehouse in the rear of his establishment in Gorham street. The building will be 24x75 feet.

OPERA AND FARCE
On Nov. 23rd at very entertaining soirée will be given at St. Joseph's college hall by a number of young men of that parish, who will present an operetta, "Quand on Conspire," and a comedy farce, "Toto Polle." Both of these plays are by Antony Mars, a famous French author of comedy, and are being rehearsed under the able direction of Rev. Charles Denzot, O. M. I. D. D. The young men who are to take part in "Quand on Conspire" are Leo G. Morin, Edouard Desrosiers and E. J. Laroche, while "Toto Polle" will be presented by: Leo G. Morin, Cyrille Hebert, George Labranche, A. Daignault, Joseph Larose, Emile Bordeleau and E. J. Laroche.

The above young men are contemplating the idea of forming a dramatic club, and this question will be discussed at the first meeting which will take place Sunday, Oct. 22. It is their intention to present plays at least four times a year, and to build a large hall with amusement rooms.

All up to Assn., tonight.

LOUIS PHANEUF

Accepts an Important Position in Boston

The many friends of Mr. Louis N. Phaneuf, visitor for the pauper department at city hall, will be pleased to learn that he has accepted a better position, that of visitor for the trustees of the hospital for consumptives in Boston, with a salary of $1200 per year to start. Mr. Phaneuf will take up his new duties Monday morning, having been transferred to the other position last Thursday.

Mr. Phaneuf, however, has decided to remain in Lowell and he will travel to Boston every day. He has been connected with the Lowell pauper department for the past four years, and has always proved to be an efficient official in the capacity of visitor. He is a graduate of St. Joseph's college, this city, and also of the Holy Angels college of Buffalo, N. Y.

By the transfer of Mr. Phaneuf a vacancy is made in the department and it is understood that many candidates are out for the place. The position is under the civil service rules, but a provisional appointment after 12 months' service becomes permanent, and it may be said that no examination in connection with this position has been held for the past four years.

SCARLET FEVER

LOCAL RUN IS NOT CONSIDERED ALARMING

The week's run of scarlet fever cases, 14 all told, in eight families, and nearly all in the same locality, is not considered alarming by the health authorities. All of the cases are light, a fact that makes it harder for the health authorities to control as a child with only a light case may go about giving it to others before his own condition is discovered. In Exeter, N. H., not half of the size of Lowell, there are 30 cases at present.

William Hahn, the Newton Centre druggist who states that he sold cyanide of potassium to Rev. Clarence Vigil Thompson Richeson, is well known in Billerica, his wife being a Billerica girl. Constable Henry Livingston speaking of the case said: "I am well acquainted with Mr. Hahn and know him to be an honest, conscientious gentleman. I believe firmly every word of evidence that he has stated."

HUSBAND IS HELD

Woman Died From Cyanide of Potassium

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 21.—Detectives investigating the case of Mrs. Alice McFarland, who died from cyanide of potassium poisoning at her home here, today were apparently no nearer a solution of the mystery than when they began. The husband of the woman, arrested on Thursday, was still a prisoner in a witness room at the fifth precinct police station and the authorities withheld from the public any information that would reveal the trend of the investigation. McFarland has not applied for a writ of habeas corpus but his detention without a court order has caused some comment.

FOR THE NEW CHARTER

Mr. M. A. Lee Tells Why Working Men Should Support It

Asked by a Sun reporter why he favors the new charter, Mr. Michael A. Lee, the business manager of the building trades, submits the following very logical statement of his views. We ask other labor men to read and ponder what Mr. Lee says in the following:

"Owing to the fact that I have been asked by a large number of labor men and others as well, why I am in favor of the new charter, I would be thankful for space in your paper to answer them in such a way, that there will be no doubt as to what I think on the subject.

There are several reasons why we should have a new charter. My first

SICKNESS ON BOARD

The Coronet With Rev. Mr. Sandford Reached Portland Today

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 21.—Having on board Rev. Frank Sandford, for whose arrest on a civil suit for damages for $100,000 Cumberland county officials have been waiting since a year ago last June, the steam yacht Coronet, which has been a mystery of the seas for more than a year, limped to the entrance of the harbor today with men, women and children working at the pumps, and was towed into the quarantine station by a motorboat.

It was learned definitely that Mr. Sandford, who is the leader of the band, and who, it is claimed, has styled himself as "Elijah II" was on board. It was expected the papers in the suit, which was brought in behalf of Mrs. Florence Whitaker, who, with her four children, was delivered on an order from the supreme court of Maine from the custody of those on board the Kingdom, another ship of the Sullivan fleet, which was wrecked on the African coast last May, would be served on Lester Sandford before night.

The Coronet was detained at the quarantine station the greater part of the day. It was found there was considerable sickness of a minor character on board, due for the most part to the lack of proper food for weeks, and the health officers of the port desired to take every precaution before passing the party. The leader was in good health but nearly everyone was suffering from scurvy. Seven of the party died since leaving Africa and were buried at sea.

On board the Coronet was a party of 31, including eight women and two children, which was taken from the Kingdom when that craft came to grief on the southern coast of Africa. All had suffered much from lack of food and at times were threatened with starvation until they were relieved by supplies of provisions from passing steamships at sea.

The yacht, which 20 years ago beat the schooner yacht Dauntless in a race from Sandy Hook to Queenstown, has for months been battered and tossed about the seas. When asked, where they had been, H. E. Witham, the sailing master, replied, "Everywhere."

While not actually correct, this answered the question in a general way, for the Coronet has cruised in many parts of the world since disappearing from Portland in the spring of 1910, when the shill leader was threatened with further prosecution. He stated that they had not been to the Holy Land. Much of the time had been spent in the tropics, where members of the party have been disseminating the doctrines of the society.

The yacht was dismantled, her sails being torn to ribbons and her once snow white sides were sea fouled with barnacles and slimy strings of kelp. When picked up by the motorboat she was beating her way into port under two pitifully unadorned little storm-try-sails, a remarkable change from the immaculately trim looking yacht of former days.

As the famous gospel yacht rounded Portland Head today men, women and children were working at the pumps to keep her from sinking. For the last week the staunch craft has been beating her way along the coast, her crew despairing of her ability to reach port.

On board the craft were 35 people. Besides the 31 survivors of the wreck of the Kingdom, there were 24 persons who were on the Coronet when she left Maine waters.

Worn out by the terrible hardships at sea, half starved, with faces emaciated, it was a ghastly looking company of seafarers which confronted the boarding party.

For seven days the men and women have been working incessantly at the pumps in reliefs of three watches and this terrible labor in their weakened condition had reduced even the strongest men of the crew to mere skeletons as compared with their former selves.

MET THE EAST BOSTON HIGH ELEVEN THIS AFTERNOON

"We will play East Boston High eleven this afternoon, rain or shine," said Capt. Leggett of the Lowell High school football team this morning, and he kept his word for despite the heavy downpour of rain and the mud which was ankle deep in some places, the two teams clashed at Washington park this afternoon.

The attendance was very light, only the hardened, red hot grid-iron enthusiasts having the courage to brave the storm.

The Oblate Fathers of St. Joseph's parish will begin their annual mission next Thursday, the exercises to be continued for one week. Rev. Brulard, O. M. I. D. D., of St. Joseph's parish will be the preacher, and the mission will close a week from Wednesday.

Lowell Gas Light Co.,

Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen:—

A recent and well directed coke advertisement in the local papers setting forth the economical features of Lowell Gas Coke over coal appealed to me as an excellent factor in marketing your product. There's nothing like publicity, explanation and fact, when dealing with the buying public—even the "Canny Scot" admits that "Facts are stubborn things that winna ding."

As a consumer, however, and regardless of advertising, I desire to express thorough satisfaction in every particular. Satisfaction, economy and efficiency are briefly but forcibly expressed.

Yours very truly,

NO. BILLERICA JAIL

Condemned by the State Board of Health

The old wooden cell in Union hall, North Billerica, which is supposed to be the village lockup, but which has not been used for such purposes for the past 15 years, has been condemned by the state board of health. Recently representatives of the board made a tour of inspection of the various police stations throughout the state, and as a result 45 were condemned, one of them being that at North Billerica. The Billerica authorities have been notified that unless the rules of the board are lived up to further condemnations will follow.

The Billerica officials, however, intend to obey the law to the letter. The lockup, or rather cell was unofficially abandoned 15 years ago and at the present time is used as a storeroom. When persons are arrested in Billerica, they are brought to this city and lodged at the police station here.

Acting under authority of chapter 465 of the acts of 1910, the state board also established regulations for the sanitary conduct of police stations, as follows:

1. The provision of the common drinking cup is unlawful in accordance with the provisions of chapter 428 of the acts of 1910. A drinking cup after use by one person should be washed clean before being used by another.
2. All dishes and utensils used for food should be thoroughly cleansed and washed in boiling water after use.
3. Every woman prisoner should be furnished with a mattress. The mattress should have a smooth surface and be covered with rubber or other waterproof material. This should be encased in a slip of washable material or covered with a sheet. These slips or sheets should be changed for each occupant and washed. Both mattresses and coverings should be removed from the cells during the day and thoroughly aired.

4. All cells should be adequately ventilated. (Cells ventilated by means of openings into ventilating flues must have some means, mechanical or other, for creating a circulation of air.)

In addition to these general regulations, the board has also made a special regulation in the case of each of the 45 station houses which it has condemned, and intends to compel an improvement of conditions or abandonment of the station in each case.

The law under which the board is acting reads as follows:

"The state board of health shall make rules for police station houses, lockups and houses of detention, regarding the care and use of drinking cups and of dishes used for food; the care and use of bedding, and the ventilation of the building. Such rules may be general, or may be applicable to a single station house, house of detention or lockup; and a copy thereof shall be sent by said board to the mayor of every town to which the rules apply. It shall be the duty of the mayors of cities and the selectmen of towns to which the rules so made apply, to see that the rules are enforced."

CHILD ARRESTED

BUT CAPTAIN REFUSED TO DETAIN LITTLE ONE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Capt. Joseph Richards was sitting at the desk in the Seventh street police station, Jersey City, when Policeman Brennan walked in with Charles, Eugene and Thomas Parker, brothers, 10, 8 and 2 years old, respectively. Their mother was with them. Capt. Richards said the children had been arrested on a warrant charging assault and battery. "Of all the stupid things I ever heard of this is the worst," he said. The captain read the warrant and learned that J. H. Blumenthal had complained that stones had been thrown at him. "I won't have that baby booked here," said Capt. Richards. "Madam, take your baby home." Charles and Eugene were paroled in the custody of their mother for appearance in the juvenile court today. Blumenthal explained that he obtained the names of the Parker boys from a neighbor and did not know they were so young.

WHEN MR. FOSS says that European shoe manufacturers get the machines of the United Shoe Machinery Company on better terms than American Manufacturers can get them, he says what is not true. The average royalty per pair of shoes of the same quality has never been lower in Europe than in the United States. There is no appreciable difference between the leases which European and American manufacturers sign; yet the United Shoe Machinery Company, pursuing abroad the same business methods as at home, has done a greatly increasing business in open competition with the so-called free machinery which its critics here profess to favor. European manufacturers are constantly replacing their free machinery with machinery obtained from the United Shoe Machinery Company under lease conditions, because, like American manufacturers they know they can thus get better machines, better service and better terms than in any other way.

THE OTTOMAN NAVY THE PRICE OF MEAT

Interesting Story of Plan Introduced by Turkish Officer Has Greatly Advanced Throughout the German Empire

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The discussion incident to the present unpleasantness between Italy and Turkey of the unpreparedness of the Turkish fleet, recalled an unusual difficulty experienced by the founders of the original Ottoman navy.

They were hampered by the fact that there were no words in the Turkish dictionary for the various ropes and sails of the warships of that day. An ingenious officer solved the problem by tying different vegetables to the various ropes and sails of the rigging, and the sailors received orders to "hoist the tomato!" "Let go the potato!" until a more formal vocabulary could be supplied.

Novel as this procedure was, it was not an innovation, as it was exactly the method adopted by Almeida, the Portuguese admiral, and discovered when he was outfitting a fleet for just such a descent on the Turkish colony of Mazambique as the Italians made on Tripoli.

It was at the beginning of the 16th century, and Portugal still lacked a navy, and the Portuguese tongue was devoid of naval terms. This fact did not deter the doughty Admiral Almeida, and hanging up strings of garlic and onions on the port and starboard sides respectively of his ships, he instructed his helmsmen to "garlic" or "onion" the helm, as necessity commanded.

The report of the British prison commission just made public dictates that crime is on the decrease in the kingdom, as there is a fall of 14,000 in the number of prisoners. The commissioners denounce short sentences and plead for longer terms with a view to successful reformatory effects. The report hears testimony to the good moral effect of lectures and concerts in the prisons.

When Andrew Gibson, for 37 years the driver of an omnibus in London, throws down his reins some night near the end of the present month, the last horse-drawn bus will have finished its final trip through the streets of the world's metropolis.

Gibson shakes his gray head sadly over the prospect and declares that the London of the motorbus and taxicab is not as happy of the London of the days when people were content to move slower. He said: "When I started driving folks seemed to have more time and they were more contented. Passengers of today never think of passing the time of day with the driver or asking questions like they used to." At the heyday of Gibson's career the two omnibus companies of London owned 31,000 horses.

After an uninterrupted existence as a hostelry for over a century and a half, Long's hotel on New Bond street has closed its doors. In name at least it was one of the oldest hotels in London. It was at Long's that Byron and Sir Walter Scott met for the last time in 1815. "He dined or lunched with me," wrote Scott, "at Long's hotel in Bond street. I never saw him so full of gaiety and good humor, to which the presence of Mr. Matthews, the comedian, added not a little. Poor Terry was also present." The hotel is frequently mentioned in the literary memoirs of the day.

Joseph Verey, friend and courier of Mark Twain during nine of the European tours made by the American humorist, has been rescued from want by a society of professional humorists. Verey felt the pinch of poverty from the loss of his savings, which had been unwisely invested, and he was in actual want when discovered in obscure London lodgings by a local paper's representative. When his plight was made public a number of admirers of Mark Twain interested themselves in his behalf and secured him a position as lecturer to a local society for the encouragement of humor.

Just prior to his late misfortune, the former courier was engaged as pleasant rascal by King Alfonso of Spain. On one of the visits of the royal family to the hatching, Verey entertained them with stories of his travels with the celebrated American humorist. He has an endless store of recollections of his famous employer. He gave the following interesting account of Mark Twain's travel habits:

"Mr. Clemens hardly ever talked to anyone. Once I traveled from Cologne to Dresden with him and he only spoke about two words to me. What I was instructed to do, was to engage the other people in the compartment in conversation and ask them about everything. Mr. Clemens used to sit and listen.

"He must have had a wonderful memory. He used to go to museums for hours. He would not say a word, but he would listen while I asked questions and engaged people in conversation.

"I never heard him make a joke, not even with his own family. He never made one with me. The nearest approach he got to one was in a letter to me about the uncertainty of his plans. He wrote: 'He is bad prophet.'

"He was a great listener. He would take it all in and never say a word himself."

The American writer and Verey understood each other perfectly. Clemens discovered Verey in Paris through the hall porter at the author's hotel, who gave such a glowing account of the courier that Twain determined to have him at once.

"George, I must have this Verey at once," he said. George demurred, as he could not leave his post, but the humorist agreed to put on his apron and look after the donkeys while the porter summoned Verey. The courier was engaged at once and served Clemens in that capacity as long as he was needed.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The prices of all kinds of meat have risen to such an extent throughout the empire that horseflesh has become an article of common consumption. In the first six months of this year 35,777,195 pounds of horseflesh were sold as against 45,458,883 pounds of mutton.

In view of the great agitation for a decrease in import duties on foodstuffs and the abolition of the export bounty system, which raises the price of food, the Prussian minister of agriculture has issued a decree in which he points out the great difference between wholesale and retail prices, especially in regard to pork, which is the favorite meat of the Germans, forming more than half of the total of meat consumed. The minister enjoins the cities to endeavor to bring about an understanding with the retailers, and if they are unable to do so, to take effective action by selling meat, vegetables, fruit and more especially fish, themselves, and to this end he promises to arrange that reduced railroad freight tariffs shall be accorded to municipalities which provide retail food stores for the benefit of their citizens.

Wilmersdorf and other suburbs of Berlin have already started municipal fish stores which are a great success, and Berlin has just decided to open 73 stalls for a similar purpose in the public markets. Many provincial cities are following suit.

The emperor's sojourn this year on his favorite shooting estate at Rominten, where he usually stays during the latter part of September and the first half of October, is proving enjoyable and invigorating to his majesty. He is accompanied by several intimate personal friends, including Prince zu Hohen-Schönhausen and Count Henckell von Donnersmarck. These are accompanied by several other guests, those invited this year comprising Herr von Schorlemer, the minister for agriculture, Admiral von Tirpitz and Freiherr Speck von Sternburg, while the officers of the neighboring garrisons are often asked to join in the shoot.

On these occasions the emperor is in a most genial mood. After the day's shoot, the guests all sit down with him and the chief foresters to a hearty dinner, followed by a glass of beer and cigars. Sometimes a "sing-song" is indulged in, at which the guests join in the choruses of hunting melodies. The emperor sometimes takes his turn and sings a song in a fairly good baritone voice.

Following the example of the United States state department, the German government has established a regular school for candidates for appointment in the consular service. Funds for the school were largely provided by exporting firms, whose co-operation in the instruction of the future consuls has also been sought, the aim of the department being to give them practical business training and experience.

Emperor William has presented to Crown Prince Lijl Jemsa of Abyssinia, the 15-year-old grandson of Negus Menelik, a beautiful hunting rifle, one of the splendid gifts to royal children which play such a large role in modern international relations. While not so elaborate as the miniature railroad outfit given to the young Chinese emperor by Emperor Nicholas of Russia, or the doll city given the Italian royal children by President Fallieres of France, the rifle, a repeater of the Mauser type, is likely to appeal more to the future emperor of Abyssinia, whose hunting is still the sport of kings.

It is not only a weapon of the highest quality, but is highly ornamented in silver, the signature and crown of Emperor William being inscribed in this metal.

THE CHURCH PROPERTY

To be Placed in Control of the Parish Corporation

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The sacred council of Rome has made regulations concerning the method of holding Catholic church property in the United States. Through the council the pope answers requests from bishops of this country for instructions, proposing the parish corporation system of New York as a model and placing restriction on the corporation sole such as is in operation in New England and most of the other states. Fee simple holdings are prohibited.

The regulations follow the excommunication by Bishop Walsh of Portland of certain Catholics who opposed a corporation sole. The controversy in the Portland diocese, it is said, however, was not the cause of the sacred council's action. The question goes back many years. Difficulties in middle and western states, and even in Springfield, under Bishop Beavan, are thought to have started consideration of the situation.

Sacred Council's Ruling
The Sacred Heart Review prints this translation of the announcement: "Of the various methods of holding and administering ecclesiastical property in the United States, the sacred congregation of the council prefers that which is known as the parish corporation, but it must be of the same form as that which exists in New York state. Bishops are ordered by this decision to introduce immediately into their dioceses this method of holding church property, provided the law in the state permits it. And if such a law does not exist they should ask to have it enacted."

"The New York plan provides that the archbishop or the bishop, with the vicar general, the pastor of the congregation and two laymen, the last two to be chosen by the first three, shall form a board of directors. This system may be worked harmoniously, for it leaves it in the power of the church officials to select the laymen and thus provide for single minded action in the directorate. Everything has been satisfactory in the Boston archdiocese, though the corporation sole exists. There is also a board of consultors, named for three years by the archbishop, and the church matters are really handled by them.

Prohibition of fee simple holdings affect the holding of church property by an archbishop or bishop as an individual. In most of the states the corporation sole system now exists.

HAVE DECIDED TO BECOME LAW PARTNERS
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Sara T. Andrews, aged 40, has matriculated at the Washington College of Law, and her son, Herbert B. Andrews, 20, has started a law course in the law department of the Catholic University. Mrs. Andrews is the wife of a government clerk. Before she married she taught school in Missouri. Herbert has just completed an academic course at Gonzaga college.

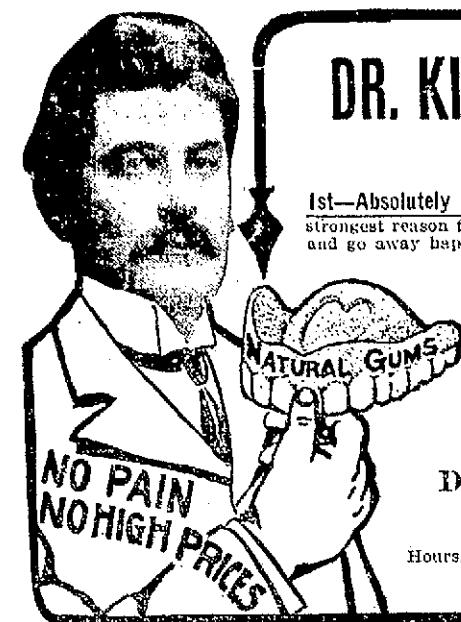

Mrs. Andrews said today: "It is the intention of Herbert and myself to complete our course here and take the Washington bar examinations. If we are successful we will go back to Missouri and put out a joint 'shingle.'

"I have been after mother for years to get her to study law," Herbert said, "because I believe by nature and training she is especially suited for a legal career. I am delighted that she has started and look forward with pleasure to the day when the sign of 'Andrew & Andrews' will appear at our old home in Missouri."

SEEKS A DIVORCE

Man Says Solitaire Was His Wife's Hobby

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Solitaire so engrossed my wife's attention that for a year she would not get any meals for me and I had to do all the cooking," declared Reuben O. Colburn of the South End in the divorce session yesterday in the trial of his libel for divorce from Abbie B. Colburn.

"From the time she got up in the morning there was nothing but solitaire. If the bell rang, she might jump up to answer it, or to go to the toilet, but she would not leave the table. She was too engrossed with the cards to think of my meals."

"Four years ago she suddenly left me for no cause that I know of. Since then I have kept house, cooked all my meals and kept the place cleaned up."

When another witness testified that he had not seen Mrs. Colburn at her husband's house for four years, Judge Hardy asked, "Did he ever ask you to take his cooking?" "No, sir," answered the witness. Divorce was asked for desertion.

Judge Hardy had the libellee defaulted. "I am going to open a laundry in Sweden. I had rather do that than return to strange America." So wrote Anna L. Tornburg, late of Lynn, now of Sweden, to her husband, Knute Tornburg, according to his testimony in the divorce session yesterday.

They married on Aug. 13, 1901, at Lynn, and lived on Waltham street here and in Medford. Five years ago Knute's spouse went back to Stockholm, and when he sent her a letter asking her to come back to live with him he received her negative answer.

Judge Hardy granted the divorce. Wendell Wolner, 65 years old, sought divorce yesterday from Mrs. Wolner, aged 65, on a charge of desertion, and got it. Wolner married her in 1907. It was his second marriage.

"You both knew what you were about, then?" asked Judge Hardy on inquiring the age of libellant and of libellee. "Yes, oh yes," replied Wolner.

The couple after their marriage, when he was 86 years old and she 62, went to live in Roslinville, so she declared in Hyde Park, and has remained in the latter place, living with her aged mother ever since that time, and has resisted all efforts of Wendell to induce her to return to Roslinville.

CHICAGO JUDGE

RECONCILED 1250 COUPLES IN SIX MONTHS

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—In the first six months of Chicago's first court of domestic relations, Judge Charles Goodnow has been able to patch up 1250 cases without a trial. During this time the judge listened to 2484 cases of domestic trouble and married 41 couples. All except two of these marriages have been happy, as far as the court can ascertain.

"Home has just been heaven, Judge," said one grateful wife, "since you talked to my husband. I didn't think anyone could do so much for us."

It has been the judge's policy to cause reconciliations whenever possible and not to take cases to trial. The court so far has collected more than $25,000 for the benefit of deserted wives and children.

"I never use the word 'obey' in performing a ceremony, as I do not believe it belongs there," said Judge Goodnow.

TYPHOID FEVER CASES

Said to Have Been Caused by House Flies

WARE, Oct. 21.—Dr. L. E. Dionne, chairman of the Ware board of health, says that three cases of typhoid fever in Ware were in his opinion caused by house flies, which carried the germ of typhoid.

"After a complete examination of the three cases of typhoid fever in Ware at the present time," said Dr. Dionne, "I find that no specific cause can be found for the disease except the ordinary cause—the common house fly, which is scientifically called the typhoid fly by experts versed in the causes of disease."

Early in the spring I announced that the board of health was about to open an anti-fly campaign and invited all of the people of the town to assist the board in exterminating the pests. The board removed considerable garbage and refuse matter which was likely to breed flies, but the general public did not respond to the crusade, and today the effect is seen when three of our citizens are stricken with typhoid fever.

"Some have tried to blame the milk supplies for the present cases of the disease in Ware, but there is no connection between the milk supply and the cases of typhoid in Ware. Our excellent water supply cannot be found at fault, and the only thing left is the ordinary house fly. I ascribe the cases of typhoid in Ware to the house fly and recommend that the people speedily set about exterminating the flies, which are still with us in great number."

THE HEIRS AGREE

Fight Off in Case Involving $300,000

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 21.—Under the terms of an agreement entered into between the heirs of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos M. Morse, late of Plymouth, N. H., the heirs of the former have dropped the litigation brought against the estate of Mrs. Morse and the estate of each are to be settled out of court. The amount to be divided by the two estates is in the vicinity of $300,000, and it is understood that the division between the heirs of each estate will be very nearly equal.

Mr. Morse was for many years manager of the historic Pemigewasset house for the Boston & Maine railroad. He died Oct. 7, 1898, and Mrs. Morse died Oct. 30. Mr. Morse left all his property to Mrs. Morse during her natural life, with the right to both income and principal, if necessary for health and comfort. Under the terms of the will, $1000 was bequeathed to each of his and her heirs at the death of Mrs. Morse, $3000 to the Emily Balch hospital at Plymouth, the rest and residue to Mr. Morse's heirs in equal shares.

After the death of Mrs. Morse it was found that she had acquired a value of $175,000 to $200,000 had been placed in her name. In 1903, shortly after most of these securities are said to have been placed in her name, she made a will bequeathing all her property to her husband and his heirs. On the day of his funeral she made a new will, giving most of her estate to her relatives. On the probating of the wills the fight for possession of the estate started.

The beneficiaries who will share under the settlement as agreed to are the following heirs of Mr. Morse: Henry Scott of Chicago; Mrs. Rockmore of Hamilton, Ill.; Eloise Corbitt of Indianapolis, Ind.; Carl H. Morse of Bayonne, N. J.; Harry H. Morse of Nulroy, N. J.; Mary Nettleton and Eloise T. Jones of Medford, Mass.; Annie Scott of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Gertrude Scott of Des Moines, Ia.; and Dr. Edward Morse of the United States navy. Mrs. Morse's heir was an aged sister living at Wells River, Vt.

SEEKING A DIVORCE

Man Says Solitaire Was His Wife's Hobby

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Solitaire so engrossed my wife's attention that for a year she would not get any meals for me and I had to do all the cooking," declared Reuben O. Colburn of the South End in the divorce session yesterday in the trial of his libel for divorce from Abbie B. Colburn.

"From the time she got up in the morning there was nothing but solitaire. If the bell rang, she might jump up to answer it, or to go to the toilet, but she would not leave the table. She was too engrossed with the cards to think of my meals."

"Four years ago she suddenly left me for no cause that I know of. Since then I have kept house, cooked all my meals and kept the place cleaned up."

When another witness testified that he had not seen Mrs. Colburn at her husband's house for four years, Judge Hardy asked, "Did he ever ask you to take his cooking?" "No, sir," answered the witness. Divorce was asked for desertion.

FAVORS CHILD'S BUREAU

Roosevelt Wants Department to Get Information for Young's Welfare

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The judiciary of the United States must be brought within the control of and is answerable to the will thought out judgment of the people in the opinion of ex-President Roosevelt, who spoke tonight on "The Conservation of Womanhood and Childhood" before the Civic Forum.

This control, in Mr. Roosevelt's judgment, should be "exercised more cautiously and in different fashion than the control by the people over the legislator and the executive, but the control must be there."

Control of judges, Mr. Roosevelt said, was but half, although by far the more important part, of a program which should be carried out for the proper conservation of manhood, womanhood and childhood.

The first half of the program, he said, consisted in placing upon the statute books of the nation and the states legislation to remedy existing defects. The ex-president spoke at length of what he termed "crying abuses connected with child labor."

He advocated the enactment by Congress of the bill for the creation of a children's bureau to gather, classify and distribute accurate information on all subjects relating to the welfare of children.

in the path of needed social reforms."

Mr. Roosevelt referred to the decisions in the David L. Williams case in 1907, and in the Knisely vs. Pratt litigation by the supreme court. The first decision, he said, made the 9 P. M. closing hour of the statute books since 1858 non-enforceable and in effect forced women workers to toil untended hours. Decisions in the workmen's compensation law case and in the so-called bake shop case also were cited as similar instances.

"I, for one, hold that if a majority of the people after due deliberation come to champion such social and economic reforms as these we champion tonight," he continued, "they have the right to see them enacted into law and become a part of our settled governmental policy, and I shall never abandon the effort to see this view triumph."

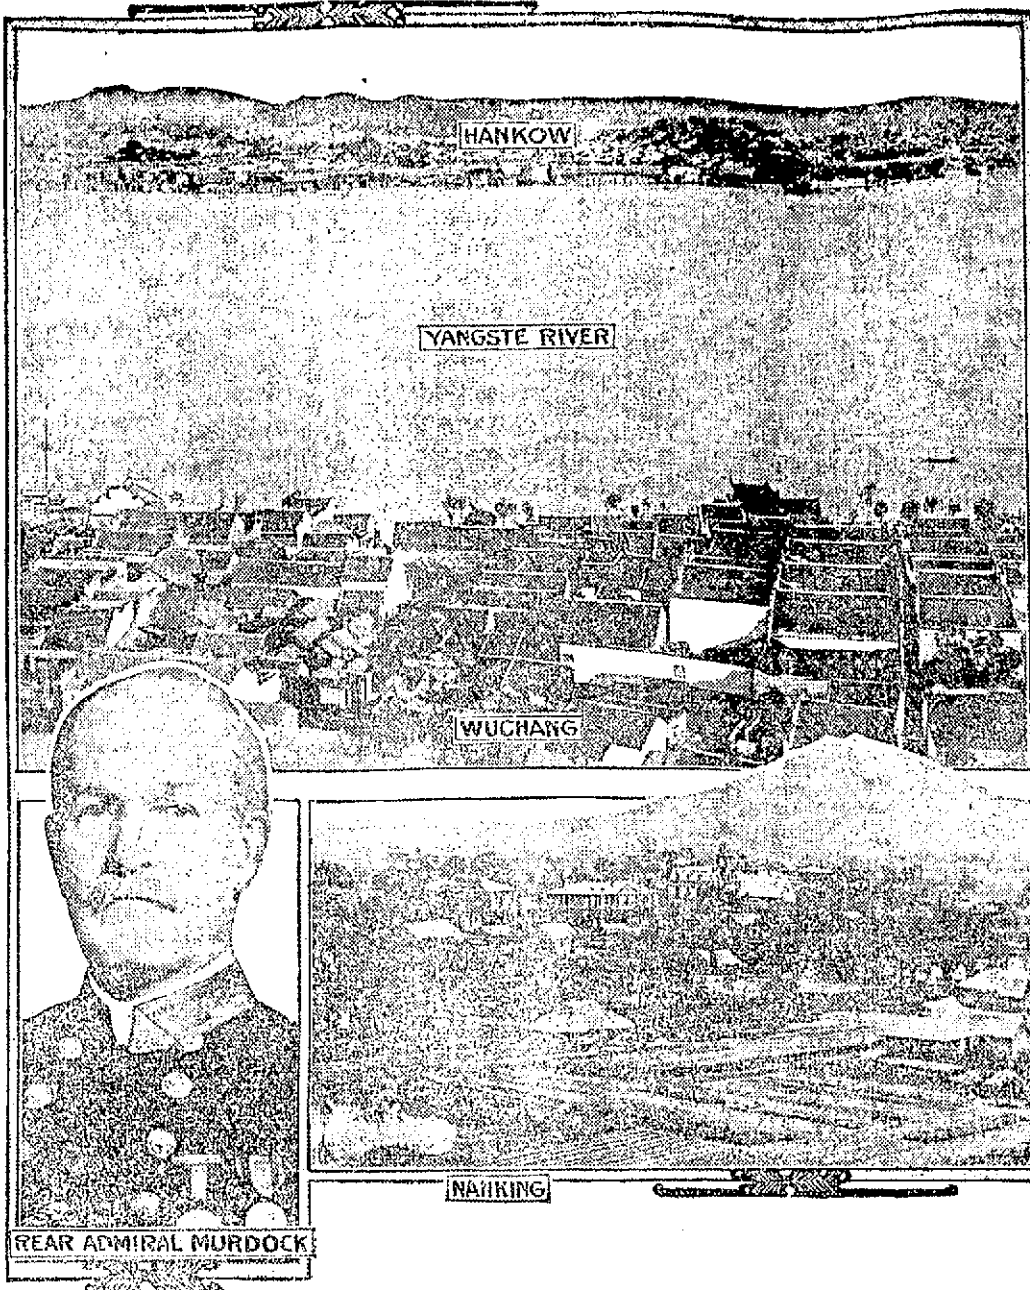

"It is, I believe, an advantage to have fixed in the court the power to state that a legislative act is unconstitutional, but only provided that the power is exercised with the greatest wisdom and self-restraint. If the courts continue to use it with the recklessness that too often has been shown in the past it is almost inevitable that efforts will be made to amend it. It is a rank absurdity to hold that the violation of the constitution is 'evident' in a case where the present chief justice of the United States and enough of his colleagues to come with in one of a majority held strongly the opposite view."

"One word in closing. What I have advocated is not revolution. It is not wild radicalism. It is the highest and wisest kind of conservatism."

AMHERST ELEVEN

Scheduled to Meet the Harvard Team Today

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 21.—Although the Amherst eleven, which came to Cambridge today to oppose Harvard at football, is not regarded as a very strong combination, the game was looked upon as the first real test of the Harvard team. Previously the Crimson has been merely the wealth of individual players. Today, so far as was possible owing to injuries, the varsity eleven was put on the field to play until changes were made necessary. The team proper, however, is badly crippled and it was believed before the game that neither Gardner, Campbell or Captain Fisher could go into the game owing to recent training injuries while Wigglesworth and Rogers will probably be out for the rest of the season.

CHINESE TOWNS IN WHICH REVOLUTIONARY STRUGGLE HAS BEEN FIERCELY WAGED

PEKING, Oct. 21.—The foreign legations in this city are constantly besieged with requests for information from Hankow, Wuchang, Nanking and other cities where there is a struggle between the revolutionists and the government forces. Owing to the strict censorship little news is available, and official statements are usually discredited. The buildings in the foreground of the picture of Nanking are those of the celebrated Nanking university. Rear Admiral Murdock is in command of the United States fleet in Chinese waters, and he is kept busy watching events.

SEC'Y JOHN H. MURPHY

Proves That Labor Men Got Timely Invitation to Charter Meetings

Secretary Murphy of the charter revision committee, after reading the report of the Trades and Labor meeting on Thursday evening, looked up his records and found that the labor men had made a mistake in their dates, if not in the facts upon which they based their action.

In the resolution adopted it was stated that "if the promoters of the new charter were desirous of having organized labor represented upon that committee (meaning the committee of 60) it was up to them to make such a request to the unions they desired to have represented and not wait until the charter was in print as they did before requesting to be represented." In reply to this statement, Secretary Murphy gave out the following letter, sent to the Trades and Labor council in December of last year, several months before the work of the new charter was completed and therefore before it was put in print:

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 22, 1910. Gentlemen: At a meeting of the charter revision committee it was voted to request your organization to appoint a representative to act as a member of the committee. The purpose of the committee is to prepare a charter that will be submitted to the people of our city for acceptance. The work of the committee, to date, has been in discussing the many forms and ideas of new charters, but no definite plan has been decided upon. It is expected that the drafting committee will submit a tentative plan at the next meeting, which will be discussed, accepted, amended or rejected.

It is the desire of the committee that your organization shall elect a representative, and I would appreciate being informed of your action.

Kindly forward name and address of delegate in order that he may be notified of the meetings.

Respectfully yours,

John H. Murphy, Secretary.

A copy of this same invitation was also sent to the Allied Printing Trades union, the Textile Workers, Gen. Butler Veteran Fraternity, the Muster Engineers, Y. M. C. A., the C. Y. M. L., the C. M. A. C., the Retail Grocers association, the Stationary Engineers, the Letter Carriers association, the Central council, A. O. U., local courts of Foresters, and the four military companies.

This invitation would have been sent to other organizations were it not for the fact that their secrecy or their constitution forbade them taking part in any such movement.

Secretary Murphy states that the records of the charter committee show that the Trades and Labor council sent a representative following the receipt of the above letter. Hence, it appears that the statement issued by the committee to the effect that "the union men on the committee of 60 which drew up the charter were no more entitled to represent the trades union movement than the worst enemy organized labor had," is wholly unwarranted and unjust.

MEETING ON CHARTER

Will be Held at the Board of Trade Rooms Monday

A meeting of the full committee of 60 on new charter together with the ward committees on some and all who are in favor of the new charter will be held on Monday evening in the board of trade rooms when a campaign will be laid out and ways and means for an aggressive campaign of education devised. A large attendance is desired as the committee will start at once on its campaign and desires a full expression of opinion from those interested before starting.

The ward three charter rallying committee has arranged for a rally to be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in Highland hall. Good speakers will address the meeting. The committee of 60 has ordered 10,000 copies of the booklet known as the Charter Catechism, which will be distributed to the voters of Lowell between now and election day.

MANSLAUGHTER IS CHARGED

MARLBORO, Oct. 21.—After a hearing in the local court today Paul Taylor, son of a wealthy resident of Worcester, was held for the grand jury on the charge of manslaughter by Judge McDonald, bail being fixed at $2000. Taylor is charged with the death of Frank Downes and Patrick Sullivan, both of Boston, who were killed here last month as a result of a collision between their automobile and one believed to have been driven by Taylor. At the time of the accident the identity of the second colliding car was not known but a few days later Taylor surrendered to the police, saying that he believed that it was the car driven by him which had figured in the accident. He said that he remembered striking another automobile here but did not realize that the accident was serious. Taylor furnished bonds.

THE TOILETINE COMPANY

13 Hope Street, Greenfield, Mass.

We had hoped to create a greater sensation on October 10 than we did on September 1st when we received three immense Walker & Pratt auto truck loads of Ranges. These trucks hold about a freight car and a half of Ranges. The following letter explains why we did not:

WALKER & PRATT MANUFACTURING CO., MANUFACTURERS OF RANGES, FURNACES, STEAM AND HOT WATER HEATERS, 21 AND 35 UNION STREET.

Messrs. A. E. O'Heir & Company, Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen:—After waiting several days in the hope of being able to send your large order of Crawford Ranges by auto trucks direct to your store from our factory at Watertown, as we did the first of September, we are obliged to write you that owing to the tremendous demand for Crawford Ranges this month, we are unable to spare our trucks long enough to send them over the road to Lowell.

As you know, we use these auto trucks in delivering our goods from our factory to the freight depots in Boston, for shipments to different points. As each of these trucks make from three to five round trips every day, you can easily see that we would lose at least two trips to the freight per truck, in the same time that it would take to send them to Lowell, have them unloaded, and return to the factory. On the three trucks this would delay the shipment of at least thirty tons of goods to other dealers.

Therefore, we have abandoned the idea and are sending part of your order by freight today and will send the balance by freight as soon as possible. We hope to ship your entire order within the next few days.

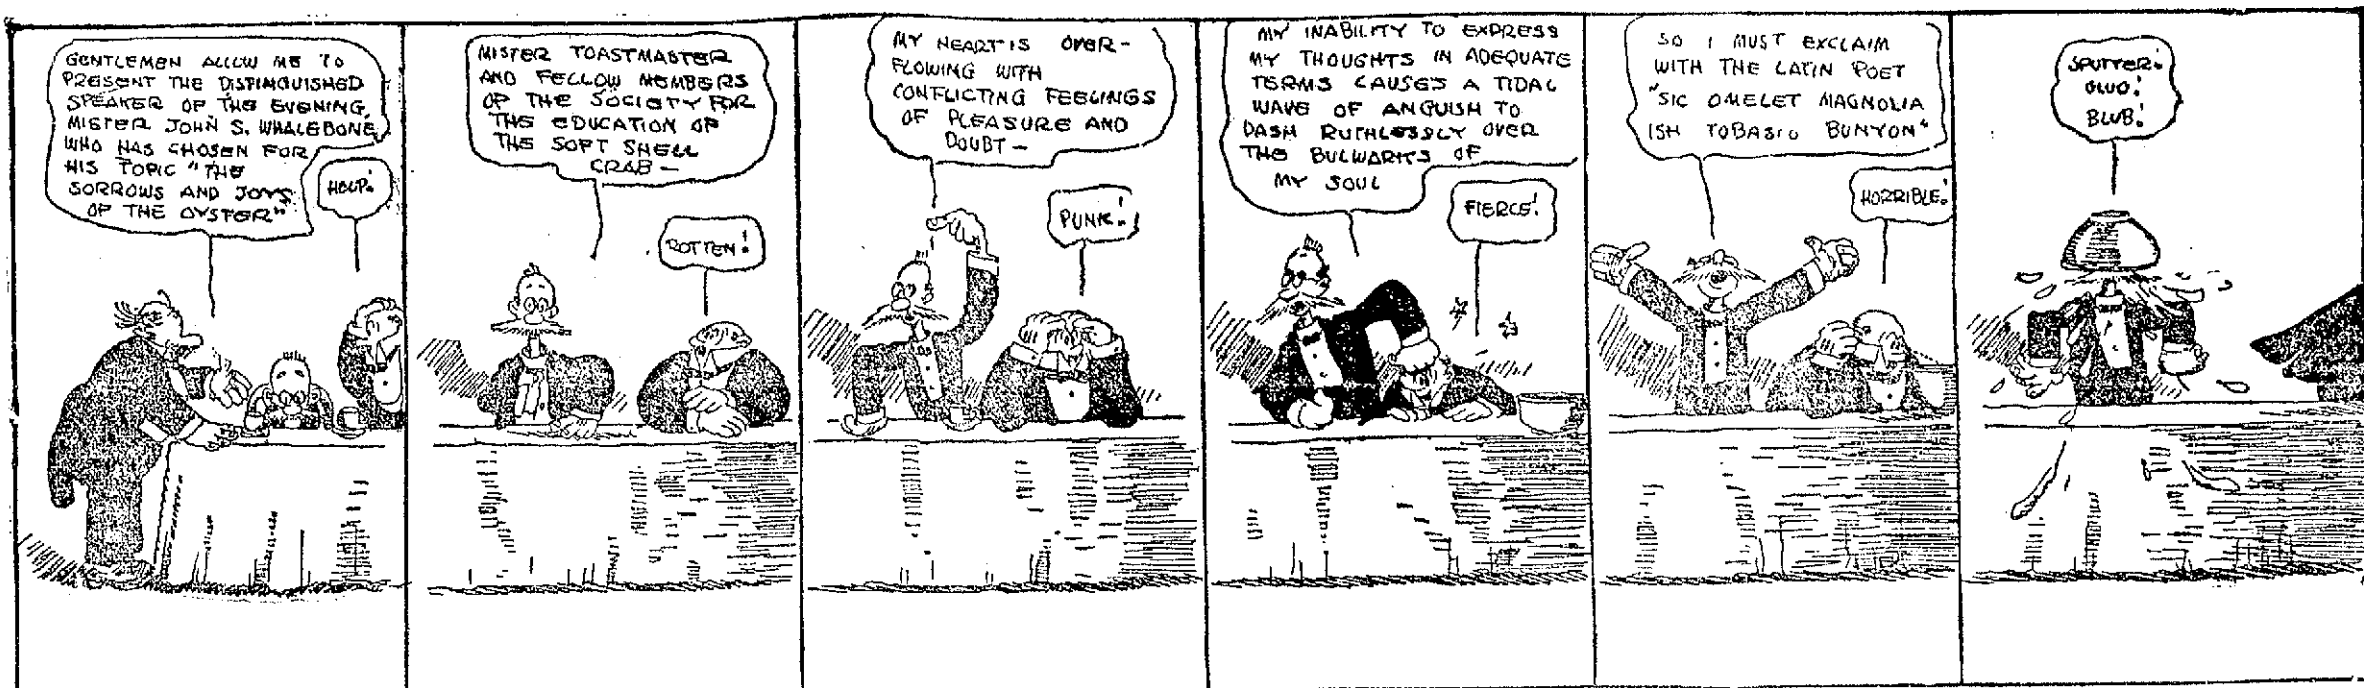

Very respectfully, yours,

WALKER & PRATT MFG. CO.

Honore Evangeliste Boisvert, aged 20 years, of 15 Pawtucket street, left home on Oct. 1, and has not been seen or heard from since that time, and to his disappearance hangs a tale.

The young man was to have been married on Oct. 2 to Miss Rose Alma Lamarche of 17 Pawtucket street, and although all the preparations for the event had been made, the young man failed to put in an appearance on the morning of the wedding, and his whereabouts now is unknown.

H. EVANGELISTE BOISVERT.

The young woman, when seen by a San reporter at her home, related the following story: "My name is Rose Alma Lamarche, I am 19 years of age, and was engaged to be married to Honore Evangeliste Boisvert, the ceremony was to be performed at a nuptial mass to be celebrated at St. Jean Baptiste church on the morning of Oct. 2. I first met Mr. Boisvert the Sunday following July 4th, and a week later he began courting me. Finally he proposed and I accepted and the date of the marriage was fixed for Oct. 2. On Sunday, Oct. 1, the day previous to the date set for the event, I was told by a friend that the bans had not been announced in the church as is the custom in the Catholic church, but I paid little attention to that, for I believed it was a mistake on the part of the officiating clergyman. Then later in the day I was told that my fiancé had abandoned all plans of marriage. To make sure, I went to his home and there he told me that he had been robbed of his money the day before, but that the ceremony would take place just the same. The next morning I waited but in vain for the young man did not come near the house, and the guests kept coming, as it had been arranged to have a large celebration. However, we celebrated just the same as if the ceremony had been performed. Later I heard that Evangeliste had left town, and that is all I know."

The reporter then went to the Boisvert home and interviewed the parents.

of the missing young man, Mr. and Mrs. Henri Boisvert. They also spoke freely, and said that they knew that their son had changed his mind on the marriage question, but they would not state the reason. They also know that he was going, for he left with his cousin, a Mr. Boisvert of St. Adrien, Que.

Evangeliste Boisvert is a well known young man in this city and he was employed as journeyman at the B. & M. repair shop in North Billerica. Miss Lamarche also enjoys a large circle of friends, and she is employed in the hosiery of the Tremont & Suffolk mills.

It was learned later that the young man went to St. Joseph's rectory on the Sunday before the date of the marriage and told a clergyman that the wedding had been called off. A marriage license had also been taken out at city hall.

ST. RAILWAY WORK
Gangs Making Repairs Ready for Winter

The construction gang of the local branch of the Bay State Street Railway company is busily engaged in putting the finishing touches on repair work on rails throughout the city. The recent rains caused the slight upturning of sleepers in different sections of the city and the men are at work propping up the rails and filling in where there have been washouts.

The repair shop at the power house in Middlesex street is also a scene of activity and as one looks through the open door he is reminded that winter is near at hand, for the employees are at work overhauling the snow plows.

A gang of men is also at work "tuning" up and making repairs to box cars and it is expected that within the course of a month or so the open cars will be overhauled and repainted.

Good time at Asso., tonight.

CHIEF HOSMER
WAS A WILLING WORKER AT A LAWRENCE FIRE

Chief E. S. Hosmer and the other members of the local fire department who attended the annual convention of the Massachusetts State Firemen's association which came to a close in Lawrence yesterday are home and report that the three days' session was a success in every particular.

One of the principal events which occurred and one which was not on the program was the $35,000 fire which destroyed the Archibald Wheel works in that city the night before last. The fire broke out just about the time the evening session was to open, but instead of going to the hall, almost everyone went to the fire.

Owing to the size of the fire many of the out-of-town firemen joined the Lawrence men and did good work and materially assisted in keeping the fire from spreading.

Chief Hosmer and Capt. Hurley of Engine 6 were willing workers, and the chief instead of giving orders as is his custom in this city devoted his time to dragging lines of hose through mud and water. After the fire Chief Carey of Lawrence was profuse in his thanks to the visitors who assisted him.

INJURED MAN FOUND

Edward Leblanc, 23 years, 220 Valley street, Lawrence, was found by his brother, Thomas in Pelham, N. H., late yesterday afternoon, after being missing from home since 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. Thomas Leblanc reported the disappearance to the police, and made an immediate search of his own. By tracing down several clues, he found his brother in Pelham. The latter was injured but was unable to state how he met his injury or why he wandered from home.

SENATOR BENNETT

The labor organizations are justified in opposing the election of Senator Bennett of Saugus. He has been opposed to most of the progressive measures introduced in the legislature. He is putting up the best defense he can and says he voted for certain labor measures, but the labor men regard him as one of their worst enemies. We presume they must have some reason for their opposition.

JUDGE HADLEY

Judge Hadley is to be congratulated upon the arrival of his 50th birthday and upon the fact that he is still in fairly good health with a prospect of many more years which all his friends sincerely hope will bring him the greatest possible happiness. His career as judge of the Lowell police court has proved him to be a man of deeply humane sympathy, who has always endeavored to reform the offenders brought before him, rather than to penalize them for their weakness or their depravity. The work of a conscientious police court judge is very laborious, and it is often conducted in an atmosphere that is not calculated to improve the health. Under such conditions Judge Hadley has shown wonderful endurance, and now that he is about to retire he certainly deserves all the rewards that the law allows him with undisturbed leisure for the rest of his life.

FIRE AND FIREMEN

The assembled firemen at the convention in Lawrence on Thursday night did not prevail in saving a burning building from destruction. While flippant speakers were telling how best to fight the fire fiend that dangerous spritz stole around as if in scorn of all the pet theories exploited at the convention, and in a trice had devoured a wheelwright shop, wheels and all. The firemen thought it an audacious occurrence under the circumstances, but it illustrated the suddenness with which fires occur and the absolute need above all things else of a quick response and the getting a stream upon the flames in the shortest possible time. Despite all the rules, all the discipline and all the experience of fire departments there is often a great deal of delay and bungling in getting the first stream on a fire. But for this cause many of the greatest conflagrations that have visited this and other cities might have been prevented. This is still one of the greatest subjects of discussion for firemen's conventions, and one of the greatest fields for the display of the kind of skill and activity that counts for most in the saving of life and property.

FOSS OR FROTHINGHAM

The republican press has been firing such flimsy stuff at Governor Foss that they have quite forgotten how very vulnerable their own candidate is. Governor Foss has been a fearless official, writing messages to the legislature without any fear of going on record because he always stood with the people, advocating nothing against the best interests of the state. The republican leaders must be badly off for material when their chief line of argument is, that Foss has somehow been responsible for the high cost of living and for the defeat of reciprocity. We may next hear that he has been responsible for the Russo-Italian war. If Governor Foss has been unable to overturn the party that upholds trust prices it is because he did not control congress; if reciprocity were beaten it was through the scheming of the standpat republicans and not through Mr. Foss.

It will become the republican senators of Massachusetts to charge Governor Foss with any part in the responsibility for the republican policies that sustained the Payne-Aldrich bill or defeated reciprocity. The governor scored on many important issues for the benefit of the state, for the laboring people and the general progress of the commonwealth. If the voters of Massachusetts decide between the two gubernatorial candidates on the question of merit, they will vote for Governor Foss. His record stands out preeminently superior to that of his opponent, Lieut. Governor Frothingham, who has in all cases proven himself an ultra-conservative and has seldom shown any sympathy for the people. Mr. Frothingham's legislative record is not calculated to help him in this campaign. He served in the legislature in 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904 and 1905. His record on various measures of importance was taken from the Journal of the house and was circulated in the following form by progressive republicans in campaign preceding the primaries:

He voted against free text books and other supplies for the pupils of public schools.
He voted against 90-cent gas for Boston.
He voted against one day off in each 27 for police officers. He also voted against police pensions.
He voted against an 8-hour day for public employees.
He voted against an inheritance tax.
He voted against a two-cent-a-mile railroad fare bill.
He voted against trial by jury in contempt of court cases.
He voted against the election of United States senators by the people.
He voted against resolutions for reciprocity with Canada.
He voted against civil service exemptions for Spanish war veterans.
He voted against the initiative and referendum.
He voted against investigating conditions in textile factories relative to overtime work by women and minors.
He voted against a reduction of telephone charges in the Boston suburban or Metropolitan district.
He voted against peaceful persuasion bills.
He voted against a bill to compel railroads to provide one brakeman for each ten cars instead of one for the last car only.
He voted against licensing barbers.
He voted against making 12 hours in 24 a day's work for firemen in cities of over 40,000 population when adopted by a majority vote.
He voted against reducing the hours of labor of nurses and attendants in public hospitals and asylums to 70 hours a week.
He voted against a new state sanatorium for tubercular patients.
He voted against empowering and obliging assessors to find more taxable personal property.
He voted against a bill providing that police officers shall hold office during good behavior and be subject to removal only for cause and after a proper hearing.
He voted against a bill to prevent overtime work by women and minors to make up for time lost through the stoppage of machinery.
He voted against 12-ride tickets on the railroads in Boston and suburbs.
He voted against punishing members of combinations to raise the price of coal.

We commend this record to the consideration of the labor organizations for which Governor Foss went as far as the law permitted him. The official who, as member of the legislature, made this record, if elected governor would reverse the progressive policies set in motion by Governor Foss and would thereby put Massachusetts among the states which fail to keep abreast of the times.

SEEN AND HEARD

Wandering street musicians, always of more or less interest, never fail to draw an audience. They, it would seem, have inherited from Orpheus, that mythological minstrel with the enchanted lyre, the peculiar faculty of enticing the attention of the passer-by, and though not gifted with the preternatural fascination exerted by their legendary father, they can exercise at least a portion of his powers by inducing those who cross their path to pause and give ear to their not unpleasant melodies.

This curious fact I noted while strolling along Tremont street in Boston one Saturday evening. At that time, when the crowds were hurrying toward the different theatres, I noticed a congestion which almost blocked the outlet of a cross street. Approaching and entering into the throng, I discovered the objects of its attention—two wandering street musicians.

One was a stout lad of about eighteen. His light brown corduroy trousers, soft felt hat of the same color, and black coat, solid with grease spots, looked in keeping with his swarthy skin, curly black hair and his snapping black eyes. He was strumming a mandolin. His companion, a boy of about seventeen, was of a more slender build. A neat black suit and a soft outing shirt with a long, black bow-tie, some sullen texture, tended to invest his features with a somewhat sober aspect. This was in a degree enhanced by a tinge of pallor over-appearing his olive skin and by the pensive expression in his dark eyes. Gently clasped against his tapering fingers was a violin.

The music which the lads drew from their instruments was mostly in the line of popular airs, that of "Billy" being a favorite with the crowd, some selections from well known operas and now and then a bit of real ragtime, such as "Alexander's Band." In the rendition of these different pieces, the lads exhibited not a little talent; the young violinist, in particular, impressing his audience by his power of producing the sweetest of tones. His partner, however, was of this class of players whose sense of gain is never dominated over by that of art; a fact one could readily perceive by noting the ingratiating smile and calculating expression that enveloped his features as he "sized up" the audience.

It was a strange scene. With the exception of the players' transient audience, the street, which during the daylight hours was alive and jammed with the jostling, hurrying crowds and resounded with the clanking of trolley bells and the tooting of auto horns, now was silent. So quiet, indeed, was the scene that the sharper tones from the instruments would grate upon the ear with their unmellowed distinctness. The thoroughfare, lacking its usual bustle and animation, had taken on a more lonesome aspect than would be found in the most solitary woodland.

The crowd gathered about the minstrels was one typical of Saturday night life in Boston. All types had seen the rapid-faced "exquisite" scrupulously garbed in the latest mode from his "rowboat" to his "pumps," gazing with a languid, condescending interest on the players; a husky longshoreman who has just had his face scraped and had come along indulging in his Saturday night stogie, preparatory to a paynight jamboree; the tall, fresh-faced young man, the photographer, who, looking charming in her "best" dress embellished for the occasion with its snow-white jabot, with her escort had paused on her way toward toward to listen to the strains of melody that delighted her ear. Contrasting with this bloom of youth, was the kindly, wrinkled countenance of a little white-haired lady, who, possibly on her way to Tremont temple, had been attracted by the strains of "Silver Threads Among the Gold" as they floated through the air to her sympathetic ear. While she paused for a moment to hear the completion of that beautiful ballad it would not have been out of place for one who gazed upon her to conceive that she, with her grey hair and faltering step, might fittingly typify the beautiful character about which that song centers.

At the conclusion of this ballad I started on my stroll again and finally, with the musicians, the "exquisite," the longshoreman, the girl with the jabot, and the old lady still in my mind I arrived at the North station and left Boston with its interesting Saturday evening sights for those that may be seen during the same time in the more prosaic city of Lowell.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Dr. William Bode, the curator of the Kaiser Friedrich museum at Berlin, Germany, is coming to the United States in the interest of his museum work.

The engagement of Miss Lily Wise, the British creator of the title part in "The Merry Widow," and her husband, a young Scottish millionaire, has created some excitement among the fashionable set of Great Britain. Mr. Bullough's first wife, who died eleven months ago, was Miss Maude Darrell, another musical comedy star. At the present time Miss Wise is playing the heroine in "The Duke of Luxembourg."

Canon Horsley, who has been in charge of the church at Waltham, one of the largest and poorest parishes in London, will give up his rectoryship of the parish next month to take charge of a little village in Kent. Canon Horsley is credited with a remarkable work during the past 37 years, as curate, vicar and rector, in behalf of social and civic improvement in the east end of London. The people appreciated his work so much they made him mayor of Waltham, and during his term of office he cleared away 23 acres of slums and spent $1,250,000 on better housing. He was responsible for the creation of a number of parks and open spaces, and he headed a movement which resulted in the establishment of school playgrounds all over London. But Canon Horsley was not only an able municipal administrator. He was a sympathetic friend to all his parishioners as well, says a London letter in the New York Press. His long experience in the slums has not made him a pessimist, and while he recognizes and deplors the decline of the church-going habit in England, he admits that church-going is not everything. "Side by side with all this seeming carelessness about religion," he said the other day, there has been an equally great decline in immorality and in every case in the community I can introduce you to real saints who make no pretense of being religious." Canon Horsley has radical economic theories. He believes every workingman should be compelled to belong to a trade union and forced to abide by its rules, and he believes the state should prevent strikes by compulsory arbitration and by enforcing on employers the payment of a fair wage. His theory of life was summed up recently in one of his public speeches: "Ever since my ordination in 1870," he said, "I have kept before me two resolutions—never to have ambitions and never to have any time to myself."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Boston Post: Mr. Wickersham is rather discreetly vague as to the scheme of reorganization proposed by the tobacco trust, containing himself with saying that whatever plan is decided upon, "competition must be untethered." Of course.

But James C. McReynolds, special counsel of the United States in the prosecution of the tobacco cases, is not so chary of opinions or words. "I regard the plan," he declares, "as a plain subterfuge which deserves an expedition commitment to the scrap-heap." Evidently much depends upon the views of the United States court that will pass upon this scheme. The country expects that no bluff will work its way past the judiciary.

WARNING HAS BEEN GIVEN
Wilmington, Del. News: In this concrete case the blaster at Ansteth, Pa., ought to be of some value to users of cement. There is so much work of that sort being done that the discovery of weakness now and then should prove of value to the future. From the pictures of the wrecked dam the great masses of cement and concrete were torn into huge blocks. The warning has been given.—Wilmington, Del. News.

MEAT TRUST EXCUSES

Philadelphia Record: Small receipts of cattle, sheep and hogs at the centers of the provision trade have often been given as explanations of high meat prices. Therefore there is some encouragement in the fact that on Monday the cattle receipts at St. Paul, and Omaha exceeded all records, and last week the receipts of hogs at Chicago were larger than before at any time in the past six years. If meat prices do not come down some of the excuse besides the scanty supplies of livestock will have to be invented.—Philadelphia Record.

OUR NEW ENGLAND WEATHER

Boston Globe: The Boston Post, the paper which apparently has rubber chases since its columns are wider some days than others, signs for a "two-minute-salt off at real October." The only unfortunate thing about New England fall weather is that it must stand transportation.

WAINWRIGHT HERO

REAR ADMIRAL FIGURED IN STIRRING FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—When Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright retires from active service next December the navy will lose not only one of its best liked officers but one of its real fighters. It is now thirteen years and more since the Spanish war, and many remember that Wainwright was the hero of one of the most remarkable sea fights of that contest.

In its way Wainwright's fight was a more remarkable performance than the sinking of the Spanish fleet at Santiago. When the Maine was blown up in Havana harbor Wainwright was the executive officer of the ill-fated vessel. He was given command of the Gloucester, which was converted into a warship from the Morgan yacht. It was not a very formidable craft. It carried less than 100 men, a couple of six-pounders and some light machine guns.

While Sampson was blockading the harbor of Santiago, Wainwright, with the Gloucester, was assigned the duty of running close in to the mouth of the harbor every night in order to make sure the enemy should not escape.

When Cervantes' fleet finally came out Wainwright, with the Gloucester, though he was supposed to do any fighting, closed with two enemy boat destroyers, the Pluton and Furor.

The two destroyers dashed at Wainwright, who swooped down on them in return. Had the Spanish fire been accurate the Gloucester would have been a personal direction of Wainwright, the destroyers literally tore the Gloucester apart and ran ashore in a sinking condition. The Furor caught fire. One crew after another was shot down in a little while the vessel ran up the white flag.

Wainwright was promoted and thanked for his work and the exploit will not soon be forgotten in naval annals.

LADIES' AUXILIARY

OF THE Y. M. C. A. HELD A MEETING LAST NIGHT

The October meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Young Men's Christian association was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Haines, 80 Moore street, last night.

Mrs. Avery conducted the devotional part of the program. The business of the meeting was devoted to announcement that a large food sale would be held in the store of the A. G. Pollard Co. on Friday next, beginning at ten o'clock in the morning and lasting until six p. m.

Plans for a Japanese tea party will be carried out at Kirk street church. Mrs. W. B. Moore, vice chairman, will be held December 6 and 7, afternoon and evening, December 6, for the benefit of Kirk street church and December 7 for the auxiliary. A visitation committee is one of the new features of the auxiliary work which has for its object the keeping in touch with the women of the community. The chairman of this committee, and will receive any reports of this nature.

The contest for new members in the Y. M. C. A. has spurred up auxiliary bodies to effort for the next month or possibly to January 1. Delegates were chosen to the state conference of Women's auxiliary to Y. M. C. A. of Massachusetts and Cape Island, which will be held in Attleboro, Mass., Nov. 1 and 2. Having about 500 members, Lowell auxiliary may send 10 delegates.

During the afternoon Dr. George M. Randall gave an interesting talk on "Education Our Only Hope." Mrs. Wainwright, chairman, and Dr. Randall rendered several solos of the program of the house of talks soon to be given by physicians, laymen and sociologists.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular weekly meeting of Passaic, N. J. Red Men was held last night in Odd Fellows temple in Middlesex street. There was a large attendance of members and considerable business was transacted during the evening. Sachem Edmund Cronin presided. The degree staff exemplified the warrior's degree on two new members. The tribe voted to take part in the parade at Lawrence, Saturday, Oct. 28, which starts at 7.30 and they will leave the square at 1.10 by special cars. The order of making arrangements for the 25th anniversary was left to the entertainment committee, George B. Sutherland, chairman, G. Houle, G. A. Frost, Charles H. Kittredge and James H. Hickey. The sachem spoke interestingly on the welfare of the tribe.

THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Conditions Are Encouraging in the Local Mills

The Textile papers are giving considerable attention to the fact that certain mills in other places are installing power plants and look upon them as the perfection of modern mill equipment, within a week or two the Massachusetts mills of this city will complete a power plant that for efficiency and completeness will not be excelled by any mill in the country and will complete a series of improvements at this plant which will make it the model cotton mill of the country. By means of the power plant everything that moves in the entire plant may be moved by power.

The Bigelow Carpet company is also installing a big power plant in its yard and only this week took out a permit to build a monster chimney 200 feet high to surmount the new plant and incidentally get away from any possibility of a smoke nuisance.

Cotton Mills Busy
A local mill agent discussing the situation in the cotton mills states that conditions are considerably better than

Ask This Man to Read Your Life

His Wonderful Power to Read Human Lives at any distance amazes all who write to him

Thousands of people in all walks of life have benefited by this man's advice. He tells you what you are capable of, and how you can be successful. He mentions your friends and enemies, and describes the good and bad periods in your life.

The description as to past, present and future events will astonish and help you. All he wants is your name (written by yourself), your birth date and sex to guide him in his work. Money not necessary. Mention the name of this paper and get a Trial Reading free.

For Paul Stahmann, an experienced Astrologer, of Ober Newsadern, Germany, says:

"The Horoscope which Professor Roxroy worked out for me is quite accurate to the truth. It is very clever and conscientious piece of work. As an Astrologer myself I carefully examined his Planetary calculations and indications, and proved that his work in every detail is perfect, and that he is up-to-date in his science. Mr. Roxroy is a real philanthropist, and every one ought to avail himself of the professor's services, as there are many advantages to be gained by doing so."

Baroness Blanquet, one of the most talented ladies of Paris, says: "I thank you for my Complete Life Reading, which is really of extraordinary accuracy. I had already consulted several Astrologers, but never before have I been answered with so much truth, or received such complete satisfaction. With sincere pleasure I will recommend you and make your name known to all my friends and acquaintances."

The Rev. G. C. H. Hasskari, Ph. D., Pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, says: "You are certainly the greatest specialist and master of your profession. Every one consulting you will marvel at the correctness of your detailed personal readings and advice. The most skeptical will consult you again and again after corresponding with you once."

If you want to take advantage of this special offer and obtain a review of your life, simply send your full name, address, the date, month, year and place of your birth (all clearly written), state whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss, and also copy the following verse in your own handwriting: "Your advice is useful."

So thousands say, "I wish success and happiness; Will you show me the way?" (If you wish you may enclose 10 cents (stamps of your own country) to postage and handling. Send your letter to ROXROY, Dept. 1068, No. 177a Kensington High Street, London, W. England. Postage on letters to England two cents.

ing Co., and their trade name "Shawmilk" is worth many thousands of dollars to the company as a going concern.

Lowell Hosiery
The Lowell hosiery reorganization has worked out well and with the new equipment secured after the reorganization the company is doing a profitable business, running nights at the present time to keep up with orders on some specialty goods that promise to rank with the best sellers in the market. The Shawmilk Co. will shortly be in a like commanding position with its standards, as it is now proposed to broaden the production so as to meet every possible requirement of the trade. Sample lines of Shawmilk goods in mercerized grades show a remarkable variety of very high grade goods and there is every indication that they will sell to the capacity of the plant. We look upon the stock as a good buy rather than a sale. The new stock will cost $105 per share; $100 and three rights at $1 each.

Textile School Notes
Arthur F. Ferguson, instructor in textile design and cloth analysis at the Lowell Textile school, has resigned to take up work for the tariff board at Washington, and his place will be filled by Stewart MacKay, of the class of 1906, instructor in hand loom weaving.

John C. Standish of the Lowell Textile school, 1911, takes the place of Frank L. McCall, assistant instructor in dyeing.

Charles H. Jack, from the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co., has been engaged as a permanent instructor in the machine shop of the Lowell Textile school.

Lester H. Cushing, Harvard, 1911, becomes instructor in history and modern languages at the Lowell Textile school, succeeding John Clement, who has resigned.

Henry H. Crompton, formerly instructor in worsted yarns at the Lowell Textile school, enters the Pacific mills as overseer of spinning, and his place is to be taken by Eugene C. Woodcock, instructor in woolen yarns, who is a graduate of the school in the class of 1907. John C. Lowe, Lowell Textile school, 1911, an experienced spinner from the Wood Worsted mills, enters the wool department.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
Described as an April shower of songs and glee, "The Beauty Spot," with Frank Deshon in the leading role, will be the attraction at the Opera House Tuesday, Oct. 24, for an engagement of one night only.

It is claimed that "The Beauty Spot," by DeKoven and Herbert, is far above the ordinary musical attraction in star, authorship, management and equipment. That the range of its many musical numbers is remarkable and displays not only the natural versatility of the composer, but the order with which he has applied himself to the study of detail and musical effect. And there are many ingenious little adornments, as in "Frolic Days" and "Hammer," and in the drilling of the

Shaw Stocking Co.
Really the only active mill security in Boston is the Shaw Stocking Co's shares. The reorganization as proposed has been effected and the capital stock sealed down and $270,000 new money secured. The new issue was underwritten and in the end the shareholders who have stayed in will profit by the arrangement. No better hosiery can be made anywhere than that turned out by the Shaw Stocking Co., but lack of capital and pressing competition resulted in a condition that made some financial changes necessary. Now with new money at hand we look to a new stage of active business along more progressive lines perhaps, so as to meet the growing competition, and to all who have asked our advice in the matter, we have unquestionably recommended to hold their present stock and exchange it for the new shares. There is fully $158 a share value in the Shaw Stocking Co. as can be seen from the following figures:

Quick assets	$80,000
Merchandise	287,000
Plant	523,500
Total	$890,500
Less debts	50,000
	440,500
New money	270,000
Net value	$710,500

Under the financing there will be 4500 shares of stock, so it figures out a cash value for the new stock at $158 a share. Shaw Stocking warrants are bringing $1 in the local market and there is a ready sale for all that are offered. There is also a growing tendency on the part of the old shareholders to accept the plan of finance adopted and hold on to their stock, taking their allotment of the new stock. This looks to be a wise move, as there is every reason why the company should make good and before long return to the shareholders ample payment for the sacrifice they are now called upon to make. It is hardly possible to find a more complete plant for hosiery production than that of the Shaw Stocking Co., and their trade name "Shawmilk" is worth many thousands of dollars to the company as a going concern.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE
Mme. Sukimo, the attractive little Japanese prima donna, who will appear at Keith's theatre next week, would be an attraction through her wonderful personality alone even if she were not the leading singer of the Imperial theatre at Tokio, for although still a very young woman she has not only mastered Italian, German and English, but has also mastered the music of the German and Italian schools, at first so strange to her ear, and sings equally well any of the German or Italian operas. Mme. Sukimo became attracted to European music when as a high school student she heard a Japanese orchestra playing Wagnerian opera. She placed herself in charge of Prof. Takatori of the Tokio Musical college, who was quick to discover her quick ear and her ambition to sing in opera. After becoming proficient in the music of Europe and the languages Mme. Sukimo had another great difficulty to overcome, namely, to secure the consent of her parents to appear in public, for among the higher Japanese families in which she belongs it was considered a disgrace for a woman to appear before the public. Mme. Sadu Yaki, however, broke the ice, and upon hearing of her success the parents of Mme. Sukimo granted their permission, and the little prima donna has since become a hit of the stage. Mme. Sukimo will sing two English and two Japanese songs, the former selections from "Madame Butterfly," one of the favorite operas. She will be accompanied by two geisha attendants, who will serve tea to the ladies each afternoon after the matinee in an improvised Japanese tea garden, provided by Manager Stevens. Mme. Sukimo and her assistants appear in their native costume on and off the stage. The remainder of the bill is unusually attractive, and includes: Dale and Boyle, Carl Hewett & Co., Kelley and Rafferty, and the Percots. Good seats for all performances may be obtained. Box office 25. Two concerts tomorrow.

HATHAWAY THEATRE
The management of the Hathaway theatre announces that to attract ladies to the Monday matinee at this popular playhouse a box of candy will be given to each lady attending the Monday matinee in a reserved section hereafter, beginning next Monday.

THEATRE VOYONS
Tomorrow the Theatre Voyons offers the usual excellent program for its Sunday concert. The program is carefully selected and is made up of the very best and latest films together with appropriate musical numbers. On Monday the feature will be a most pleasing photo play, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" telling the story of James Whitcomb Riley's great poem with the greatest care and skilful poetical feeling. There is probably no popular poem so touching in its sentiment as the poem and the rendering into motion pictures has been done in the very best taste and the result will please everyone. A special musical program has been arranged to accompany this picture poem.

REV. MR. RICHESON
Was Well Known in South Chelmsford

Rev. Clarence Virgil Thompson Richeson, who is under arrest charged with the murder of Avis Linnell, is well known in South Chelmsford where he has occupied the pulpit on several occasions. Two years ago, when Rev. Mr. Wells of the South Chelmsford Baptist church retired, Rev. Mr. Richeson, who was then stationed at Hyannis, was called upon to fill the pulpit for several Sundays. He did not appear as a candidate for the position, but was apparently satisfied with Hyannis. He generally came to Chelmsford on a Saturday night, remaining over until Monday, members of the church taking turns in having him as their guest. The people of South Chelmsford were deeply impressed as to his preaching and readily recall his splendid voice and fine vocabulary. The parish was shocked upon learning of his arrest in connection with the Linnell case.

NEARLY DROWNED
Volunteer Crew Rescued Scituate Fisherman

SCITUATE, Oct. 21.—Oscar Anderson, a local fisherman, was rescued from drowning yesterday afternoon just outside the mouth of the harbor through the bravery of a volunteer crew made up for the most part by gunners who are hunting game at the Sand Hills.

The larger included Capt. J. Frank Cushman, Capt. Thomas Turner, Thos. Patterson, Moses Jellows, Albert E. Reed, Arthur H. Dyer, Chester Spear, Erasmus F. Smith, Fred Cole and Archie C. Cooper.

Anderson, who is known for his daring, had gone outside in his power boat, notwithstanding the heavy sea, to look after his lobster pots. About 10 when he attempted to come through the breakers on his return to the shore, his boat was swamped. Three times he was swept out by his power boat by the waves, but managed to regain it.

This predicament was seen on the shore and Capt. Turner spread the alarm. With a pair of horses the lifeboat of the Massachusetts Humane society at Sand Hills station was obtained.

Although another boat had put out from Second Cliff Cove, Capt. Cushman and his crew were first to reach Anderson. He was waist deep in water when the rescuers reached his craft. With extreme difficulty they pulled him into their boat and finally made the shore again.

Anderson had thrown over his anchor so his boat was left in the breakers and did not sink. Capt. Franzen of the North Scituate Life-Saving station and his crew drove over the road with their surf boat on a truck and in face of great odds put out to save Anderson's power boat. Before reaching it they shipped several big combers, but finally managed to make fast to it with a line and towed it ashore.

AN UNBIDDEN GUEST

Rat Caused Excitement in Highland Hall

Highland hall was the scene of a merry gathering last evening when the degree staff of the Chevalier-Middlesex lodge, No. 2, Knights of Pythias held a corn-busking and dance. After the husking Mr. Charles H. Jones gave an original Yankee sketch entitled "Uncle Hiram's Return." In the midst of the sketch a large rat darted across the floor, causing the ladies to take to the chairs. Whether the rat was there by accident or design was not divulged but he certainly made good on his part of the fun.

After the entertainment, pumpkin pies and cider were served by the following ladies who assisted the entertainment committee: Carrie Fletcher, Mabel Sandron, Lee Vasa, Ina Marble, and Lizzie Vaughn. The entertainment committee was composed of the following: E. D. Robinson, chairman; George E. Menner and W. C. Nichols. Then the floor was cleared for dancing. Hubbard's orchestra furnished the music. Besides the usual two-step and waltz, several old fashioned dances such as the quadrille and lancers, the schottische and the caprice were danced. The floor marshals were William J. Jones and Thomas Donaldson.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK

Opened at the Local Federal Building Today

A branch of the postal savings system was opened at the money order department of the local post office this morning, but up to the noon hour there were few depositors and the amounts turned in were mostly for $1 certificates. It was expected that there would be a great rush of depositors on the first day, but whether it was due to the rain or indifference on the part of the people the officials at the post office seem to be greatly disappointed at the showing.

It will not be necessary to employ extra clerks to do the work as Postmaster Legare feels that the present force in the money order department will be able to handle the business in a very efficient manner. George H. Gurney is to have general charge of the new banking system, but during his absence one of the other clerks will do the work.

Information sent out by the department is given below:

1. The postal savings system is established for the purpose of providing facilities for the depositing of savings at interest with the security of the United States government for repayment.
2. The faith of the United States is solemnly pledged to the payment of deposits made in postal savings depositories with the accrued interest as provided by the postal savings act.
3. Accounts may be opened and deposits made by any person of the age of 10 years or over in his or her own name and by a married woman in her own name and free from any interference or control by her husband. No person can have more than one account at any one time.
4. No person may open a postal savings account at any postoffice who is not a patron of that office.
5. All accounts must be opened in person by the depositor or his authorized representative. After opening an account a depositor may forward subsequent deposits to the post office by mail.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

The opening of the winter season in North Chelmsford was held last night in the town hall, when the annual autumn party conducted by the members of the St. John's T. A. and Ladies' Auxiliary societies was held and like all other social functions conducted by these popular organizations proved a very delightful affair.

The hall was tastefully decorated with autumn foliage, while the orchestra was hidden from view with autumn leaves, which were intermingled with colored incandescent lights which made a pretty effect. Directly over the stage an electric moon showed forth its rays during different parts of the evening. On each side of the moon were placed the emblems of both societies.

From 8 to 8.30 a concert program was given by the Glee and Orchestra and at 8.30 general dancing started and continued until 10 o'clock when an intermission was given and ice cream was served in the lower hall. After intermission dancing was resumed and continued until 12 o'clock when a special car returned to Lowell with the many friends who were present from the city.

The success of the affair was due to the following committee: General manager James Reilly, Asst. Rea Welch, Floor Director Lillian Welch, Assistant Michael Scollan, Chief Aid Margaret Starr, Aid E. La France and F. Savoy, Reception Committee Chairman Lovetta, Jennie Lavelle, Sarsfield Talbot, Felix Sever, John Dalv, Refreshment Committee Mary Valen, the Grace Cummings and May Fallon, Secretary Arthur McEaney, Treasurer Nellie Ward.

LARCENY CHARGED

DRUG CLERK IS ACCUSED OF STEALING $1700

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—On a charge of larceny of $1700 between May 1 and Oct. 20, Harper D. Tapping, aged 26, living at 5 Hancock avenue, West End, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Lieut. Hugh Lee of Dist. Atty. Pelletier's office. Tapping went to Pemberton square by agreement and surrendered himself.

It is alleged he stole the money from the Boston Dispensary, Bennett and Ash streets, where he was employed as a clerk, and it was customary for him to collect money from persons who bought medicine. It is claimed he took the money in amounts ranging from $20 to $25.

WEDDING RECEPTION

A pretty wedding reception was held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Desautels, 21 Ward street, the event being held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edouard Paquette, the latter formerly Miss Blanche Desautels, who were married last Tuesday morning.

The couple returned yesterday afternoon from a short honeymoon trip to Boston, Chicopee Falls and Marlboro, and last night a large number of their friends gathered at the above address and showered them with congratulations and gifts. An elaborate musical program was in order, including several fine selections by the Centralville quartet. A light luncheon was served and the party broke up at a late hour. Mr. and Mrs. Paquette will make their home at 111 Ford street.

REBELS' VICTORY

Is Greater Than It Was at First Reported to be

PEKING, Oct. 21.—There is no doubt that more serious news than that of the defeat of the governmentals by the revolutionists at Hankow on Wednesday has been received here but not published. There are persistent rumors that Admiral Sals' flagship was sunk and captured.

It is reported that the rebels are now holding Hangchow at the narrowest point of the Yang Tse Kiang river and that they are also in possession of J-Chang and the railroad near Kwang Sui.

The result of Wednesday's fighting has caused a general feeling at the foreign legations that the situation is now critical.

The diplomats met yesterday and considered China's foreign financial obligations. The government has requested a postponement of the payment of the Boxer indemnity installments and is eagerly seeking a new loan.

A belated telegram from Chang Sha, capital of Hu Nan province, under date of last Wednesday, states that the fall of the city is imminent. The rebels are reported to have posted heavy artillery in a strong position in the hills north of Canton.

CONSULAR REPORTS

SAY CITY OF I-CHANG IS IN HANDS OF REVOLUTIONISTS

PEKING, Oct. 21.—There was little in the news received at the capital today to reassure the government or relieve the general feeling of uneasiness.

The American missionaries in this province, Chi Li, have been warned by students that there will be a revolutionary outbreak near Peking tomorrow. A telegram from Tien Tsin contains the ominous statement that the women of the vicerey at Tai-Nan, the capital of Shun Ting province, 160 miles south of Tien Tsin has been burned.

Consular reports from I-Chang in Hu-Peh province, which has been isolated for some days, confirm earlier rumors that the city is in the possession of the revolutionists.

2000 IMPERIALISTS

REPORTED TO HAVE JOINED THE REVOLUTIONARY ARMY

SHANGHAI, Oct. 21.—The hand lines were still down today and the only communication with Hankow was through the wireless outfits of the warships stationed along the Yang Tse Kiang river.

Refugees from Hankow arriving here today gave a somewhat different version of the first clash between the imperialists and rebels. They stated that when the revolutionists fell back to Wu Chang it was only to obtain a new supply of ammunition, whereupon they at once recrossed the river to renew the battle in a fleet of junks which had been lashed together and made a successful landing on the Hankow side under the cover of the guns of the fort and out of the range of the gunboats.

One of the government's torpedo boats was within a quarter of a mile of the rebel laden junks but did not fire a single shot.

The newcomers say that the rebels are fortifying the hills at the rear of the Hangchow steelworks. One hundred coolies are carrying baskets of earth and stone to the Taotai monastery at the summit of the hills which is being converted into a fort. The native newspapers state that after the retreat of the imperialists at Hankow 2000 surrendered and subsequently joined the revolutionary camp. This has not been confirmed.

Contributions to the revolutionary fund are being received from Borneo, Java, Burma and Siam.

FIRST PHOTOGRAPH OF DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CHAIRMAN MACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, chairman of the democratic national committee, sprung a surprise on his friends and political associates when he appeared smooth shaven at a meeting of the democratic state committee, which unanimously elected him chairman. Mr. Mack had worn a mustache for many years. The latest honor conferred upon Mr. Mack gives him the unprecedented distinction of being the official head of the democratic party in both nation and state.

DARTMOUTH TEAM

IN GOOD SHAPE TO MEET THE WILLIAMS TEAM

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 21.—Dartmouth and Williams, ancient foes in all departments of inter-collegiate sports, met here today in the annual football game between the two institutions. A large delegation of Williams students accompanied the Purple team, while a trainload of more than 300 "Old Guards" of the Hanover college came up from Boston yesterday to witness today's contest. Last year Dartmouth administered a 39 to 0 drubbing to the men from Williams-town and the Berkshire collegians came to Hanover today determined to wipe out the memory of that defeat. The field was wet and heavy, which made it appear likely that the game might be a kicking contest, although Dartmouth would prefer to play the old style football. The teams were expected to line up as follows:

Dartmouth: Daley, lg; Eickoff, lg; Whitmore, lg; Gibson, c; Bennett, rg; Englehorn, rt; Dana, ra; Hoban, qb; Barends, lb; Morey, rb; Dudley, fb.

Williams: Vinal, lg; Eickoff, lg; Whitmore, lg; Gibson, c; Bennett, rg; Englehorn, rt; Dana, ra; Hoban, qb; Barends, lb; Morey, rb; Dudley, fb.

CAMORRIST TRIAL

Lawyer Made Charges Against Fragala

VITERBO, Italy, Oct. 21.—Today's hearing of the camorrist case was a return to the vituperation and invective that characterized some of the earlier sessions of the court. Practically the entire sitting was taken up with a violent, almost ferocious hurling of accusations between the witnesses, particularly Fragala and Lawyer Lioy. The lawyer accused Fragala of being guilty with Enrico Alfano, the head of the camorra. This led to a hurricane of protest. When some semblance of order had been restored Lioy brought out another outburst by characterizing Fragala as a gambling house keeper and a debaucher of the young. Fragala replied to this by rising to his feet, grasping his chair and making ready to attack Lioy. Fragala then showed a document in an effort to prove that Lioy had tried to blackmail him and Lioy responded by heaping insults on the witness.

On the request of the crown prosecutor, the president of the court ordered that Lioy be tried next Tuesday for contempt of court.

The bride, Princess Zita, is the thirteenth child of the late Duke Robert of Parma and his second wife Marie Antonia, princess of Portugal. She was born on May 9, 1892, and has 23 brothers and sisters. She is a remarkably handsome brunette. The marriage is said to be a genuine love match. The archduke is 34, five years older than his bride. At one time it was believed he would marry Princess Victoria, the only daughter of the German emperor.

PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—Pennsylvania and Brown line up this afternoon in the first big football game of the season for either team. Pennsylvania defeated Brown last year by the score of 20 to 0 and hopes to repeat the victory today. The Providence eleven is reported to be in the best of condition and is expected to give the Pennsylvanians a stirring battle in the mud.

THIRTY VENIREMEN

Summons for the McNamara Trial Set Free

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 21.—Some thirty veniremen rejoiced today at being at liberty out of doors instead of locked up under the care of bailiffs in the McNamara murder case. Agreement of opposing counsel to proceed in examining witnesses without a full jury box enabled Judge Bordwell to excuse all veniremen not already in the box until the opening of the court Monday and only the six witnesses left at the conclusion of court yesterday were under restraint today.

There was no session of court today and Judge Bordwell found time to consider numerous recommendations offered by counsel in respect to challenges of talesmen.

The defendant James B. McNamara, was visited by his attorneys who discussed the situation with him. They also saw John J. McNamara, brother of James, and secretary of the International Association of Bridge & Structural Ironworkers, who is an attorney. To his brother "Doc" the defendant talks much about the proceedings and each day a transcript of the proceedings goes to the jail for the older man to consider. The work of whipping into shape great masses of evidence under preparation by each side was continued today.

JACQUES BOISVERT

To Build 30 Houses in West Sixth Street

Building will soon be booming in this city, especially in West Centralville, where Contractor Jacques Boisvert is soon to build some 30 houses in West Sixth street. These new houses, which will comprise cottages and double houses, will be erected on a large lot of land next to the fire station in West Sixth street and opposite St. Louis church. They will be up-to-date buildings with the latest improvements.

Another large contract is that which will soon be given out for an addition to the state armory in Westford street. Plans are now in the hands of Architect Graves and bids are called for in regard to the work. The addition is to be in the form of a wagon shed in the yard, situated in the rear of the barracks, which will hold the army wagons used by the companies in the annual tour of duty. The alterations also provide for the changing over of the indoor rifle range, from its present situation to where the bowling alleys are, and the bowling alleys will be placed where the rifle range now is. In addition to this, windows will be placed so as to provide more light and ventilation for the basement.

The following statistics of building operations in New England, which are very interesting, are compiled by the F. W. Dodge Co.

VALUABLE DOG SHOT

The Police Are Investigating the Matter

A valuable watch-dog belonging to Charles Thibault of 19 Groton street was shot in the side about 10.30 o'clock this morning and the poor animal was left to suffer until late in the afternoon when another bullet was sent into its head, ending its misery. It is alleged that the first shot was fired by the son of Robert Catherwood of 55 Epping street, who claimed that he was afraid that the dog was going to attack him. Mr. Thibault called at the police station this afternoon and reported the shooting and said he wanted the dog killed as it was suffering greatly. He said he would have killed the canine himself but he wanted to have one of the officers or Agent Richardson see the dog in order that they might substantiate his statement in case he brought the matter into the civil court in the event of the young man not settling for the dog.

According to Mr. Thibault's story, young Catherwood was shooting at a target near the right field fence at Spalding park and the loud reports of the gun caused the dog to bark, whereupon, it is said, the young man turned the gun on the dog and fired, the bullet ploughing a hole in the animal's side.

Mr. Thibault said he called on Catherwood and the latter admitted that he shot the dog, but said that he did so fearing that the dog was going to attack him.

The police will investigate the matter.

ARREST RUSSIAN

AT REQUEST OF U. S. IMMIGRATION COMMISSION

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Mystery with an international flavor enveloped Andre De Guorroski, a handsome Russian of aristocratic bearing, who was arrested here today upon his arrival from Europe on the steamer Philadelphia. The arrest was made through U. S. Immigration Commissioner Williams on private advice received from Washington.

None of the federal authorities would tell what was the charge against De Guorroski and the Russian himself declared that he had no notion why he was arrested. He said he had been in this country for 27 years and that he resides at Irvington, Va., where he has a 700-acre tobacco plantation.

The Russian suggested that he might be suspected of being a Russian revolutionist but asserted that any such charge was ridiculous. He had been in Europe six weeks, he said, but had not gone near Russia.

WOMAN FINED $15

She Threw a Milk Bottle at a Man

The session of the police court this morning was occupied almost entirely with the evidence in an assault and battery case, in which Rozalla Garsoz was fined $15 for throwing a quart milk bottle and hitting one Joseph Oziba, at 21 Lakeview avenue, last Monday evening shortly after 7 o'clock. J. Joseph O'Connor appeared for the government, and Bennett Silverblatt appeared for the defense. The case was long drawn out and several witnesses were examined for the government while a few appeared for the defense. From the evidence presented by the government it would appear that the complainant, Joseph Oziba, had been a guest boarder and roomer at the house of the defendant, last Saturday evening he claimed that he settled up his board bill with the husband of the defendant, and Monday evening he called to remove his effects. He started down the stairway when the defendant remonstrated with him, claiming that he owed her a week's board. He tried to explain to her that he had made a settlement but she would not listen and when he was leaving the house, rolling down the steps, it is alleged, she threw a milk bottle, which caught him in the back of the head and inflicted a severe scalp wound. His testimony was corroborated by three witnesses, Dr. E. G. Livingston testified to treating the wound and did not consider the same very serious.

The defendant testified that the complainant hit her, by shutting the door in her face when she had her baby in her arms, and then becoming angry she threw a stick of wood at him. The cause of the trouble she alleged was due to the fact that the complainant owed her 75 cents for one week's board and room. He had lived in her house nine weeks, and only paid for eight weeks, she said. Judge Bradley found the defendant guilty, and said: "You had better not throw being so familiar with milk bottle throwing, it is rather dangerous, and you will find yourself in serious trouble if you continue this practice." He then imposed a fine of $15, which was paid.

Larceny of Shoes

Another long drawn out case which took up more than an hour and a half of the court's time was the case of the commonwealth vs. John Sulka, charged with the larceny of a pair of shoes from one Jacob Smith. The court after listening to the testimony found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $5. J. Harvey Hill appeared for the government, and A. S. Goldman for the defense.

Was Fined $15

James A. Riley was before the court on a continuance case. He was charged with the larceny of two cans of milk from the drug store of Albert L. Fields, 1959 Corham street. The case was heard early in the week, and continued until this morning. Judge Bradley after considering the case ordered the defendant to pay a fine of $15. He appeared and was held in $200 for his appearance before the superior court.

Suspended Sentence

Patrick H. Royal was given a suspended sentence to the Massachusetts reformatory and placed upon probation.

Joseph Dorris was before the court on a probationary report and the case was continued until Monday morning. There were no $2 fines, and the probation officer was not called upon to release any simple drunks.

THE ANNUAL REUNION

Of the Graduates of Notre Dame Academy Today

Notre Dame academy in Adams street is today the scene of a pretty gathering, the event being the 10th annual reunion of the graduates of this popular institution. The affair was a most joyous one, a very large number of former pupils of the academy being present many cities of the states being represented.

The festivities began with the celebration of mass at 10 o'clock, the service being in the beautiful little chapel of the academy, Rev. Timothy Callahan of St. Patrick's church officiating. Steel was the most active issue and declined 3/4. Amal, Copper and American Smelting lost 1/4 and U. P. 1/2. Chesapeake & Ohio fell back 1 1/2. Some of the industrials made fair gains, including National Biscuit, American Ice, Allis Chalmers pfd. and American Telephone.

Most of the initial losses were recovered before the bears started attacking on the closing. That stock yielded a point to 50 1/4 and U. P. S. P. Reading and Lehigh Valley gave way nearly as much. Chesapeake & Ohio was hammered as a result of its poor annual report and lost two points.

The market closed weak. Chesapeake & Ohio extended its decline to over 3 points. Other stocks were sluggish but ruled around the low level, speculation feeling the absence of the usual over-Sunday covering movement. Pittsburgh advices that some mills had shut down for lack of orders encouraged bear selling of United States Steel.

STEAMER ASHORE

Clyde Liner Blowing Signals of Distress

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A wireless from Sandy Hook said today that the Clyde line steamer George W. Clyde, which broke down yesterday on her way from Norfolk to Newport, was ashore ten miles off Hog Island in ten and a half fathoms of water. The old Dominion liner Hamilton, which passed the disabled steamer, said she was blowing signals of distress and asking for a boat to tow her in. A wrecking tug is believed to have reached the steamer early today but on account of the difficulty of passing a line, the George W. Clyde probably will not be towed into port until the weather moderates. The Clyde left Philadelphia on Thursday, carrying freight but no passengers. Her shaft broke at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and she immediately dropped her anchors.

DEATHS

HARTNETT.—The many friends of Elizabeth J. Hartnett of Lynn, formerly of this city, will be pained to learn of her death, which occurred this morning at her home, Rollins place, Lynn, after a long illness borne with Christian fortitude. She was a woman of devout Christian character and had a legion of friends who will be grieved to hear of her untimely death. Besides her husband, James, she is survived by five children, and three sisters, Mrs. Edward McGurty, Mrs. John McFarlan, and Mrs. Thomas Wilson, also an aunt, Miss Jane Gallagher all of this city.

PROTOWSKI.—Stanislaw Protowski, aged 10 months, died Saturday morning at the home of his parents, John and Mary, 606 Market street.

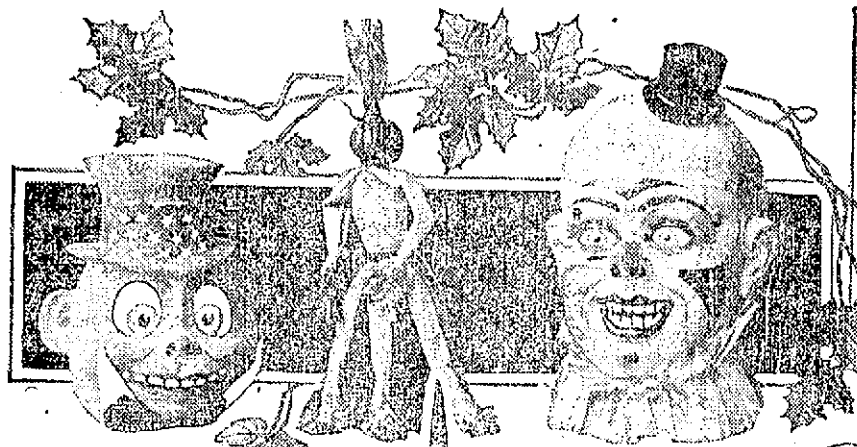

KITTREDGE.—William Kittredge, well known in this city as an actor of ability in amateur theatricals, who later played professionally and was also a singer, died Thursday at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Kittredge, at 529 Beacon street, Boston. He had been ill for about two years, never having recovered from an attack of typhoid fever with which he was stricken in November, 1909. He spent the past summer at his father's country and shore place at Little Bear's Head, N. H. Previously he had spent some time in Pittsfield and in Los Angeles, Cal., during his long illness.

Mr. Kittredge was born in Boston on Jan. 19, 1875, and received his education at the Roxbury Latin school, of which he was a graduate. He fitted for college, but did not enter, as he decided to study for the stage. He already had shown talent in his direction, as an amateur performer. He went to New York and studied under Nelson Wheatcroft and later appeared professionally in various places. He had studied the classic drama, as a part of his training, and appeared in a notable performance in Boston of Browning's "In a Balcony" together with Mrs. Frederick Briggs of Brookline, and Mrs. Alice Kent Robertson (Mrs. Quincy).

Afterward, Mr. Kittredge went abroad and for about four years played in England under the management of Louis Waller and of Beerbohm Tree. On returning to the United States he played for a time in support of Nance O'Neill. He later took up the study of singing under Sbriglia and Alger in Paris, and after his courses there he came back to Boston and had a music studio where he taught singing. He was also heard in public recitals. After a while he relinquished this and went again to Europe, where he studied for some time under Lombardi in Florence, Italy. When he next returned to the United States he opened a music studio in New York city. That was his last active work before he became ill.

Jolly Revels for Halloween Gatherings

BONBONNIERES FOR SUPPER TABLE.

THE popularity of Halloween parties has grown with each succeeding year. Like all festival days now having apparently only a secular interpretation, Halloween had a religious origin. In modern times this day has come to be regarded by old and young alike as the day par excellence on which to entertain. There are a great many ways to amuse guests, but a costume party is especially appropriate for a Halloween jollification. If the guests are not inclined to take much trouble a witch party might be given, as the costume is easy to devise, yet affords opportunity for originality.

A rather short black skirt, the peaked cap, a red or yellow cape and the essential broom and cat with a black or orange witch mask will answer every purpose. As few of the girls will care to wear their own hair hanging, make the witch locks from raveled rope, which can be dyed any desired color. Wigs can be hired, but they are not especially sanitary.

For more troublesome costumes the guests could be told to come as autumn fruits or vegetables. A clever girl can make herself fetching at small cost with crumpled papers combined with natural foliage. Among the characters should be a head of lettuce, a bunch of grapes, an ear of corn, tomatoes, radishes, pumpkin vines, potatoes and quinces. Those who do not object to grotesqueness should build out their figures to resemble in shape as well as in coloring the vegetables they represent.

Easiest of all, yet with all the fun of mystery attached, is a phantom dance where all the dancers are dressed in sheets and pillowcases and carefully masked.

WEIRD DECORATIONS FOR ROOMS.

A Halloween tableau in which children are the performers is most attractive as a means of entertaining on this mystic occasion. "The Investiture of the Midnight Queen" is a charming little picture play which may be done in a series of three tableaux.

The first picture shows the flowers of the garden (represented by girls dressed in paper costumes of autumn flower colorings) trying to select their queen. The second tableau shows the man in the moon deciding that a golden chrysanthemum shall be crowned with a chaplet of golden stars. The principal roles are enacted by the man in the moon, the pumpkin head owner of the garden and the benevolent witch of night, who wears a peaked hat strewn with stars and filled with crumpled tissue. The large illustration shows how these costume accessories may be made.

shown in the smaller cut. The hat on the head of both the clown and the Irishman may be lifted off and the bowl

low receptacle filled with confectionery, while in the case of the cornstalk cluster representing a scarecrow

the body is removable at the waist line. The pumpkin lantern and black cat are used for room decorations.

The Halloween Feast

WISDOM CAKES.

SELECT good sized dates and with icing mark the features of the owl on each cutting the ears into the dates. Press these into fresh icing placed on oblong molasses cakes and put citron on to represent branches; then form feet with chocolate icing.

HOBGOBLIN CUPS.

Serve frozen cider sherbet in the hobgoblin cups which are made of paper mache and come expressly for this purpose. Each cup bears a different expression, and green paper pumpkin leaves also can be purchased on which to serve them. If the cider is sweet then enough lemon juice should be added to give zest to the ice. When the ice is frozen to a mush add one cupful of sweet cream to each quart of cider and finish freezing.

GHOST APPLES.

Large perfect apples are cored and baked until soft, but not long enough to burst the skins. These are cooled and served singly to each person, together with a marshmallow, three cubes of sugar and a liquor glass of brandy. The marshmallows are pushed down into the bottom of the cavities left by the removal of the cores and the remaining space filled with the cubes of sugar. Upon these the brandy is poured and then lighted. It burns with a ghostly blue flame until the alcohol is consumed and the sugar melted. The apples are then eaten with cream.

THEY'RE IN THE SHOPS.

Paper cooking bags, about which so much is being talked and written, are for sale in the shops in three sizes. Fifty bags 6 1/2 by 9 inches are 25 cents, 35 bags 9 by 14 inches are 25 cents, 20 bags 11 by 19 inches are 25 cents. The bags are grease and water proof.

It's Convenient for The Bridge Party

ONE of the new conceits for the bridge player in a convenient reticule made of ribbon. Very wide satin ribbon is formed into three bags, each longer than the one above it. These bags are designed to hold the score card, tally pencil, handkerchief and, if the game is for something more substantial than prizes, a handful of gold coin. The reticule swings from the arm on ribbon loops.

A Useful Millinery Hint

WHEN a separate loop of wire is inserted in a hat bow (tortois) has an extremely annoying habit of asserting its presence by poking out. A stitch is not always advisable, as it may spoil the appearance of the bow. Here is quite a good dodge when dealing with piece silk. The loops are made the required width from a strip cut on the straight. The selvage is on one side, and the other is hemmed. Into the hem a round millinery wire is pushed before making up the loop and it gives the bow a smart, perky, up-standing appearance, keeping it exactly in the right place.

Bows wired in this way are most valuable when motor veils are worn, as they come up smiling after the crushing inevitably sustained. Though you might not think it, the bow looks smarter if the side that is hemmed (what one would naturally call the wrong side) is used for the front. It looks like a strapping slipped on, and the wire acts as a kind of piping.

FOOTWEAR EXTRAVAGANCE.

You cannot economize on your feet this season when they are so much in evidence, and, therefore, every woman will have to take up the two subjects together—the kind of suit she buys and the kind of shoes she will get to go with the suit.

Changes Slight, But Important, In the New Winter Fashions

OH, the little more and how much it is, and the little less and what worlds away." Mr. Browning was doubtless not thinking of the mutability of fashions when he penned these lines, but nothing could have been more to the point if it had been made to cover the case.

Now the present styles are just a "little more" removed in their essential features from those of the spring and summer, but "what worlds away" are they from a strictly modish viewpoint.

Take, for instance, the new skirts. The silhouette is practically the same. Still, if one looks longer one will observe a marked difference in the "lines." The straight up and down slender effects are still to be seen, but the curved in line at the knee and in the back is not in the picture. True, skirts are still narrow; no one will deny that, but they are narrower in a different way. And worse news of all, the old skirts cannot be cut over into the new models. The woman who ordered extra material last spring when her tailor made was new will now be mighty grateful for the wisdom which prompted the purchase. The fabric will come in for making wide side panels, which will bring the skirt right up to date. The edges of the panels are stitched well beyond the edges of the outer skirt; this gives the appearance of one skirt dropped over another. The panels may be of a contrasting color, but the plain tone is better sartorial form. Don't, though, put in a plaid panel. Dame Fashion does not seem to object to more fullness from the ankle up, but for some unknown reason she still puts the ban on plaits. To come back to the simulated underskirt for a moment, all sorts of ribbed silks and heavy satins are used for these underskirts, no matter how rough is the original material.

Chovlot, homespun and serge is dropped over satin without a qualm on the part of the dressmaker.

Apropos of suit materials, you will not be able to get away from ratine. What is ratine? you ask. Well just imagine a particularly silky and smooth cloth and you will be pretty close to the appearance of ratine.

There has been much agitation anent the fashionable coat length, but the ultimatum has gone forth to the effect that suit coats will range from twenty-six to thirty inches in length. Coats for three piece dressy costumes are longer—in fact, almost wrap length. And as an ornamentation you will find it hard to get away from the immense revers. It is a glorification of the sailor collar of the spring and sports itself in a mad extravagance over the front of the coat and gains in size as it sweeps the shoulders.

Strange enough, this magnificent collar is not made of velvet or in the color of the coat. White and elephant gray are the winning shades to exploit it.

For the blouse to wear with tailored suits there is a new material which is new and difficult to get even in Paris at present. It is called brure. Mme. Paquin is using this stuff for her smartest effects. It is first cousin to Turkish toweling, but the weave is silkier and the threads less coarse and the surface less uneven, but it is merely glorified crash, after all. It comes in white, tan and cream and lends itself admirably to any slight application of color needed to bring the skirt and waist of a suit into harmony. For morning blouses it is distinctly smart.

CATHERINE TALBOT.

FOR THE PANTRY.

White shelf paper with a glossy surface that can be wiped off with a damp cloth sells for 32 cents a quire. The sheets measure 25 by 38 inches.

Blouse Newness

AN EXQUISITE WAIST IN SHADES OF BLUE

THE blouse illustrated is a Paquin model for wear with coat and skirt suits. It has a kimono yoke of tucked white Chinese silk and on this is arranged the embroidered section which forms the front, a similar section forming the back. A piping of old blue silk, a silk necktie in the same shade and French dots embroidered with blue floss add brightness and color. The square motifs are made of silver braid and blue silk.

The Pampered Pet Dog of Society

THERE is a great vogue at the moment for pet dogs in Paris, and these spoiled little creatures are continually in evidence as the beloved and constant companions of the smartest and most exclusive of fair Parisiennes. The picture shows several of these pampered darlings tricked out in their up to date finery. When they go out for their daily drive the uniformed servant of the hotel carries them carefully across the pavement in luxuriously cushioned baskets to the waiting motorcar of their mistress. Tailors for dogs are not hard to find in Paris. They make gorgeous overcoats, furnished with pockets, in which tiny handkerchiefs are placed adorned with initials. For dogs that with advancing age suffer from rheumatism warm knitted woolen waistcoats are provided. Then there are special bootmakers, whose duty it is to supply fitting footwear for the canine tribe.

New Ideas In Negleesees

FASHION'S latest decree is to use two thicknesses of messaline or thin silk, white for the outside and a delicate color underneath. They are separately made and are only caught together at the hems.

They are elusive in their shadings and are trimmed with five ruffles of five inch footing. The neck is pointed in the front and the back. The sleeves are rather loose and ruffled from the elbow to the shoulder with the footing. From the point at the back of the neck there is a square bow of the silk edged with footing. Leaf green under white makes an exquisite combination.

One Sided Gowns Are Now the Fad

ONE OF THE NEWEST GOWNS.

A SOUND and round spiral effect is suggested by the arrangement of drapery on this new frock. The upper part of the bodice and the tunic are made of black and white striped taffeta silk, the bodice being of venise lace over chiffon, and the venise edged tunic falling over a skirt of chiffon ruffled with machine lace.

A Hint to the Wise

Now Is the Time to Buy or Make Christmas Presents

IT is not a bit too soon to begin making your Christmas gifts, the little personal offerings that one makes by hand.

In the art departments of the big shops there is a surprising variety of attractive stamped and made up trifles that require only a little handwork to convert them into suitable gifts. The present is a good moment to make a wise choice of these.

There are two items included under the fancy work head which seem to please women, and which there is little danger of duplicating, and these are fancy aprons and bags. Any one who has the time and can crochet well can make up any number of smart bags, ranging from the exquisite ones of fine Irish lace suitable for evening use to larger ones of heavy knotted twine lined with colored silk and useful for sewing or many home purposes.

The chafing dish apron, ruffled and of sheer material, with tiny bib, is as becoming a garment as a woman can wear, and it appeals to a man's heart as quickly as any results in cooking to which it may have contributed. Every busy housewife likes little round aprons of embroidery or dotted swiss to protect the front of her dress, and sewing aprons with pockets to hold the work are always appreciated. A new model of this sort is made of rather heavy linen cut round and with a scalloped embroidered edge. A second piece shaped and scalloped like the apron is stitched on over this and forms the pocket for the work. A ribbon belt matches the color of the embroidery.

The little schoolgirl in her early teens is apt to have very ambitious ideas as to the amount of Christmas gifts she is to give and generally finds it hard to complete them. This is the moment to give her some good advice. If she cannot be dissuaded from making a burden of Christmas, as her elders have done, let her have resource to the partly finished articles mentioned above. Here a little labor will go a long way, and the little maid's nerves will not be racked by the hopelessness of finishing her self imposed tasks.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Middlesex, ss. Probate Court. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of BRUCE G. GARD, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate by Hugh M. McDermott, and Catherine Riley, who pray that letters testamentary may be issued to them, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on their official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the eighth day of November, A. D. 1911, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be on one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all the known persons interested in the estate therein, at least before said Court.

Witness, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this sixth day of October, in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Middlesex:

Respectfully I believe and represents Margaret A. Sturtevant, of Lowell, in said County, that she is a lawful widow, married to Frank S. Sturtevant, now of parts unknown to your Honorable Court, in County of Worcester, in said Commonwealth, on the second day of July, A. D. 1911, and thereafter towards your Honorable Court and the said Frank S. Sturtevant lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth, to wit, at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex; that your Honorable Court has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said Frank S. Sturtevant, being wholly irresponsible of the said Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the first day of February, 1908, did utterly desert your Honorable Court and has continued such desertion to the time of the filing of this libel; being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your Honorable Court prays that a divorce from the said Frank S. Sturtevant be decreed between your Honorable Court and the said Frank S. Sturtevant, and that she be permitted to resume her maiden name of Margaret A. Bartoli, maiden name of Margaret A. Bartoli, having no children now alive born of said marriage.

Dated this seventeenth day of October, A. D. 1911.

MARGARET A. STURTEVANT.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Middlesex, ss. Superior Court. October 20, A. D. 1911.

Upon the libel aforesaid, it is ordered that the said Margaret A. Sturtevant do appear before your Honorable Court, on the first Monday of December next, by causing an attested copy of the libel to be filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court, and of the order thereon, to be published in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, in the County of Middlesex, once a week, three weeks successively, at least before the said last mentioned day, and that an attested copy of said libel and order thereon be served on the said Margaret A. Sturtevant, at her last known residence of the libel, that he may then and there show cause, if any he have, why the prayer in said libel set forth should not be granted.

W. M. C. DILLINGHAM, Clerk.

A true copy of the libel and of the order thereon.

Attest, W. M. C. DILLINGHAM, Clerk.
